BRITISH CAMPAIGN ENDS AMID DISORDER; MINISTRY CONFIDENT

LABOR MAKES BIG CLAIMS

FINAL APPEAL BY BALDWIN

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Premier Baldwin has just issued the following statement, to appear in tomorrow's papers:

"I appeal to my fellow-countrymen and women to give me their support today in the fight against unemployment. I ask this for their own sake and for the sake of the rising generations.

"STANLEY BALDWIN."

Tonight, in Brighton, to music of the breaking swells upon the beach of England's Atlantic City, I heard ex-Premier Lloyd George make his final appeal to the voters of England to put down the effort to end the free trade régime under which this country has prospered for eighty years.

In a few hours the voters of England will cast their ballots, and while most of the electors will probably be against the proposed tariff reform, they will at the same time give a majority to the Conservatives, who favor protection.

Never in the history of England has there been a harder-fought campaign; never one in which a more direct appeal has been made to the voters; and, after all, it may well be indecisive.

The most interesting development of the campaign has been the revelation of the enormous popularity of Mr. Lloyd George with the masses of the English people. With the Liberal Party forced to take an absolutely negative position, the chief asset of the party has been his personal strength; and if the Liberals today get ahead of the Labor Party it will be due entirely to the admiration of the English for the little Welshman.

Lloyd George's Strenuous Day.

"I went with him this evening to Brighton, now represented by two Conservatives. There are 150,000 people in Brighton, and only the halt and blind were missing from the throngs which filled the streets to catch a glimpse of the war Premier. At the Guildhall he spoke to 5,000 persons, amplifiers carrying his speech to the crowd outside. Afterward he addressed 3,000 at the Corn Exchange and then went to the top of the famous dome of the building, from which he spoke to 20,000 people, urging them to preserve the free trade which had made England economically great. He assured his hearers that protection would raise the price of everything except wages.

Earlier in the day he had spoken in Camberwell Palace, London, where he based his appeal on this idea: "Protection is madness; it is gambling with the food of the people, and I ask you to turn it down." He took the position that the protection proposals of Mr. Baldwin were a mere gamble, which England should not try. Here are some of the telling sentences from his speech:

"To scrap free trade would bring the empire crashing to the ground, and London with it.

"The proposal to overthrow at a hurried general election the system which has made London great is something statesmanship has no right to ask."

"All we are asked to do is to throw our international trade and shipping and everything else into the ring. We shall then get as our reward glittering tinsel. My appeal is to keep steady for the system upon which the prosperity of the empire has been built."

Comparing London with New York, Mr. Lloyd George said:

"Take New York: I was there a few weeks ago. New York is a wonderful city; but New York has at its back 3,000,000 square miles of the richest country on earth; it has back of it twelve times the population of London. Yet New York, with protection, has not grown like London, with free trade."

Lloyd George's Last-Minute Warning.

Late tonight the following message was issued from Liberal headquarters on behalf of Mr. Lloyd George:

"Warn my fellow-countrymen and country-women that tariffs cannot cure unemployment, but are bound to increase it. Free trade financed the war to victory, and the credit of free trade Britain is as sound as ever, while that of her protectionist allies is shaken, and that of her protectionist enemies ruined.

"No protectionist country in the world can match the social legislation of free-trade England. In a word, free trade is the sure defense of the British worker and his family against the low wages and hard conditions of protectionist Europe.

"I ask the electors of Great Britain today to stand by the system which has given their country unchallenged leadership in industry, trade and finance."

Speaking to his constituency at Bewdley this evening, Mr. Baldwin said he was out to cure the curse of unemployment and, inasmuch as he saw little prospect of the recovery of England's continental markets for some time to come, he had decided on a drastic policy

1 in 8 in Jersey Owns an Auto; Licenses Gain 90,000 in Year

William L. Dill, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner of New Jersey, announced yesterday that one of every eight persons in that State owned an automobile, and that at the present rate of registration one in every four will own a car in 1950.

He estimated that there will be an increase of 90,000 in the number of licensed operators for the year, with a total of 445,000.

MERCURY BOILER IS POWER MARVEL

EMPLOYS DOUBLE VAPOR

That of Mercury Used With That of Water in General Electric Invention.

SCHENECTADY, Dec. 6 (Associated Press).—Power from mercury vapor, making possible a double vapor power plant in which turbines for generating electricity are driven both by mercury vapor and water vapor from the same fuel source, resulting in a gain of about 50 per cent. in power per pound of fuel, is the outstanding achievement of a new boiler perfected by the General Electric Company.

The last great step in improving the efficiency of manufacturing power was the replacement of the reciprocating engine by the steam turbine. The invention of the mercury vapor boiler is regarded as a greater step in the progress of science.

The modern steam turbine is about 40 per cent. more efficient than the best reciprocating engines, but according to W. L. R. Emmet, consulting engineer for the General Electric Company and inventor of the new process, the mercury boiler is more than 50 per cent. more efficient than the best steam turbine. The mercury boiler is still considered on experiment, but, like all great steps in advance, time will be required to develop and perfect a system before this process can be expected to reflect on the operating costs of public utilities.

Mr. Emmet estimates that if the mercury boiler comes up to all expectations it will produce with thirty-five pounds gauge pressure, when compared with a steam turbine generating plant which uses 200 pounds steam pressure, about 52 per cent. more output in electricity per pound of fuel. "And if," Mr. Emmet adds, "in such a plant the boiler room is re-equipped with furnaces and mercury apparatus arranged to burn 18 per cent. more fuel, the station capacity with the same steam turbines, condensers, auxiliaries, water circulation, &c., would be increased about 80 per cent."

The mercury vapor process involves the vaporization of mercury in a boiler, driving of a turbine by the mercury vapor and the condensation of the exhaust in a condenser where its latent heat is delivered to water and thus used to generate steam at pressure suitable for use in existing steam plants.

"Naturally," Mr. Emmet explained, "the question which will arise in connection with this mercury process is the danger from mercurial poisoning, either to the community or to the attendants. In the first place, all joints are welded so that it is impossible for mercury to escape except through accident, and arrangements are such that leakage, if it should occur, will go into the stack, where it can do no harm."

MRS. COOLIDGE TO SEE PROPHET OF HER RISE

She Laughed at F. G. Hall in 1920, Jesting About Game of Solitaire in White House.

SANBORNVILLE, N. H., Dec. 5.—Frank G. Hall of this town announced today that he was about to accept an invitation by Mrs. Coolidge to visit the White House in accordance with an election prophecy which he made in 1920.

When President Harding was elected Hall said he predicted to Mrs. Coolidge, his acquaintance of many years' standing, that she would one day be the "First Lady of the Land." Mrs. Coolidge, he said, laughed and replied:

"If I am, I'll teach you how to play solitaire on the gold piano in the East Room of the White House."

The President's wife now insists on paying this forfeit, Hall said.

BERLIN SEEKS LEAVE TO RAISE BOND LOAN FOR WINTER FOOD

This Would Have Priority Over Reparations, So Allied Commission Must Assent.

WON'T EXCEED $70,000,000

HUGHES IS READY TO AGREE

No Objection Expected by Britain, but France and Belgium Oppose Priority.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The German Government is planning to ask permission of the Reparation Commission to float a loan which would be used for the purchase of foodstuffs to be used in Germany during the coming Winter, it was learned here today. This loan, it was stated, would be made through private sources and not from any of the Governments which will be approached and whose consent will be necessary before any such priority claim against reparations can be floated by Germany.

The American unofficial observer with the Reparation Commission, Colonel James A. Logan Jr., will, it was stated at the State Department, be informed that this Government sees no objection to a loan being made for the purpose indicated. The amount of the loan, according to the advices received here, will not exceed $70,000,000 and may be considerably less than that figure. The money obtained from the bond sales is to be used as a revolving fund.

The unanimous consent of the Reparation Commission is necessary under the Treaty of Versailles before Germany will be permitted to negotiate this loan to which priority over reparations payments will have to be given, as otherwise it would not be possible to sell the bonds to the public either in this country, where, it is understood, about half of them probably would be floated, or in England, where the balance would be raised.

The German Government, through its Ambassador in London, has presented the matter to the British Foreign Office in order to obtain the needed agreement of that Government to the proposal. It is generally believed that there will be no opposition in that quarter to a loan comparatively small in size, the purpose of which is to buy foodstuffs to feed the German people.

That there is a shortage in Germany has been known for some time past through official reports, and it has been expected that the United States in some way would be called on to aid in helping to provide the food which will be needed this coming Winter.

France and Belgium Opposed.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—France opposes any American credits in foodstuffs to Germany superseding reparations as a first mortgage on anything of value in Germany.

The French suggest that the United States take German property seized and sequestered in America during the war as security to cover the amount advanced to Germany as credit for wheat and other foodstuffs.

But it is suggested here that Washington might better join the Allies in insisting that the Berlin Government take necessary measures to force the farmers to sell and distribute their surplus crops to city dwellers, as enough food exists in Germany to feed everyone if the agricultural regions divide up with the urbanites.

It was learned that Colonel Logan, the American unofficial member of the Reparation Commission, is now sounding out the commission on behalf of Herbert Hoover as to whether it will consent to waive its priority claims on Germany in favor of American food credits. It is asserted here that domestic conditions in America dictate Mr. Hoover's scheme to send millions of bushels of wheat to Germany this Winter, thus taking up the Western farmers' surplus.

The British have not yet indicated their attitude pending the election, but both France and Belgium oppose the move.

Reports of a new plan for a loan to Germany, caused bankers here yesterday to speculate as to how it could be floated.

The present reports are additional to a score of German loan rumors, the amounts varying from $15,000,000 to 1,000,000,000 gold marks (approximately

M. T. Pyne Jr. Leaves $1,000,000 in Securities To His Widow and $100,000 to Princeton

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 5.—Under the will of Moses Taylor Pyne Jr., admitted to probate by Chancellor Walker in the Prerogative Court today, his widow received $1,000,000 in securities and a trust fund of one-half of his residuary estate, from which she will receive the income. The value of the estate is not given. In memory of his father, Mr. Pyne gave the trustees of Princeton University $100,000.

Mr. Pyne died in New York City Nov. 17. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Agnes Griswold Pyne, and a daughter, Agnes Landon Pyne, 8 years old.

The bequest of $1,000,000 to the widow is in lieu of dower interests. The will was dated Aug. 24, 1921. Mrs. Pyne, Percy R. Pyne 2d, a brother, and William Van Rensselaer of New York City are executors and will serve without bond. The legacy to Mrs. Pyne is to be made up by transferring to her securities of the value of $1,000,000 computed at the market value. In the selection of the securities the executors are to be governed by the wishes of Mrs. Pyne.

Two trust funds for the residuary estate are created. From one fund Mrs. Pyne is to receive the income for life, in quarterly payments. Percy R. Pyne 2d is trustee. The income from the second half of the residuary estate will go to his daughter until she reaches her twenty-first birthday.

Mr. Pyne's father was a liberal benefactor of Princeton University during his lifetime. One of the university buildings bears his name.

Sergeant Woodfill, Greatest Hero of the War, Will Be Retired This Month After Promotion

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Sergeant Samuel Woodfill of B Company, Eleventh Infantry, who was selected by General Pershing as the outstanding hero of the World War, and as a body bearer at the burial of the Unknown Soldier, will be retired this month with the grade of master sergeant, after serving thirty-three years in the army. The retired pay will be $133.86 a month.

The promotion was approved today by Major Gen. J. H. McRae, Corps Area Commander, Fort Hayes, Ohio. It raises Sergeant Woodfill to the highest non-commissioned grade in the army. As there is no such vacancy in the Eleventh Infantry, three non-commissioned officers of that grade, offered to step down so that Woodfill might be promoted and retired as a master sergeant. These officers are Sergeant Major Sewell, Sergeant McLaughlin and Sergeant Acker. Colonel Dean, the regimental commander has still to select the one to be reduced.

Sergeant Woodfill rose to the rank of captain during the World War. His decorations include the Congressional Medal of Honor (United States), the Cross of Merit of War (Italy), the decoration of Chevalier, Legion of Honor (France), and the Order of Fifth Degree Prince Danilo (Montenegro). His Congressional Medal of Honor citation follows in part:

"For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy at Cunel, France, Oct. 12, 1918. While he was leading his company against the enemy, his line came under heavy machine-gun fire, which threatened to hold up the advance. Followed by two soldiers at twenty-five yards, this officer went out ahead of his first line toward a machine-gun nest and worked his way around its flank, leaving the two soldiers in front.

"When he got within ten yards of the gun it ceased firing, and four of the enemy appeared, three of whom were shot by Lieutenant Woodfill. The fourth, an officer, rushed at Lieutenant Woodfill, who attempted to club the officer with his rifle. After a hand-to-hand struggle, Lieutenant Woodfill killed the officer with his pistol. His company thereupon continued to advance."

While he is attached to the Eleventh Infantry, Sergeant Woodfill has been on duty until recently with the Tenth Infantry at Fort Thomas, Kentucky.

CITY CO-OPERATION ON TRANSIT PLEDGED

FEUD ON PROBLEM ENDS

Cheers Greet News From McAneny, Harkness and Acting Mayor at Civitan Club Lunch.

Acting Mayor Murray Hulbert, Chairman George McAneny of the Transit Commission and Transit Commissioner Leroy Harkness told the members of the Civitan Club at luncheon at the Hotel Martinique yesterday that the city and the Transit Commission were co-operating in the most helpful spirit in attempting to work out a solution of the municipality's transit difficulties. Their remarks were greeted with cheers.

Mr. McAneny praised the "splendidly helpful spirit of co-operation" prevailing between the city and the Transit Commission, and said he was confident that the city and the commission would work out an acceptable plan for new subways that would also meet with the approval of the operating companies. A good start had been made at the conferences now going on, he said, and he declared that Mr. Hulbert's assistance and that of the other city officials has been of great value. Mr. Hulbert, he said, had taken the leadership in the work, and he was a most satisfactory man to work with.

Acting Mayor Hulbert, who was expected at a meeting of the Board of Estimate, where action on transit was on the calendar, spoke briefly. He said that he came to the luncheon as a tribute to Mr. McAneny, and added: "I came also to record the fact that he and his associates and I and my associates are working in harmonious co-operation for some real results in the way of a solution of the traffic problem."

Mr. McAneny spoke of the need for more subways, of the necessity for rehabilitating the elevated lines, and of the use of improved surface cars and buses. He pointed out that two and a half billion rides were paid for last year on the subway lines, making a daily collection of 7,500,000 nickels.

Conditions in the subway, he said, had reached a point where indecency was almost a danger, but still the crowds keep coming. The crying need, Mr. McAneny explained, was for new trunk lines to care for the traffic from the existing feeder lines, the carrying capacity of which could be doubled if necessary.

Referring to the building of new lines, Mr. McAneny favored a four-track system as more economic in the long run. It would be easier to build four tracks than to expand a two-track system, he said.

William A. Prendergast, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, paid a tribute to Mr. McAneny, and spoke of the work of the commission in connection with the up-State traction lines. Referring to the 5 cent fare, he said he never had been able to understand the mystic significance of 5 cents when applied to a business. While in the upper sections of the State nobody wanted to pay more than 3 or 5 cents, there was an intelligent understanding that the revenues of the companies must be proportionate to the demands on them, and added that up-State fares averaged 7 cents a ride.

George W. Ochs Oakes, President of the club, presided. Among those present were President W. S. Menden, Travis H. Whitney and James Sherlock Davis, directors of the B. M. T.

A way to "stagger" the hours for opening and closing of matinees to relieve the afternoon subway crush, will be explained to theatre owners tomorrow afternoon by A. L. Merritt, superintendent of the Subway Division of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, at a meeting of the Producing Managers' Association.

Two months ago Mr. Merritt brought to the attention of Augustus Thomas, President of the association, the feasibility of co-operation in this direction on the part of the theatre men, pending development of new subway facilities.

Mr. Merritt would do away with the present custom of having all matinees end at once. He holds that this imloads upon the subway equipment an additional burden at an hour when it is more than taxed with the homeward rush of workers. He proposes that theatres, instead of all starting at 2:15 P. M. and letting out at 4:45 or 5 P. M., schedule anew so that matinees will be letting out at five-minute intervals over a stretch of thirty to forty-five minutes.

2 YEARS AND $10,000 IS KESSLER PENALTY

Emanuel H. Kessler, called "King of the Bootleggers," and nine of his associates, who were convicted on Tuesday of having conspired to violate the prohibition act, were sentenced to prison terms yesterday by Federal Judge Winslow. The eleventh man, Mark Aron, was so overcome when he heard the verdict that he was unable to appear in court yesterday. He will be sentenced later. After the sentences had been imposed Major John Holley Clark Jr., who prosecuted the case for the Government, told some of his friends of an offer of $100,000 to so conduct the inquiry that Kessler and his associates would be freed. He would not discuss the offer beyond saying that it had come through a "lawyer friend."

Kessler and his partner, Morris Sweetwood, were sentenced to two years' imprisonment and fined $10,000 each. Morray N. Birnbaum, owner of the warehouse where some of the illegally withdrawn whisky and champagne was stored, and Morris M. Becher, a lawyer, received the same term.

Millard J. Friedberg, who with Aron, was a partner in Hartman, Goldsmith & Co., importers of the liquor, was sentenced to prison for a year and a day. Joseph M. Fox, known as "Joe the Book," was sentenced to four months. Jack Goldman and Ben Katz, owners of restaurants here and on Long Island, were each sentenced to six months. Albert Bloch to sixty days and John R. Maxwell, believed to be only a tool of Kessler's, was sentenced to thirty days. Later this was reduced to ten days.

Bootleggers Swarm in Court.

The sentences were pronounced in a courtroom crowded to suffocation by men described by the court attendants as the "cream of the bootlegging craft." Fifteen Deputy Marshals, who had brought the convicted men from the Tombs, moved constantly through the crowd on the alert for any hostile word. Motions to set aside the verdict and for a new trial were denied, and then William M. K. Olcott, chief counsel for the defense, made a plea for clemency on behalf of Kessler and Sweetwood, whom he described as "not the ordinary type of lawbreakers." Counsel for other of the defendants made similar pleas. That made on behalf of Becher was to the effect that he was a lawyer and that his conviction automatically disbarred him and deprived him of the power of earning his living by his profession.

Major John Holley Clark Jr., the prosecutor, destroyed the effect of this plea by stating that Becher had once pleaded guilty to smuggling, and had failed to pay a penalty of $9,000 imposed for that offense. Pleas in behalf of the smaller convicts were based on the assertion that they were only tools of Kessler and his close associates. Judge Winslow said that the prisoners, if they behaved themselves in prison, would soon be free through the ending of their punishments, or by parole. Those given terms in the Atlanta Penitentiary are eligible for parole in nine months, and to commutation of six days for every month served.

Writs of Error Obtained.

Later in the day an application was made to the Circuit Court for bail pending argument on an appeal. Haste was made because the day was drawing to a close and counsel for the convicted men did not want them to spend another night in the Tombs. They asked the court for a writ of error and Mr. Olcott, arguing for it, contended that two of the counts in the indictment were invalid and said that the proof furnished during the trial indicated that the 4,000 cases of Scotch whisky and 295 cases of champagne were imported in September, 1921, six months before the alleged conspiracy.

George L. Donnellan, representing other of the convicted men, stated that his clients had been erroneously convicted. United States District Attorney Hayward described Kessler and Sweetwood as the biggest bootleggers in the country, and asserted that they had a large organization which had continued operating even after the indictment against the two had been found and all

CRAIG REPEATS HIS ATTACK ON MAYER; 'PARDONED,' HE SAYS

Declares He Never Admitted Falsity of Charge in Letter to Nixon.

ASSAILS DAUGHERTY, TOO

ACTION TAKEN IN CONGRESS

Controller Charles L. Craig issued a statement yesterday in which he repeated the charges against Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer in connection with the B. R. T. receivership, which he originally made in 1919, and for which he was convicted and sentenced for contempt of court. Mr. Craig made yesterday's statement after receiving a copy of President Coolidge's order remitting his sentence. The Controller charged that the statements contained in his letter to former Public Service Commissioner Nixon, which formed the basis of the contempt, were absolutely true and denied that he had ever admitted the falsity of these statements.

Mr. Craig also declared that the receivers appointed by Judge Mayer in the B. R. T. and other transit cases are still in exclusive possession of the original sources of information about those properties. It was the charge that the city could not get this information in 1919 to which Judge Mayer chiefly objected, according to his decision holding Craig guilty of contempt.

The Controller added the allegation yesterday that the B. R. T. receivership case should have been brought before the Federal Court in Brooklyn, but that there evidently had been a preconceived plan to bring it in New York so that the conduct of the receivership should be vested in Judge Mayer. He declared that the receiverships of the B. R. T., New York Railways Company and the various Manhattan surface lines were all characterized by attempts to put through fare increases.

Mr. Craig charged that Attorney General Daugherty, in his recommendation to President Coolidge, sought to aid Judge Mayer in repressing free speech and freedom of the press. He charged the Attorney General with political cowardice, falsehood, vilification and subterfuge.

The Controller asserted that the President's order was a pardon pure and simple, despite the use of the word "remit" instead of "pardon," and that he had the right to accept or refuse it as he saw fit. He declined to say whether he would accept it or would try "to break into jail." Mr. Craig and his attorney, Edmund L. Mooney, were conferring last night on the Controller's future course.

Text of Craig's Statement.

Mr. Craig's statement follows:

"Late this afternoon Controller Craig received by telephone from Washington a copy of the pardon granted by President Coolidge, which was signed by him after 4 o'clock and which, it was stated in Washington, will be transmitted by special messenger for delivery to the Controller.

"Contrary to all of the statements of Attorney General Daugherty, the document is an unconditional and unqualified pardon by the President. No reference of any kind is made to the Attorney General or any recommendation by him. There is nothing whatever in it to indicate or imply that the President has even so much as heard from Mr. Daugherty. The form of the pardon is practically identical with that used by every President from Washington down to the present time and follows the forms used from the days of Magna Charta.

"These forms sometimes contain the word 'pardon,' sometimes contain the word 'remission' and sometimes both. It is a matter of verbiage and not of substance. Whatever the language, the instrument is a pardon. In the present case it is free from conditions. President Coolidge is careful to point out that the decision of the Supreme Court merely sustained Judge Mayer on the question of jurisdiction, as distinguished from the merits.

Quotes President's Order.

CALVIN COOLIDGE,
The President of the United States of America.

A Million Persons Will Hear Coolidge's Voice When He Addresses Congress This Afternoon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The voice of President Coolidge, addressing Congress tomorrow, will be carried over a greater portion of the United States and will be heard by more people than the voice of any man in history.

Arrangements were completed tonight for broadcasting the President's address as delivered in the chamber of the House of Representatives through six powerful radio stations and it is expected by the engineers in charge that fully a million persons will hear Mr. Coolidge speak.

The broadcasting will begin at 12 o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, when the House meets, and prior to the appearance of the President, about 12:20 o'clock, the time will be taken up by an announcer, who will describe the assembling of the Senate and House in joint session, the appearance of the galleries and the formalities incident to the President's appearance.

The stations which will participate in the broadcasting and the wave lengths to be used are: WEAF, American Telephone and Telegraph Company, New York City, 492 metres; WCAP, Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, Washington, 469; WJAR, Outlet Company, Providence, R. I., 360; WDAF, Kansas City Star, Kansas City, Mo., 411; KSD, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, St. Louis, 546, and WFAA, Dallas News, Texas, 476.

Would Move Betsy Ross House To Park to Avert Loss

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—The old Betsy Ross house, birthplace of the American flag, will be removed bodily to Fairmount Park or the Parkway, if the suggestions of Mayor Moore are carried out by the City Council.

In his message to the Council yesterday Mayor Moore pointed out that the Betsy Ross house is in constant danger from fire and new building construction, and urged that greater care be taken of it.

"The Betsy Ross house should be reserved not necessarily by tearing away the great structures that have been reared around it," said the Mayor, "but by removing it to Fairmount Park or one of the triangular plots on the Parkway, or to some other space where it might be viewed by the people with more satisfaction than they can view it today."

The message pointed out that the buildings of the Independence Hall group have been restored to their original condition and safeguards have been thrown around them until the menace from fire has been reduced to a minimum.

COOLIDGE WILL TELL DAKOTANS HIS VIEWS

HIS SUPPORTERS JUBILANT

But Johnson and Norbeck Declare Former Will Win in March Primary Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Supporters of President Coolidge for the Republican nomination were jubilant today over the action of the South Dakota Proposal Convention, which voted yesterday to propose him as the choice of the State Republicans for the nomination. An official close to the President said he regarded the action of the convention as "an outstanding expression of what the rank and file of Republicans throughout the country feel."

"Coming, as it does," this official added, "from a spot far removed from all pressure and without the employment of any steam-roller tactics, the action of the South Dakota convention is most impressive."

Senator Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, a Johnson supporter, declared the action of the convention was without significance, as the men who voted the President the preference represented less than 3 per cent. of the Republican voters. If the election were held tomorrow, Senator Norbeck said, Johnson would sweep the State.

Coolidge to Send Thanks.

Friends of the President, however, refused to concede the endorsement was without significance, and it was stated at the White House that in due time Mr. Coolidge would send a letter of thanks to the South Dakota party leaders. It is generally believed that in this letter the President will indicate his attitude toward next year's campaign and some of the issues on which it will be fought. The White House will make no official statement, it is announced, until an official report of the action of the convention is received.

Senator Hiram Johnson, who will campaign in South Dakota after the holidays, said the action of the convention "meant nothing," adding that he was delighted at the prospect of a battle with the President for the delegation.

"Four years ago I had not a single vote in the South Dakota convention," said Mr. Johnson. "Yesterday, without effort of any sort, I had more than one-third of the delegates. My candidacy was contemporaneous with the selection of delegates, and, of course, nothing prior to that time was done in my behalf, while for more than two months the most intensive work had been done for the President.

"I'm delighted with the situation. Mr. Coolidge and I will now contend in practically the first direct primary, in March, in South Dakota. Yesterday decided nothing. The Republicans of South Dakota themselves will make their choice in March and I am entirely confident of the result.

Norbeck Explains the Law.

"The South Dakota law," said Senator Norbeck, "is very complicated and requires some explanation in view of the results announced in the papers this morning. Under the law each party has its convention the same day at the State Capitol. Each convention nominates a ticket to be submitted to the people in a State-wide primary which is held in March. The convention, or

GILLETT IS ELECTED AS RADICALS CLINCH VICTORY ON RULES

SPEAKER GETS 215 VOTES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Through the agreement reached between the Radical Progressives and the old-line Republicans last night that opportunity would be given to change the rules of the House, Frederick H. Gillett was elected Speaker today on the ninth ballot, after a fight that began Monday morning.

Immediately after the election the House proceeded with its organization and notified President Coolidge that it was ready for business. The President will appear and deliver his address at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. It was impossible to arrange for him to be present at the Capitol today. The Senate, having no official knowledge that the House would organize, met and adjourned quickly.

On the floor of the House Representative Nelson, the leader of the insurgents, read a statement of the arrangements which he made last night with Representative Longworth, the Republican leader, by which amendments may be submitted to the rules. This may be taken under consideration by the Rules Committee and will be voted on by the full membership after thirty days, during which time the old rules are to apply in the House. Insinuations made on the floor that the statement read by Mr. Nelson was not an epitome of the actual compact were repudiated by leaders on both sides of the controversy.

Gillett Receives 215 Votes.

Mr. Gillett was elected by 215 votes to 197 for Finis J. Garrett, the Democratic leader. Fifteen of those who had voted for Henry Cooper of Wisconsin went to the regular Republican candidate, but Messrs. Kvale and Wefald of Wisconsin, who had been in the Cooper ranks, voted "present," as did Victor Berger, the Socialist, and Mr. Garrett. Three of the five backers of Martin B. Madden of Illinois also swung to Gillett, but James of Michigan and Reid of Illinois voted for Madden again, these being the only ballots for him. The Democrats voted solidly for Garrett. The organization of the House proceeded after the Speakership election.

Under the present plans, the House, after hearing the President tomorrow, will adjourn for three days, during which time committee assignments will be made. The Republican Committee on Committees will meet Friday and proceed to name men for the most important committees, including that on appropriations, which is expected to be ready for work Monday.

The Democratic ratio in the House will be arranged by the Committee on Committees so that minority leaders may submit their suggestions for Democrats to be appointed. As the House can transact no business until the committees are reporting bills to the floor, the plan is to have three-day recesses until the machinery is grinding out prospective legislation. It may be that these recesses will continue until Christmas.

By virtue of the agreement no objection was made by the Radical Progressives when Representative Snell of New York, the coming Chairman of the Rules Committee, proposed that the present rules go into effect for a month. The insurgents discussed with Mr. Nelson, Mr. LaGuardia of New York and Mr. Woodruff of Michigan, the talk which those three had with Representative Longworth last night. It was decided to put in writing a statement of the agreement which would be read on the floor and thus have official acknowledgment from the Republicans.

Nelson Reads Agreement.

When the House members met and were called to order, Mr. Nelson read the statement as follows:

"A committee of the Progressive group of the House, consisting of Messrs. Woodruff and LaGuardia and myself, met with Majority Leader Longworth last evening and discussed the proposed procedure for a revision of the rules of the House. At this meeting mutual assurances were given that the following program would be carried out:

"1. That the rules of the Sixty-seventh Congress should be adopted as the rules of the Sixty-eighth Congress for thirty days only.

"2. That during these thirty days amendments to the rules may be offered by any member, to be referred to the Committee on Rules, which committee shall consider such amendments and make a report thereon to the House.

"3. Within such thirty days the committee shall make a report of the rules and such amendments as they recommend. The rules and amendments as reported by the committee shall be subject to reasonable discussion, amendment and record votes of the House.

"4. When the committee shall have made its report, any member of the House shall have opportunity to offer amendments to any rules of the House and may call for a record vote thereon, whether such rule has been included in the report of the committee or not.

"5. One motion to recommit shall be in order."

Mr. Nelson told the House that the statement which he read had been approved by Mr. Longworth and Mr. Snell.

"I want to ask if the gentleman from Ohio, Mr. Longworth, agrees to it?" asked Representative Garner of Texas.

"As far as I am concerned I agree to the interpretation of what the House will have an opportunity to do in regard to it," was Mr. Longworth's reply.

"But I want to know also if the gentleman from Wisconsin, Mr. Nelson, submitted willingly to this outrage," persisted Mr. Garner, amid laughter.

Cooper Opposes Obstruction.

The election of the Speaker was next in order, but Mr. Cooper gained the floor.

"I am in hearty accord with the announcement of Mr. Nelson," he said. "If any other agreement was suggested by any one it was never made so public that I or any other member heard of it. We do not wish to be put in the attitude of deliberately obstructing—for what might be characterized as petti-fogging purposes—the business of the House.

"We, the so-called Progressives of Cannon days, made a fight then, not because we ceased to be Republicans, not because we were anarchists or bandits, but because we wished to give the representatives of the American people a chance to express themselves. That is all we wish to do now.

"All that we have sought was a reasonable and fair opportunity to propose amendments, not to coerce amendments, but to have a reasonable and fair discussion of our proposals. That is representative government and anything else is tyranny."

Madden Asks for Harmony.

Representative Begg of Ohio asked Mr. Cooper for the privilege of an interruption, but Mr. Cooper declined. Then Mr. Anderson demanded the regular order, in an attempt to displace Mr. Cooper. Mr. Blanton of Texas objected to this demand, and in the midst of a little turmoil Mr. Madden said:

"I hope no technical objection will be introduced to any statement the gentleman from Wisconsin wishes to make. No good purpose can be served at this juncture by trying to shut somebody off from any statement which will shed light upon the present condition. If we can have harmony, in God's name let's have it."

This statement met with applause from the Republican side of the Chamber, but the Democrats broke into derisive laughter.

"I think I had a right under the circumstances, in view of the maledictions, and I may almost say curses, heaped upon the heads of the men who put me up for Speaker without my consent, to say a word in extenuation of their offense," finished Mr. Cooper.

Mr. Wood of Indiana told the House that there was nothing in the statement by Mr. Nelson but what in substance and in fact was embodied in a resolution which the proposed Rules Committee Chairman, Mr. Snell, had in his pocket for more than a week, ready to be offered when opportunity afforded.

The roll-call then proceeded. The Cooper men voting for Mr. Gillett were: Messrs. Beck, Browne, Frear, Lampert, Nelson, Peavey, Schafer and Schneider, all of Wisconsin; Clague, Davis, Keller and Knutson, all of Minnesota; LaGuardia of New York and Sinclair of North Dakota. Of the Madden men, Messrs. King and Michaelson, both of Illinois, and Woodruff of Michigan went to Gillett.

Garrett Felicitates Gillett.

Mr. Gillett was escorted to his seat by Messrs. Longworth, Garrett, Madden and Cooper. Mr. Garrett made a short speech in which he said that the Speaker was "a gentleman by birth, breeding and culture, a legislator of long experience and fine capacity, a robust partisan, but a polite one, and a presiding officer honest and fair." Members on both sides of the Chamber rose and cheered the Speaker, while the galleries joined in the applause.

"I am deeply appreciative and grateful for your action, and I hope this cordial greeting means a genuine friendliness and good-will, which I heartily reciprocate," said Mr. Gillett. "This honor to me is the greatest and most acceptable which the world could give, and my gratitude is correspondingly great. I think the best way for me to show it is to try to perform faithfully and conscientiously the duties of the office. That I promise to do.

"Since the Speaker ceased to be Chairman of the Committee on Rules I think there has been a steady tendency that he should be more and more a judicial officer, and I think that I shall be carrying out the wishes of those who elected me if I endeavor fairly and with my best judgment to apply the rules of parliamentary law and to interpret them as I believe they should be interpreted without favor and without malice, so that every man shall have the rights which the rules give him, and that this may be a Government of law and not of men.

"The country is waiting for legislation. We are still suffering from the disorganization and stimulant of the war. Production has been unnaturally forced into unnatural channels and into unnatural proportions, and the entire equilibrium has not been restored. If there is any legislation which will help to bring us back to complete normal prosperity, we ought to find and apply it.

"The close division of parties in this Congress and the approaching Presidential election will naturally tend to produce more than the usual party spirit, and will not be apt to conduce to that poise and calmness which we all know tends to good legislation. Let us remember that fact. Let us try to preserve the equanimity and the dignity and mutual respect and forbearance becoming to this House and which will produce here the best results."

After the Speakership election the House proceeded to re-establish by a majority vote all the officers who served last year, including William Tyler Page, the Clerk. The Democrats submitted a minority ticket. This being disposed of, Mr. Longworth paid a tribute to Mr. Garrett.

"I congratulate the Democrats," he said, "upon their wisdom in selecting their leader. He is courageous, kindly, good-natured, a splendid orator, a fine debater, an expert parliamentarian, and as my friend, Mr. Madden, suggests, pre-eminently an honorable man. I can say after my twenty years' association with him that he is a scholar and a gentleman."

The customary resolutions notifying the President and the Senate that the House was ready for business were then passed. Mr. Longworth, Mr. Green of Iowa and Mr. Garrett being named to visit Mr. Coolidge.

There was a diversion from the regular order when members, in response to an introduction to John R. Quinn, the new Commander of the American Legion, arose and applauded him as he stood in the gallery with Representative Lineberger of California.

GOMPERS HAILS RULE CHANGE.

He Hopes That House Concession Is an Opening Wedge.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—"With others I rejoice in the victory that has been won over obsolete rules in the House of Representatives," said Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, today.

"Today the announcement made after two days of deadlock that the majority had at the outset intended such a revision will cause much amusement, no doubt," Mr. Gompers continued, "but the fact is the credit for the victory cannot be taken from the men who stood fast in the fight for a long needed liberalization of the rules. I hope this is but the forerunner of further successes for constructive measure in the House and also in the Senate.

"There is no doubt that the men who have made the fight for more democratic rules represent in general the spirit of the masses of our people in regard to needed legislative measures."

PROTEST ON SEATING TWO FROM ILLINOIS

Miller, Rep., and Buckley, Dem., Are Sworn In, but an Inquiry on Miller Is Promised.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Representatives Miller, Republican, and Buckley, Democrat, were sworn in as members of the House from Illinois today after protests had been made.

Mr. Rainey, Democrat, also of Illinois, sought to have charges against Mr. Miller investigated by a committee of seven members appointed by the House, but a compromise was reached when Messrs. Longworth and Garrett, the majority and minority leaders, agreed to have the question go before one of the three election committees.

Mr. Rainey said that the charges were contained in a petition signed by seven citizens of the Twenty-second Illinois District. It alleged that Mr. Miller in furthering his candidacy grossly misappropriated a large trust fund committed to his charge by the Legislature of Illinois. At that time he was State Treasurer.

Mr. Britten, Republican, of Illinois, objected to the seating of Mr. Buckley as a member from the Sixth District, but withdrew the protest after the House had voted to seat Mr. Miller.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Charges that Representative Edward E. Miller, Republican, former Illinois State Treasurer, had filed election expense accounts showing that he spent $850, but that he actually spent $63,185, were contained in the protest against the seating of Miller, filed today at Washington by Representative Rainey of Chicago.

The protest was based on charges in a petition presented to Mr. Rainey by citizens of the Twenty-second Illinois District, who alleged that Mr. Miller disbursed $63,185 of State funds in three counties, all in the Twenty-second District, although there are 102 counties in the State. It is charged that out of a total allowance for two years of $160,000, Miller spent $63,000 in the three counties of his district as fees for the investigation of inheritance tax collateral.

The protest against the seating of Buckley of Chicago as representative of the Sixth District was made by Representative Britten, on behalf of former Congressman James J. Gorman, whose defeat by forty-two votes was shown by the returns as certified by county officials last year. It is based on general allegations of fraud in the election. Howard A. Brundage, attorney, said today. Mr. Brundage said that the margin of forty-two votes out of 118,000 cast was so close as to warrant a contest, but that photographic copies of tally-sheets showed that Mr. Gorman "should have received a substantial majority over Buckley."

SCRAMBLE FOR COMMITTEES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Many of the new Democratic Senators, according to talk in the Senate office building, are far from modest in the matter of requests for committee assignments. Most of them want to go to the Foreign Relations Committee, it is said, and the rest are willing to serve on the Finance Committee.

There are four Democratic vacancies on Foreign Relations and two on Finance. Three of the new members of Foreign Relations probably will be Senators Underwood, Walsh of Montana and Robinson. Senators Reed of Missouri and Owen of Oklahoma are candidates for the fourth place, and all the other candidates are newcomers.

One of the Finance places will go to Senator Harrison of Mississippi. The other is still open and there is a free-for-all contest going on in the effort to land it.

Magnus Johnson is reported to be a candidate for Foreign Relations. He has a world peace plan which, it is said, he wants to put before the committee, details of which have not been made public.

WOULD RETURN ROADS TO PRE-WAR STATUS

Senator Capper Drafts a Bill to Repeal 'Fair Return' Clause and Abandon Consolidation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Senator Capper, Republican of Kansas, Chairman of the Senate farm bloc, is preparing a bill to repeal the "fair return" section of the Transportation act, to abandon the railroad consolidation plan, and to restore full pre-war status and powers of State Railway Commissions.

Senator Capper's bill has the approval, he said today, of officers of the National Association of State Railway Commissioners and the National Live-stock Growers' Association.

Under the bill the Interstate Commerce Commission would have no authority over wholly intrastate rates, and the carriers would retain their pre-war privilege of appeal to the Supreme Court from alleged confiscatory rates.

The bill also would authorize the Interstate Commerce Commission to confer with State Railway Commissions regarding the effect of State rates on interstate tariffs.

PENSION FORCE REDUCED.

Work Reports Better Service at Less Cost in Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Reorganization of the Pension Bureau has resulted in an annual saving of approximately $246,000 in salaries and $100,000 to pensioners, said a special report sent to President Coolidge today by Secretary Work.

"The results of the survey," the report said, "are improved service to the public, more expeditious settlement of pension claims and payment of pensions when granted, and readjustments of the working force under closer supervision and with eliminations of duplications of service, permitting a reduction of force from 1,031 to 867 employes."

In reducing the number of employes "efficiency of service was the prime consideration," the Secretary said, adding, however, that "the hardships of losing employment was lessened and mitigated by allowing vacancies to lapse, encouraging transfers and granting furloughs without pay, with the understanding that recall of the most efficient would be considered to fill future vacancies or meet demands for any increase of force made necessary as a result of new legislation."

KILLED IN FAMILY FIGHT.

Woman Tried to Stop Row Between Husband and Son-in-Law.

In a fight between her husband, Donato Di Georgi, 59, and her son-in-law, Dominick Ciccio, 40, in her home at 2,484 Hughes Avenue, the Bronx, last night, Mrs. Concitto Di Georgi, 58, an invalid, was kicked in the abdomen and killed.

Ciccio was arrested, charged with homicide, and the woman's husband was held as a material witness. Ciccio and his wife lived with the Di Georgis in the Hughes Avenue apartment. According to the police the fight between Di Georgi and his son-in-law developed from an argument over a mongrel dog owned by Ciccio. The noise of the fight was heard by Mrs. Di Georgi, who was confined to her bed, suffering from heart trouble. She left the bed and attempted to stop the fight. According to the police, Ciccio kicked the aged woman in the abdomen and she fell to the floor unconscious.

M'FADDEN SPURNS ANTI-MELLON VOTE

PREDICTS REVERSAL LATER

He Declares That the Members Would Sustain Coolidge on a Bonus Veto.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The statement that the Pennsylvania delegation, in voting in caucus Saturday night against the tax reduction program of Secretary Mellon, which includes the defeat of the soldier bonus proposal, did not represent the sentiment of the people of the State, was made today by Representative Louis T. McFadden of Pennsylvania, Chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency.

At the conference Mr. McFadden offered a resolution endorsing the Mellon plan in its entirety, but this was rejected. He said today that the members of the delegation who opposed his resolution were being instructed by the masses of their constituents in "no mild terms" to support the Mellon plan.

"There seems to be much discussion," said Mr. McFadden, "regarding the responsibility for the resolution which I offered at the recent meeting of the Republican delegation in Congress from Pennsylvania. Knowing the attitude of Pennsylvania on the question of tax reduction by the present Congress, and having the advice of the practically unanimous approval of the people of the State for Secretary Mellon's constructive plan of tax reduction, and realizing full well Pennsylvania's big part in the burden of taxation and manifest desire for a reduction in burdensome taxes, coupled with the fact that such a reduction would tend to correct many of our economic evils by reducing the cost of living and encouraging investment of funds in industry for a larger employment of its people, I deemed it expedient that Pennsylvania's delegation in Congress uphold the hands of its own citizen, the Secretary of the Treasury, in his constructive plan for honest reduction of taxes, and, therefore, assumed the sole responsibility for this resolution for the purpose of aiding the Mellon plan of tax reduction as the only constructive measure before this Congress for the reduction of taxes.

"This resolution, if right, was entitled to the support of both Senators and Representatives of Pennsylvania. I have interpreted the attitude of Pennsylvania correctly as desiring tax reduction.

"The action of the Pennsylvania delegation in voting down my resolution to endorse Secretary Mellon's plan of tax reduction is indicative of the apparent attitude in the House of Representatives as regards an honest attempt at tax reduction. Secretary Mellon's plan is the only constructive plan for honest reduction of taxes. I believe the people generally are quite convinced that we cannot have tax reduction and a soldiers' bonus. These two horses are running in opposite directions and can not be ridden by any Congressman successfully.

"It is now indicated to the Congressmen who voted down the McFadden resolution of endorsement of the Mellon tax reduction plan that the people of Pennsylvania are indignant and aroused. They are in no mild terms instructing their representatives in Congress that they vote for the Mellon plan.

"The real good that will probably come as a result of this denunciation of the wise and able plea suggested by Secretary Mellon is that many Congressmen, not only from Pennsylvania but from other States, will be able to discharge what they feel to be their obligations on the question of soldiers' bonus by voting for a soldiers' bonus bill, praying that President Coolidge, in his wise judgment, will veto such a bill, and that these men from Pennsylvania will then, because of fear that Pennsylvania, in all probability, will instruct national delegates in support of Mr. Coolidge and his policies, will vote to sustain his veto of the soldiers' bonus bill, thus maintaining a consistent attitude."

OPPOSES BIG SURTAXES.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Under the caption "Driving Money Out of Business," The Breeders' Gazette, in an editorial to be published in tomorrow's issue, says:

"Big surtaxes, enacted for the purpose of soaking capitalists, have proved, as The Gazette has long maintained, a failure as a means of reaching the owners of big incomes. The Government is profiting less and less from that source as time goes on. But that is the least part of the trouble. They have driven countless millions of money out of investment in productive enterprises into tax exempt public mortgages, and until this flow of surplus capital, once available for investment in going concerns, is stopped there can be no return to pre-war normality. The whole financial fabric of the country is being undermined by this vicious feature of the present law. If such of our radical friends as have favored these taxes will take the trouble to make the rounds of the big banks and bond houses in any of the great financial centres of the country, they can easily get the facts. Maybe facts are not what they want, however, in their business.

"We are getting sick and tired of the 'hot air' that has been handed around in this country during the past few years by a lot of people cashing in, politically or otherwise, on the farmers' troubles. If you don't know that the big surtax is a 'boomerang,' get busy and find out. They cannot tell you much about it at the corner grocery. Write to Melvin A. Traylor, President of the First Trust & Savings Bank, Chicago, for one thing, if you like. He came up here from Texas a few years ago as a young man, and knows as much about money and the live stock business as any other man in the West. Then there is George E. Roberts, an old Iowa boy, still owning land in that State. He knows a thing or two about finance and taxation in their relation to agriculture. His present address is care of the National City Bank, New York City. He is a Vice President of that big institution, and knows how the millionaires have sold out their interests in railways, farm mortgages, &c., and absorbed any number of issues of tax free bonds with the proceeds. Take it from Johnson or Brookhart, if you like, but why not get information where it is to be had?"

GEN. SQUIER WILL RETIRE.

Colonel Saltzman to Succeed Him as Chief Signal Officer.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Colonel Charles McK. Saltzman, senior Colonel of the Signal Corps, has been named by Secretary of War Weeks to succeed Major Gen. George O. Squier, Chief Signal Officer of the Army, who is understood to wish to retire. The change is to take effect on Dec. 31, when General Squier will end forty years of service.

General Squier has been conspicuous for his scientific work while an officer and has been especially active in the development of the uses of radio.

Rob Kansas Post Office of $40,000.

ELDORAD O, Kan., Dec. 5.—Prying open a small window in the mail receiving vestibule, bandits last night gained entrance to the Eldorado Post Office and took money, registered mail and stamps, said by post-office officials today to be valued at $40,000.

ASKS PENSION RISE FOR G. A. R. VETERANS

Secretary of the Interior Urges Their Claims in His Annual Report.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—An increase in Civil War pensions was advocated by Secretary Work of the Interior Department in his annual report submitted today by the President.

"The ravages of time," said the Secretary, "have now overcome these survivors of the Civil War, and in their old age it is my belief that the pensioning of them should no longer be based upon a showing of disability due to wounds and disease. On the contrary, both the veterans and widows should receive a pension from the Government after having reached a certain age, and the pension paid to them should be adequate to fully support them.

"I therefore recommend that some legislation be enacted by Congress to increase the pensions of Civil War veterans and their widows, thereby more fully recognizing the debt the Government owes them for the service they performed in preventing the disruption of the Union."

The Secretary went into no further details, and he likewise dismissed with brief comment the other points touched upon in his report, one of the shortest ever submitted by a Cabinet officer.

He summarized in a paragraph his oft-repeated declaration for a new reclamation policy; notified the President that he proposed soon to undertake a survey of conditions in the Patent Office; asked for additional facilities for Howard University, negro institution here under Government supervision, and concluded with a sentence pointing out that, although the department's appropriation had been reduced by the last Congress, the Budget Bureau now proposed an additional cut of $26,000,000 for the coming year.

The reclamation problem was described by Mr. Work as presenting "a critical situation."

"The reclamation law," he said, "provides that the cost of construction of each project shall be paid within a ten-year period in instalments of fixed amounts, and also provides that the annual maintenance cost, including operation, shall be paid annually by the water users. Out of the twenty-eight projects constructed in the course of construction, only one of these projects has fully complied with this requirement, notwithstanding that relief extending time of payment on three occasions has been granted by Congress.

"A number of them are in a state of financial insolvency, making it impossible for the Government to recover the money invested in them, while other projects are in such a dubious state that it is difficult to presage at the present time whether they will ultimately pay out.

"In order to ascertain the true conditions I have appointed a special committee of advisers composed of disinterested citizens of national prominence, familiar with irrigation matters, who have begun an exhaustive analysis of the entire reclamation requirements, methods and policies. As soon as their work is completed I expect to submit their report with recommendations to the President. This does not mean that the theory of governmental reclamation is unsound. It merely means that a new policy must be developed that will safeguard the future so that the Government may proceed in a more orderly and business-like manner in its reclamation of the arid and semi-arid lands of the West."

In the Pension Office, the Secretary said, so much work has accumulated, due to increased demands on the part of the public, that applications fall away "for about ten months before any action is initiated toward their examination." He added that the need for a comprehensive survey of conditions there, which I expect to undertake at the first opportunity," was apparent.

Increased facilities at Howard University, the report declared, were of paramount public importance. The institution is one of two in the country, he said, which provides training for negro physicians and dentists, and recent statistics have shown that there is but one negro doctor to 3,914 members of the race and only one negro dentist to 20,500.

The Interior Department's receipts for the fiscal year of 1923 were given by the Secretary as $62,509,841, compared with $54,642,528 in the year previous. Most of the increase came from royalties from oil leases on Indian lands.

SUSPENDS FRESHMAN CLASS

President of W. and J. Disciplines It for Invading Girls' School.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 5.—The entire freshman class of Washington and Jefferson College was suspended from the campus today until 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning by President S. S. Baker. When the 160 members of the class assemble tomorrow it is expected President Baker will conduct an inquiry into reports that more than fifty of the freshmen last night invaded the dormitory of the Washington Seminary, a fashionable girls' school.

The freshmen, it is said, were celebrating the victory of the Washington and Jefferson football team over West Virginia. They paraded to the seminary and, according to reports, entered the dormitory by way of windows. The girls and teachers ran to their rooms and locked the doors, while the youths paraded up and down the hallways giving their yells.

through the trial of the case. He said that if these two were admitted to bail it would be doubtful if the Government would ever be able to get hold of them again. If these two were released on bail, he said, the bail should not be less than $100,000 in each case.

After consideration Judges Rogers, Manton and Mayer, announced that they would allow the writs of error and that some of the defendants would be released with the amount of bail fixed to be furnished, but that Kessler and Sweetwood would not be permitted to go free on bail. Bail in the case of Becher was fixed at $7,000, Birnbaum's at $20,000 and Friedberg, $10,000, and Boyd, Goldman, Katz, Bloch and Maxwell, $5,000 each. Because the papers could not be prepared until this morning all of the defendants were taken back to the Tombs.

Discussing the offer of $100,000, Major Clark said:

"The thing happened a year ago last October. The inquiry into the charges against Kessler and the others was under way and it was known that the facts were to be presented to a Grand Jury. This friend of mine received a call one day from a man who described himself as a lawyer and asked for an interview in which a pending case would be discussed. My friend arranged for a meeting in an hotel and at the appointed time the man called and after some desultory talk stated that persons representing Kessler and the others had offered to pay him $100,000 for expenses if he could get it so that the inquiry into the bootlegging activities of Kessler and the others would cease. The $100,000, the man explained, would be for expenses but that there need be no accounting for the money.

"My friend listened to the proposition and then told the man that it would be useless to attempt anything of the sort that he had evidently had in mind. The man left without giving his name to my friends or furnishing any other information by which he could be identified. My friend thought so little of the matter that he did not mention it to me until recently and then only in a casual manner, as if the thing was of no consequence. That is all there is to it."

Herman L. Falk, as Assistant United States District Attorney, who assisted Major Clark in the prosecution, said that he had been similarly approached with an offer, but declined to furnish any particulars.

DECLINE TO ATTEND FORD CONFERENCE

THINK TIME INOPPORTUNE

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—When the Ford-for-President conference opens in Detroit next week the Dearborn Ford-for-President Club, pioneer boosters for the manufacturer's candidacy, will not be present as a body. This announcement was made today by the Rev. William Dawe, President of the club, who said he would not attend the conference.

"The meeting was not called by the Dearborn club," Mr. Dawe said. "It is simply an independent movement which is not approved by this club. Of course, some of the people calling the conference, such as William Kronberg, Judge Jeffries and Robert Pointer are members of our club, but they are acting as individuals in issuing the call for a national conference.

"We are not antagonistic to the meeting. We are not opposing it. Anything the conference may do toward solidifying a national movement will be proper. But we believe the people back of this conference would have done better if they had taken the advice of our club.

"We wanted to wait until conferences which are now in progress throughout the country had been held. We believe we would have a better basis of operations if we had waited until next Spring, when the conferences would have been held. Then it would have been time to decide what should be done in the way of a national movement.

"The Dearborn Club is conservative and cautious and believes its course is the proper one. But we do not want to appear as opposing this conference in any way. Judge Jeffries and Mr. Kronberg called it without consulting this club. I called a meeting of the club and we decided not to take part in it as a club.

"From what I have heard of delegates who are coming, I do not think that strong units of the people are to be represented. Men of influence will not attend because they cannot see just what advantage there would be in calling such a conference at this time."

Mr. Dawe said he had letters from a number of prominent politicians in New York and Washington saying they would be unable to attend the conference because they felt as Mr. Dawe did, that it was ill advised at this time.

Mr. Kronberg says that prominent in politics are not coming because they were not invited.

Mr. Ford, at his Dearborn plant, refuses to discuss what action he will take, if any, either before or after the conference.

ASKS TUCKER TO TESTIFY.

Prosecutor Wants Boy Bridegroom's Father Before Grand Jury.

Assistant Prosecutor Aloysius McMahon of Jersey City yesterday wrote to Postmaster Joseph S. Tucker of South Essex, Mass., asking him to appear as a witness before the Hudson County Grand Jury a week from tomorrow, when evidence will be presented regarding the marriage of Tucker's 16-year-old son, Burton S. Tucker, and Mrs. Susan O. Simpson, a wealthy widow three times the age of the boy. Mr. McMahon also requested William H. McSweeney of South Essex, attorney for Tucker, to forward any evidence he may have regarding illegality in the marriage.

Young Tucker and his bride denied themselves to reporters yesterday, but their attorney, Jr. Raymond Tiffany, said reports of their disappearance were untrue. They are still at the home of Mrs. Joseph McCabe in South Ridgefield Park, N. J.

Despite Mr. Tiffany's denial, Mrs. McCabe and her husband said last night that young Tucker and his bride had left the McCabe home in an automobile with several bags and had not returned.

COOLIDGE WILL TELL DAKOTANS HIS VIEWS

majority ticket, thus is given first position on the ballot, which has also a minority ticket, and a separate column for independent nominations. The minority, although defeated in the proposal convention, may place a complete ticket on the ballot.

"President Coolidge was given the majority endorsement, which was also given to Governor McMaster for the Senatorial nomination. Senator Sterling, who lost the convention endorsement, will have his name on the ballot under the minority column.

"The law is so complicated and so little understood that only 2 per cent. of the voters ever take the trouble to vote in the Fall primaries. Therefore, the sentiment expressed by the proposal convention generally fails to be a true reflection of the real sentiment of the voters throughout the State in the election of the nominees. The real test will come in March, when voters will cast their preferential votes for the Presidential nomination and for all other places on the ticket.

"Johnson's strength will be demonstrated in the March primary, when, in my opinion, Johnson will sweep the State against the President or any one else in the field."

Look for a Hard Fight.

That if the President is to win in the South Dakota primary, his friends must put up the hardest kind of a battle seems to be the general impression. Whether the endorsement of Senator Capper for Vice President will help him remains to be seen, those who are informed as to conditions in South Dakota say.

The refusal of the Pierre convention to endorse Senator Thomas Sterling for re-election was a great surprise to official Washington. The Senator will make his fight in the March primary. Governor McMasters, who will oppose him, is one of the ablest campaigners in the State, and is understood to favor the candidacy of Johnson.

ILLINOIS CONTEST LIKELY.

Coolidge's Friends Expect Now He Will Enter Primary There.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—President Coolidge's Chicago friends predicted today that he would be a candidate in the Presidential primary in Illinois in April. They took their cue from the victory in South Dakota.

From a good source it is learned that the President and his advisers had been postponing a decision pending developments in that State and elsewhere, but there is no longer any doubt felt here that the next Coolidge conference will put him in the race in Illinois.

As Johnson now is the only entry in the Illinois race, and as Frank O. Lowden's candidacy is regarded solely of a "complimentary" or post-primary character, State leaders say that a Coolidge-Johnson contest would be of great influence on the Republican battle here. They say such a situation would put an end to middle-of-the-road candidates and force a definite line-up behind Coolidge or Johnson.

During his recent visit to Chicago Senator Johnson was noticeably careful not to get on either side in the Small and anti-Small struggle. Governor Small and his associates have indicated a desire to get on the Johnson band wagon, but the anti-Small leaders have not shown their hand. Definite declarations, it is predicted, will be forthcoming in the event of a Coolidge-Johnson showdown.

Senator Johnson's defeat in South Dakota was a severe shock to his Illinois supporters. They had felt certain that he would be warmly endorsed and that the morale of the Johnson movement would sweep everything before it.

CLAIM FUSION FOR FORD.

His South Dakota Democratic Supporters Join Farmer-Labor Bolters.

PIERRE, S. D., Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Agreement on a State and national ticket and platforms was claimed tonight by the leaders in a fusion conference between Henry Ford Democrats and the Farmer-Labor Party element which bolted the State proposal meeting of the latter party yesterday.

James F. Houlihan, chief of the Ford supporters in the Democratic ranks, declared tonight that the fusion ticket was ready for filing as a minority Democratic ticket for the March primary.

Heading the ticket with Henry Ford for President, the slate makers selected for the proposed filing Eric Ellefson of Sioux Falls for Governor and Mark P. Bates, leading representative of the Farmer-Labor group, for United States Senator.

The platforms tentatively approved are similar to those of the regular Farmer-Labor Convention. Among the demands of the national platform are planks enforcing public ownership of transportation, communication, natural resources and banking issues and control of all moneys and credit by the Government, payment of all war debts from excess profits, and repeal of the Esch-Cummins act.

McADOO SENDS THANKS.

Tells South Dakota Democrats They Stand for Progressivism.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—Endorsement of William G. McAdoo as Democratic Presidential candidate by the State proposal meeting in Pierre, S. D., last night elicited a response from Mr. McAdoo here today that "I shall, within the time permitted by the South Dakota law, make due response to this action of the convention."

The following telegram was sent by McAdoo to W. W. Howes, Democratic State Chairman, at Pierre, today:

"The Democrats of the progressive State of South Dakota have conferred upon me a great honor by their endorsement. They are alive to the necessities for a progressive Administration at Washington which will substitute action for dormancy, decision for drift, honesty for graft and justice for privilege in the conduct of national affairs. Please assure our friends of my deep appreciation of their confidence.

"I shall, within the time permitted by South Dakota law, make due response to this action of the convention."

PARTY LEADERS CONFER ON GOVERNOR M'CRAY

C. A. Walb, Indiana Republican Chairman, Sounds Views—Resignation Is Discussed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 5.—While a Federal Court Master in Chancery gave consideration today to the financial status of Governor McCray with a view to determining whether he should be declared bankrupt, Republican political leaders gathered around Clyde A. Walb, the party's State Chairman, to discuss the situation brought about by the Governor's recent indictment on criminal charges of embezzlement and larceny.

According to the party leaders who saw Mr. Walb, the Chairman was advised that Governor McCray had not been convicted and that the fact that he had been indicted did not mean necessarily that he would be convicted. Raymond C. Morgan, Speaker of the State House of Representatives, said that he advised against any hurried steps regarding the Executive by the State organization. He said that the outcome of the trial should be awaited and that the Legislature should not act until sure of its legal ground.

Among those who called on Chairman Walb were Oscar Foellinger and A. M. Remmel of The Fort Wayne News and Sentinel; Will R. Robinson of Lebanon, Ninth District Chairman; Eben H. Wolcott, State Bank Commissioner; Fred B. Robinson, State Purchasing Agent, and Ephraim Dalley of the State Industrial Board.

Counsel for the Governor, at the hearing on the petition of three Fort Wayne banks to have him adjudged a bankrupt, continued their efforts begun yesterday to show that his principal occupation is farming. As a farmer he would be exempt under Federal law from involuntary bankruptcy proceedings. James Hendry, manager of the Orchard Lake Stock Farm, in Newton County, was called as a witness and was questioned regarding the participation of the Governor in farming operations.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Members of the Indiana delegation in Congress are not disposed to express an opinion on the propriety of asking for Governor McCray's resignation. They have so informed Chairman Walb of the Republican State Committee, who suggested that the delegation make a recommendation on the subject.

Some members of the delegation probably would be willing to attend a meeting of party leaders in Indianapolis to discuss the party's attitude toward the Governor.

PHILIPPINE SENATORS IN FISTIC ENCOUNTER

MANILA, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—A fistic encounter in a hallway of the Senate chamber of the Insular Legislature tonight followed the appearance of José Alejandrino, recently appointed Senator by Governor General Wood, and his acceptance by the Senate after some debate, as a duly authorized member of the body.

The Senate at first refused to recognize him and Senator Soriano, a Collectivista, Chairman of the Committee on Elections and Privileges, questioned his right to occupy a seat on the ground that no official notice of his appointment had been received. The Senate, Soriano declared, had been provided only with a carbon copy of the letter of the Governor General appointing Alejandrino, whereas it should have received the original.

The Senators then adopted a resolution to investigate the appointment.

After the session closed Alejandrino said he had furnished to the Secretary of the Senate a copy of his appointment, accompanying it with a communication requesting the extension to him of facilities for the performance of his duties.

Tonight the Senate recognized him and formally accepted him as Senator. As the members left the chamber after the session Alejandrino met Senator Vicente de Vera, a Collectivista, in the hallway, upbraided him for criticizing the appointment and slapped his face.

A crowd gathered rapidly and it appeared that the incident would result in a free-for-all fist fight, but timely arrival of the police stopped the affair short of serious trouble.

Several Senators said they would offer resolutions suspending Alejandrino tomorrow.

SENATOR JOHNSON HERE TO SEE AIDS

Says He Is Highly Pleased With Reception His Candidacy Has Received.

PLANS A HARD CAMPAIGN

George Henry Payne and Arthur Murtha Among Those to Greet Him.

Full of fight and prepared to contend with President Coolidge and all other comers in Republican primaries and conventions throughout the country for the Presidential nomination of his party, Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California arrived here last night on the Congressional Limited. He will remain here several days for conferences with his campaign managers.

Senator Johnson said he was well-pleased with the response everywhere to his announcement that he would contend again for the Republican nomination for President. He declared that he was prepared to make an intensive personal campaign in States where preferential Presidential primaries were held or where delegates to the national conventions were chosen through the medium of direct primaries.

Senator Johnson was met at the Pennsylvania Station by Tax Commissioner George Henry Payne, who is in charge of his campaign in the East, and Arthur Murtha, organizer of the first Johnson-for-President Club in this city. Former Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock, who will have charge of the major strategy of the Johnson campaign throughout the United States, was not on hand, but the Senator said he expected to confer with Mr. Hitchcock today. Another who greeted Senator Johnson was William P. Verdon, Republican leader of the Eleventh Congressional District in New Jersey, who is organizing the Johnson forces within the party in his home State.

Here to Meet Managers.

"I am here for the purpose of conferring with the managers of my campaign, Mr. Hitchcock, Commissioner Payne, Mr. Murtha and Mr. Verdon, and I probably shall see some others for the purpose of discussing campaign matters," said the Senator. "I do not know what else I could say at this time."

Reporters and photographers surrounded the Senator. He was snapped repeatedly—first alone, then with Mr. Payne and Mr. Murtha. Between poses he answered hurried questions from the reporters. Mrs. Johnson came with her husband.

"Are you going to make a personal campaign in this and other States prior to the Spring primaries?" Senator Johnson was asked.

"I certainly am," he replied. "There will be a real fight everywhere in which I expect to participate to the extent my vitality permits."

Senator Johnson seemed in prime condition to go through a campaign. On his face was the flush of robust health. He said he was feeling fine.

"Are you satisfied with the way in which your candidacy has been received?" Senator Johnson was asked.

"I have every reason to be," he replied. "I have been hearing from all parts of the country and the reaction seems to have been favorable throughout."

Senator Johnson was asked if he would be willing to comment later on President Coolidge's message to which many Republicans are looking as a partial declaration of his platform for the Presidential campaign. The message is to be delivered today.

"I am thoroughly familiar, of course, with what the message contains," said Senator Johnson. "But I shall have no comment to make at this time."

No Discourtesy to Coolidge.

"Your absence from Washington at the time when President Coolidge appears before Congress for the first time to deliver a message is not to be regarded as an act of discourtesy?" one reporter suggested.

"Of course not," said the Senator. "My engagement to come to New York at this time was made long ago when there was every reason to believe that the message would be read at noon today."

Senator Johnson said that while a number of tentative speaking engagements were being made for him, no dates as yet were definite. As far as present arrangements go, his first public speech in this State will be at a dinner to be given in Brooklyn on Jan. 12 in honor of Warner A. Miller, a Queens realty man who has organized the Johnson forces in Brooklyn and on Long Island. In the Presidential campaign four years ago Senator Johnson found more friendly sentiment in Brooklyn than in any other borough in this city.

As far as could be learned Senator Johnson did not have engagements with any of the Republican organization leaders in the city. It is expected that the brunt of the work to bring the leaders into line will fall on Mr. Hitchcock who has country-wide contacts and extensive experience from many preceding political campaigns.

Today Senator Johnson will be the guest of Robert McAlarney, a former newspaper man, at the Harvard Club. A number of writers and persons affiliated with motion pictures have been invited to meet him.

GERMANS KEEP HOLD ON RHINE RAILROADS

NEW RHINE MONEY SOON

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COLOGNE, Dec. 5.—Details now available of the railway convention signed on Saturday by the German and French railway representatives at Mainz show it is of greater importance than was indicated by the few hints given two days ago by M. Breaud. The convention still requires the assent of the German Government before becoming valid, but there is little reason to suppose this will be withheld, since the French made very considerable concessions.

The most important point in the convention is that the whole rolling stock of the railways remains the property of the German Government and will continue to be distributed by the Central German traffic authority as before the occupation of the Ruhr. This is the first essential condition for resumption of normal freight traffic on the Ruhr railways. The distribution of cars for the whole of the German railways is worked from a central pool at Magdeburg. This pool receives by telephone daily statements as to the number of cars on hand in every station in Germany and their requirements and makes allotments accordingly. The car movements on the Rhineland railways will now be included in the operation of this control system.

The British railway experts agree that under these conditions an adequate transport in the Ruhr may be possible, though there are other difficulties still to be got over. The Germans have undertaken to bring the number of locomotives on the lines up to the normal complement, but a very large number of those already there are seriously damaged. In the Bonn yards alone there are over sixty lying idle and in need of repair. The shops which handle these repairs are still closed down. A great number of higher railway officials also are required. The working of the Ruhr railways now depends on the good-will being shown by the Germans and by the French.

Attached to the convention is a list of requests made by the German Government. They deal with such points as release of German railway men who are now in prison for refusing to obey the French, permission for those who have been expelled to return to their homes in occupied territory, and so on.

I understand a bank of issue for the Rhineland will be constituted very shortly. The final discussion of the statute is to be held on next Saturday. I have received the following details with regard to it's scope:

It's object is to provide a first-rate medium of currency, which the Rhineland at present lacks. The Rhine marks will have 75 per cent. gold cover, which should keep its rate at least at gold parity, if it tends to fall further notes may be issued until the cover is reduced to 60 per cent. The capital will be 25,000,000 gold marks. It's distribution has not yet been finally settled, but at least half will be in German hands. French and also Belgian banks will have a large share. Dutch capital will probably also be represented. The British Government so far has been opposed to any British share in the bank. The head business offices will be at Cologne and Düsseldorf. At the request of the French, administrative headquarters will be at Coblenz.

It is obvious that a bank with such a comparatively small capital and limited issue of notes cannot suffice for a large and highly developed area like the Rhineland, including the Ruhr. There must be other currency in circulation to provide for requirements of retail trade. The Rhine mark will presumably be used as a suitable medium for making large payments. Arrangements are being made to regularize the paper mark currency in the Rhineland by a new issue of notes by provincial banks of the Rhine province, Westphalia, the Palatinate and Hesse. This issue will be backed to the extent of 60 per cent. by gold loans placed at the disposal of banks by the German Government; the remaining 40 per cent. will be covered by bills subscribed by the communities. This issue of the provincial banks, which will still be reckoned in billions, will presumably be the money in general use for some time to come.

PICKETS DISAPPEARING ALONG RUHR RAILROADS

First Measures Taken to Make Occupation Invisible—More Contracts Signed.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—The first measures toward rendering the occupation of the Ruhr "invisible" already have been put into effect, it was announced today. These measures include the withdrawal of the sentries from the tunnels and bridges and a reduction in the number of military pickets at the railway stations, preparatory to the withdrawal of all such guards.

PARIS, Dec. 5 (Associated Press). — The troops occupying the Ruhr are gradually to be concentrated in camps outside the city, is was explained by French Government officials today. The design is to make the occupation less burdensome and irritating to the Germans, in reward for their apparent disposition to abandon their hostility toward the occupation and to co-operate with the allied régime.

There is no idea of evacuating the Ruhr at present, it was stated, and the French troops will be maintained at their existing strength for the time being, pending developments, but will be taken off the streets and out of the cities so that the population will not be constantly reminded of their presence, thus reducing the occasion for possible friction.

DUESSELDORF, Dec. 5.—The occupation authorities today signed contracts with German owners of coal mines having a normal production of 6,500,000 tons annually, or 8 per cent. of the total output of the Ruhr. It was announced at French headquarters. Eighty-six per cent. of the Ruhr mines are now under contract to work for the Franco-Belgians.

Today's contracts provide for the payment of back coal taxes amounting to $4,500,000.

Deny Citroen-Stinnes Deal Report.

Reports which have appeared lately purporting to give the facts of a Citroen-Stinnes industrial agreement in the Rhineland were vigorously denied yesterday by the New York offices of the French automobile manufacturer in the Fisk Building. It was reported that André Citroen was the spokesman of French interests in the recent series of pourparlers with German industrialists aiming at a combination for the exploitation of the Rhineland markets. This, it was stated, was incorrect.

Mayor Hylan spent a restful afternoon at his home in Brooklyn yesterday. "The Mayor went to dinner at a friend's home in Manhattan, because he was feeling better," said Mrs. Hylan last night.

ARM BERLIN POLICE FOR RED OUTBREAK

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—In preparation for a possible uprising of the Communists tomorrow the Security Police tonight are held in readiness with tanks and armored motor cars. The police reserves are armed with hand grenades in addition to customary rifles, and have orders to shoot and throw to kill.

The Communists are scheduled to start a riotous offensive throughout Greater Berlin under supposed orders from Moscow. This would synchronize with the final vote of the constitutional amendment to confer for dictatorial powers on the Marx Government.

The Communist Party, having been placed under the ban by General von Seeckt, plans to carry on its activities through the organized masses of ultra-radical professional unemployed. The latter are to send deputations to the City Hall to protest against the high cost of living and demand increased unemployment doles. Then, according to the reported program, while agitating in smaller groups throughout Greater Berlin they will move in strong bodies on the principal industrial plants and appeal to the workers to join them.

This done, they are to concentrate in three main unemployed and Communist armies. One is to demonstrate in the Lustgarten and around the ex-Kaiser's palace. The second will demonstrate in Koenigsplatz around the Reichstag and attempt to storm the Brandenburger Tor, thence marching on down Unter den Linden. The third group will demonstrate in Wittembergplatz in the West End.

BERLIN, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Seven persons were killed and thirty wounded in a clash today between unemployed and the police at Wanne, Westphalia (near Essen).

The unemployed, discontented over the amount paid them as unemployed doles, tried to storm the Town Hall. They attacked the police with stones and revolvers, whereupon the police returned their fire. French troops finally restored order.

BAVARIAN PREMIER REVIEWS HITLER COUP

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MUNICH, Dec. 5.—Dr. von Knilling, the Bavarian Premier, made his long-advertised statement in regard to the Hitler putsch this morning. Although he spoke for nearly two hours he disclosed little that was not already known.

The Premier began by stating that the putsch was originally planned for Sept. 29. The appointment of Dr. von Kahr as Dictator on Sept. 26 and the declaration that a state of emergency existed in Bavaria prevented disturbances far more serious even than those that took place on Nov. 9. It was the threat of the Hitler putsch and the danger to Germany as a whole which persuaded Chancellor Stresemann and Minister of Defense Gessler to countenance the existence of the dictatorship in Berlin and Bavaria simultaneously.

Premier Knilling was evidently anxious to exonerate von Lossow from all blame. The General, according to the Speaker, was willing to resign in compliance with Gessler's orders, but remained at the urgent request of Dr. von Kahr.

After reasserting Bavaria's loyalty to the Reich, Premier von Knilling declared the real blame could be traced to different interpretations of Paragraph 48 of the German Constitution. Until an agreement regarding this paragraph could be reached, which was satisfactory to Bavaria, difficulties were bound to occur again.

Referring to the events which took place on Nov. 8 Premier von Knilling admitted that the intelligent services of the Green and Civic police were entirely unaware of what was going to happen. At 5 in the morning of Nov. 9 Hitler and Ludendorf were definitely warned that Dr. von Kahr had changed his mind and that the Government troops would act against putsch.

In conclusion the Premier stated that while it would be the first duty of the dictator to see that unauthorized fighting bands were dissolved the patriotic movement and desire to organize the manhood of the country must still be encouraged so that these reserves could be utilized by the State authorities.

In the debate which followed, the Left strongly criticized certain parts of Premier von Knilling's statement, but until the Hitler trial the matter so far as the Diet is concerned may be considered as settled.

Von Knilling's administration is faced with other and more immediate difficulties. Owing to the split between the two wings of the People's Party, Dr. Krausneck, Minister of Finance, tendered his resignation today, the alternative being the resignation of Herr Schweyer, Minister of the Interior, and Herr Wutsilhofer, Minister of Agriculture. Dr. Krausneck demanded dictatorial powers in conjunction with Premier von Knilling in order to put through his financial proposals. To this the Schweyer wing of the Cabinet, whose opposition to von Knilling is increasing, would not agree.

Complete reconstruction of the Cabinet may be necessary. Von Knilling evidently is anxious to resign his office, but the difficulty is to find a successor for thankless tasks who could command a majority of the seven different parties composing the Bavarian Diet.

All parties with the exception of the Socialists and Democrats are clearly apprehensive of the awkward disclosures that are certain to be made at the Hitler trial.

Advances Dictatorship Bill.

BERLIN, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—The Reichstag tonight voted the first and second readings of the Government's "full powers" bill with an amendment by the bourgeois parties providing for collaboration by a committee of sixteen members chosen from various party groups. The Nationalists and Communists voted against the measure. The third reading of the bill will take place tomorrow at 1 o'clock, together with a vote on a motion of censure of the Government introduced by the Communists.

Reports Spy Centre in Antwerp.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 5.—Several highly organized German espionage centres have been discovered in Antwerp, says the newspaper Le Soir, under cover of commercial houses of apparently the highest respectability. The authorities, the newspaper asserts, have found a man who, having membership in a German secret organization that centred in Cologne, was entrusted with an important mission in France the success of which would have been followed by events of "extreme gravity." As this person has been apprehended, adds Le Soir, there is no longer any danger.

BRINGING 10,000 BIRDS HERE.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Eight thousand canaries and 2,000 African, Indian and Australian birds left Southampton today in the steamship Andania for New York. Each bird is in a separate cage and a large compartment has been turned over into an aviary.

Three attendants start feeding and watering them at 5 A. M., and the last one is not finished until nearly midnight. The position of the cages is changed each day. More than 4,000 pounds of food will be consumed during the voyage. The majority of the birds are exported from Germany.

WEEKS SEEKS A LAW TO RETAIN PERSHING

NEED OF SERVICES URGED

Secretary Declares That It Would Be a Mistake to Bar Commander's Further Activity.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Secretary Weeks has written to the committees on military affairs of the Senate and House urging that General Pershing be retained in the service, despite the fact that under the law he will be automatically retired Sept. 13, 1924.

The Secretary's letter includes the draft of a bill for Congress. Mr. Weeks points out that during the forty-two years of General Pershing's service the General has "had intimate contact with every phase of the military profession, and has reached a pre-eminence attained by few in our military history."

The letter, which is directed to the Chairmen of the Senate and House committees on military affairs, says:

"Your attention is invited to a matter which is not only of extreme interest to me, personally, but is of great importance to the War Department and the army and will undoubtedly be acknowledged by the nation as a fitting subject for Congressional consideration at this time.

"The General of the armies of the United States, General John J. Pershing, will reach the statutory age for retirement from active service on Sept. 13, 1924, under the provisions of the Act of June 30, 1882, which states:

"'When an officer is 64 years of age he shall be retired from active service and placed on the retired service.'

"During General Pershing's service of forty-two years he has had intimate contact with every phase of the military profession and has reached a pre-eminence attained by few in our military history. His vast fund of accumulated experience as commanding General of our armies in Europe and his virile interest in our military establishment in questions affecting the national defense, are reasons which convince me that a great mistake will be made if the present law on the subject of retirement is allowed to bar further active military service to the nation by him."

Two years ago, before General Pershing was made Chief of Staff and General of the armies, it was generally reported that Secretary Weeks was searching for a place for him in the make-up of the army. When it was decided that the General should become Chief of Staff it was suggested that he should give his particular attention to the development of the national army, as comprehended by the National Defense act.

EARTHQUAKE ROCKS ALL CENTRAL JAPAN

Many Desert Homes in Panic, but Damage Is Slight, With No Fatalities.

HONOLULU, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—The whole central portion of Japan, including Kobe, Osaka and other large cities, was shaken by an earthquake early today, according to a Tokio dispatch to the Nippu Jiji, the Japanese langauge newspaper here.

On the Island of Shikoku, one of the largest in the Empire, clocks were stopped. In the coastal regions bordering Setonaikai, or the Inland Sea, the inhabitants were panic-stricken, vacating their homes and abandoning their belongings in an effort to find safety.

So far as had been reported when the dispatch was filed, there was no loss of life or great property damage.

The unveiling of a statue at the City of Kochi, on the Island of Shikoku, was postponed because of the earthquake.

TOKIO, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—The island of Formosa was heavily shaken by an earthquake last night. The prefectural office at Tainan, a populous seaport on the west coast, was damaged, and some damage to property in adjoining villages was reported.

Tokio also experienced slight earth shocks early last night.

The Japanese Government has agreed to advance to twenty-six insurance companies accepting its terms funds sufficient to pay 10 per cent. of their losses sustained owing to the widespread destruction wrought by the recent earthquake.

The Cabinet terms provide for loans which bear 2 per cent. interest and are repayable through the establishment of sinking funds.

BERLIN SEEKS LEAVE TO RAISE BOND LOAN

$250,000,000), and, eventually, to $1,000,000,000. In every instance bankers have asserted their willingness to undertake the task of raising the money once the reparations problem has been definitely settled and solid security has been placed in back of the loan.

According to reports on German conditions reaching New York bankers, Germany has bumper crops, but is encountering difficulty in distributing them. The collapse of the paper mark, according to these reports, has created a paradoxical condition in which residents of cities are undergoing acute privation, while in the country districts food is plentiful. No barter can be done on a nation-wide scale, it was explained, because the farmers refuse to accept paper marks and the railroads show a similar reluctance.

The fact that Germany will ask authorization of the Reparation Commission for the contemplated loan was regarded as an indication that she was beginning to follow the procedure adopted by Austria more than a year ago, a procedure that led eventually to the flotation of the Austrian loan under international guarantees.

DEFENDS GERMAN FARMERS.

Berlin Paper Says They Have Helped to Relieve Distress.

BERLIN, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—A statement reported to have been made by Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, that the United States would not help Germany if German farmers did not do their share toward relieving the distress in the country, today drew an elaborate rejoinder from the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, the organ of Hugo Stinnes.

The newspaper produces copious statistics in seeking to demonstrate that German farmers already have made heavy sacrifices, taking into account the fixed maximum prices for foodstuffs and the impossibility of importing fertilisers and cattle food from abroad.

The article details the assistance in kind which farmers have given the distressed communities of the Ruhr, the Rhineland and elsewhere. It calculates that 3,892 truckloads of food have been shipped into the occupied regions for the relief of their populations, while 300,000 necessitous persons have been removed and fed and cared for on country farms.

The writer declares a very considerable proportion of the farmers have been taking paper marks in payment for deliveries, notwithstanding the depreciation in the value of the mark. Germany, he says, is unable to cover its needs in cereals and fats and cannot buy abroad because of the lack of a stable currency. The selling of foodstuffs below cost out of pure charity can only be done for a short time, according to the writer, who adds that this system is only a palliative and not a cure for the situation and is bound to aggravate distress in the early future.

SAYS FRANCE ADMITS BUT CAN'T PAY DEBT

Senator Dupuy Denies Paris Will Maintain That German Default Cancels Obligation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—France entertains no desire to repudiate her debt to the United States, according to a statement made to newspaper correspondents this evening at the National Press Club in an interview given by Senator Paul Dupuy of France.

"France has always kept her word, honored her signature and never denied her debts," said M. Dupuy, who, in addition to being a member of the French Senate and owner of Le Petit Parisien, one of the most influential journals of France, is likewise a very close friend of M. Poincaré, the French Premier, and well informed on the position of the French Government.

"There appeared to be a feeling in this country during the recent negotiations between the governments of the United States and France in regard to proposed American co-operation in a committee of experts that Paris had too closely connected the questions of debts and reparations," said M. Dupuy.

"In reality, if the question of reparations was connected with debts by France it was merely to explain how, although France acknowledges her debt to the United States, she is not at the present time financially in position to begin payments. France's position therefore is: We do not pay you because we cannot pay, and we cannot pay because the Germans do not pay us. But the French Government has never taken the attitude that if the Germans did not pay France, France would consider herself free from her debt to the United States."

The statements made by Senator Dupuy are considered as of unusual importance, as before coming to this country he told M. Poincaré he desired to know what reply he should make to any inquiries addressed to him concerning the attitude of France on the debt question.

Discussing the possibility of American co-operation or participation in the settlement of reparations and the larger European problems, Senator Dupuy said tonight that the general sentiment in France desired it very strongly.

"But," he continued, "it seems extremely difficult that in order to obtain it France be obliged to sacrifice the only guarantees that she actually has for the present, which guarantee is the Treaty of Versailles.

"After four years of expectation," said Senator Dupuy, "and after France has gone from one concession to another, from disillusion to disillusion, something had to be done. It became necessary to do something that would bring to reason the German Government, which refused systematically to admit and respect its obligations.

"The occupation of the Ruhr—although there was in France no real enthusiasm for it—seemed not only the best but also the only thing possible. The obvious proof and evidence that France has no desire to continue the occupation of the Ruhr by force is to be found in the fact that as soon as the opportunity was given to him, Premier Poincaré has come back to the original plan which was one of invisible occupation. The possibility of reducing and withdrawing the troops of occupation is now being studied in France in order to replace them as much as possible by commissions of control composed of technicians and experts."

CONSIDER ANTI-KLAN BILL.

Oklahoma House Takes Up Toothless Senate Measure.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 5.—The lower house of the Oklahoma Legislature today considered the Senate Anti-Ku Klux Klan bill. Advocating a provision for making public the names of members of secret orders, W. E. Disney told the House that it "had to pass a Klan bill with teeth," because former Governor Walton, "wants this milk and water bill passed by the Senate adopted here."

Disney asserted Walton favored the Senate bill because it would enable him to go before the people advocating an initiative anti-Klan bill, charge that he was crucified by a Klan Legislature and base his candidacy for the United States Senate on this issue.

When the bill was called up for second reading an attempt to kill it was defeated.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

to meet the situation. He said that neither the Liberals nor the Laborites had any remedy to propose, and that their only campaigning was of the negative kind, whereas England needed positive action. Turning to Mr. Lloyd George's charges that protection would put up the cost of living the Prime Minister denied that that would be the result of his policy.

"I do not think that argument will cut much ice," he said, "when one considers our pledge not to tax food products of any kind."

Mr. Baldwin said his policy looked not only to the needs of today, but to those of tomorrow.

Baldwin Fears German Dumping.

"When Germany's trade gets going again she will have to export more goods to pay her imports and still more goods to pay her reparations," he said. "I ask you where are those exports going? They would come into free markets like those of England with free trade. I think we have quite enough of her exports, and that is why we have got to start the machinery going for the protection of the industries of this country. Let Germany get her trade balances by sending into Russia or anywhere else in the world; but we shall not be the shock-absorber for German reparations.

"You may take it from me that the policy we put before the country is one which is going to be the best for tomorrow."

Speaking again at Stourbridge, Mr. Baldwin talked of the danger of German dumping, saying that England must be ready against the day when Germany would begin a great dumping campaign to enable her to pay reparations.

More Rowdyism by Communists.

Rowdyism, accompanied by personal violence, is reported today from political meetings in many parts of the country. Owing to numerous threats by Communists and Socialists, Viscount Curzon canceled two women's meetings this afternoon in the interest of public safety. Several other candidates felt it inadvisable to hold meetings today because of hostile demonstrations.

Lord Eustace Percy, Conservative candidate for Hastings and late Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Health, was shouted down at Hastings last night. Toward the end of his speech a broken cup was thrown at the platform. It missed the Chairman's face by a few inches and struck Lady Eustace Percy in the side. After the meeting a dense crowd gathered around their taxicab as the candidate and his wife were leaving the hall, and in the confusion Lady Eustace Percy had her right arm jammed in the door of the car, receiving severe injuries.

R. J. Clarry, Conservative candidate for Newport, had a hostile reception in the docks district last night. Stones and mud were thrown, and some mud struck his wife. She was also kicked in the leg.

When entering Gwyn Hall, Neath, in Wales, for meeting in support of her husband, Captain Elias, a Liberal candidate, Mrs. Elias was deliberately kicked in the leg as she passed through a crowd of rowdies.

There were disorderly scenes at Bromley, Kent, last night. Colonel James, Conservative candidate, was about to leave Central Hall after addressing a meeting when his motor car was attacked by a crowd which included many women. The car was struck with umbrellas and sticks and Colonel Jame had his hat knocked off.

The campaign closed with the Conservatives still confident that they would retain their majority and the Liberals believing that they would at any rate prove that their creed was not the spent force which it seemed a few months ago. The two questions which people are asking are will the Government be strong enough in the next Parliament to force protective duties through the Commons in face of the strenuous opposition they are bound to encounter, and will the Liberals have more seats than the Labor Party and so become the official Opposition?

The great number of three-cornered fights and the great importance of the women's vote in this election cause even the most expert of political campaigners to hesitate to make prophecies. The effectiveness of the Ministerial majority is expected to depend largely on the way in which the great industrial centres and seaboard towns vote. The Conservatives are expected to lose a few seats in Scotland and to hold a handsome majority in the southern and midland districts of England. Lancashire, with its free trade tradition, they recognize as shaky, but they are at least hopeful of Yorkshire, with its interest in woolens. In the big shipping ports, however, they know they are likely to lose. Protection may help manufacturers and their employes, but no one can argue that restriction of imports can be of advantage to the sailor or the shipbuilder.

Women Voters Keenly Interested.

As for the women voters, there can be no doubt that they have taken a keener interest in this election than ever before, and that the attention the candidates have paid them has been fully justified. The Liberals have thought to win them by arguing that the tariff means higher prices, but inquiries from those who have actually canvassed among the poorer homes of the North End suggest that the working woman's political philosophy is not one of immediate self-interest. The interviewers have been struck by the clearness with which the wives of day workers recognise the economic difficulties of the times. They hate the dole as leading directly to idleness; they deplore the shiftlessness among their children that comes from lack of work, and they have no patience with girls who prefer State aid to going out to domestic service. Whether they face certain increases in prices which the exclusion of foreign goods may bring is, of course, the question which every election agent is asking tonight, but no one has any doubt that whatever the women do tomorrow will be done after real consideration of the issues, many of which are well within their ken.

Laborites Predict Great Gains.

The leaders of the Labor Party tonight predict a large increase of its total of 144 seats in the last Parliament. The estimate at headquarters is about 170 seats and that of enthusiasts is 30 more. The newspapers, however, do not take these estimates seriously and believe that the chiefs of the Labor Party themselves have seen the impossibility of getting the nation to accept the capital levy plan camouflaged as a special war debt redemption scheme, and would be very glad to drop it altogether. But apart from that the Labor Party has been heavily handicapped by lack of funds and by the falling off in the membership of trade unions.

LONDON, Dec. 5 (Associated Press). —The various party headquarters dispensed optimism with a free hand today.

The Conservatives announced that their prospects were good, and that they were confident.

The Liberals asserted their canvass of the districts was encouraging, and that there were reports of great Liberal enthusiasm from the whole country. One official declared: "If the promises made us are fulfilled, everybody is in for a big surprise."

The Labor spokesman said: "We shall certainly have 171 members returned and probably more. We shall still be his Majesty's Opposition."

Irish and Communists Accused.

It is an indisputable fact that the disorders at political meetings have been of an organized character and inspired from Communist headquarters in London, according to The Daily Mail, which in a prominent statement ascribes the charge to "official circles, in which close watch is being kept on these outbreaks of rowdyism."

The paper quotes an unnamed high official as saying among other things that the Communist bands at Battersea, where some of the worst disorders have occurred, are largely of Irish sympathy, the official informant further declared that Irish Republicans had sent circulars to the Labor candidates throughout the country, asking them to undertake, if they were returned to power and the Irish Republicans succeeded in overthrowing the Free State Government, that they would oppose sending British troops to restore order.

"Only those candidates, even though they belong to the official Labor Party, who accept these conditions," added the official, "are free from disturbance."

He also charges that the Communist organization is subsidizing some of the Labor candidates who lack funds to prosecute the campaign. Unknown to the Labor Party, he says, about ten of its candidates are actually Communists, and these have received in the last days £300 each. He intimates that the whole movement is part of the Moscow propaganda.

TRIBUTE TO LADY ASTOR.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Lady Astor received today the great compliment of a telegram of support from a Parliamentary associate, but a political adversary. Mrs. Wintringham, who sat with her in the last Parliament and is standing again as a Liberal candidate for Louth, wired her today at Plymouth:

"I hope Plymouth women of all parties will remember that they have a national responsibility to return you to Parliament as the champion of the nation's children."

Hoarse but confident, Lady Astor wound up her bitterest political campaign tonight to await the verdict of the Sutton Division of Plymouth. Messages wishing her good luck have been addressed to her from all parts of the country, especially from women's organizations and others engaged in social reform work.

It is generally believed in Plymouth that she will retain her seat by a comfortabe majority despite the forces which have been working so strongly against her. In her final message to the electorate today she says:

"You will be the envy of all England on Thursday and the despair of our enemies. This is my third time of asking, and I hope very much that now Sutton and I will be united until death do us part. Even in death I somehow feel I shall always be near Plymouth, and when I see her in danger perhaps old Drake will let me have one of his drumsticks. I hope my policy and record in Parliament and for Plymouth have convinced the doubtful, aroused the silent and stimulated my supporters."

GUERRERO REBELS TAKE TO THE HILLS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

IGUALA, Guerrero, Mexico, Dec. 5.—Federal troops under General Urbalejo are in possession of this city. Rebels under General Figueroa have retreated to the mountains, where they are reorganizing.

The Federal troops took possession of this city without opposition, and so far the troops have had no contact with the rebels. Airplanes in the service of the Federal troops so far have not taken part in the movement, as they are arranging bases. A flotilla of bombing planes is expected to arrive here this evening.

It is generally believed that Figueroa will not offer combat until he succeeds in arousing his followers in the mountains.

The State of Guerrero for many years has had the reputation of producing hard fighters. In the early days of Mexico General Vicente Guerrero led the "Pintos," as the inhabitants of Guerrero were known owing to a skin disease which produced colored scales. Guerrero was the only State that gave Porfirio Diaz real trouble. Diaz, when a General, won the battle of Puebla against the French with the aid of the Pintos, who, armed only with machetes, ousted the French from the forts they held high in the hills dominating the City of Puebla. Later Ambrosio Figueroa, together with Romuelo, his brother, now in revolt, started a revolution against Porfirio Diaz in 1910, two weeks before the start of the Madero revolution which ousted Diaz. Ambrosio Figueroa was assassinated during the Zapatist régime.

What forces are at the disposition of Figueroa now cannot even be estimated, as they are scattered through the mountainous country; but it is believed that the forces are small, poorly equipped, with few rifles and practically no ammunition. One advantage possessed by Figueroa is that he knows every inch of the State of Guerrero, which is very mountainous, with hundreds of deep ravines, where small forces are able to keep at bay an army many times stronger.

Unless Figueroa is captured or surrenders within ten days, the situation will be serious, as owing to lack of communication the inhabitants in the interior State, who now are practically without knowledge of the situation in Mexico City, may be fooled into joining the rebels through false propaganda.

SINGLE SEX STANDARD PLANNED IN BULGARIA

Proposed Bill Would Deprive of the Right to Parenthood All Guilty of Certain Crimes.

SOFIA, Dec. 5.—The single standard is adopted as the basis for social legislation in a bill for the protection of children to be introduced by the Ministry of Justice and Worship to the Bulgarian Parliament elected last month.

The bill, which is expected to pass early in the session, provides that parents guilty of certain social or economic offenses, such as theft, resulting in conviction, are subject to deprivation of all rights of parenthood on the judgment of a court.

The striking feature of the proposed legislation is that the offenses which bring in their wake deprivation of the rights of parenthood and all authority over the children, are precisely the same for men as for women. No distinction is made between the sexes in the standards of good conduct.

The recognition of the single standard is a new principle in Balkan life, which has been dominated for centuries by the principle of the Turkish religious and political coovicdon that man possesses privileges denied to women.

HARLEM'S BOY 'RED' FAILS AS AN ORATOR

HE IS CLEARED BY COURT

Justice Finds Lad's Only Offense Was Being Afraid of the Dark.

The reputation as a precocious radical genius bestowed upon 11-year-old Leon Granoff by the police when he was arrested on Nov. 21 fell flat last night at a mass meeting of the Young Workers' League in the Harlem Socialist Educational Centre, 66 East 106th Street.

The meeting was held as a protest against the references to young Granoff in the newspapers and especially against the statement in reference to the boy's alleged activities issued by the National Security League.

Five hundred persons who crowded the little hall in the expectation of seeing a youthful radical firebrand heard a halting, colorless talk by an 11-year-old boy who had less fire and eloquence than many an 11-year-old boy displays in "speaking a piece."

The only "crime" sustained against Leon when he was arraigned yesterday before Justice Hoyt in Children's Court, was that of being afraid to go home in the dark. He had admitted organizing a Soviet band of playmates, but the opinion of the Court and the police was that he would not go very far with that.

Leon was arrested at midnight on Nov. 21 at Lexington Avenue and 107th Street, and when he was taken to the station several pamphlets of the Young Worker's League, a Chicago organization with communistic ideals, were found in his possession. The only charge then laid against the boy, however, was that of improper guardianship. In interviews with reporters Leon soared high above that sort of thing. He juggled with Washington and Lenin and Lincoln and Trotsky, and admitted that some of the comrades had been spanked for joining the band.

His mother, a widow, had gone to a theatre the night that Leon took to wandering around the streets, and investigation was ordered to see if she took proper care of Leon. It was said in court yesterday that her trip to the theatre had been the first one in five years and that Leon lacked nothing at home. His school record was proved to be above the average.

"A number of reports concerning this case," said Justice Hoyt, after Leon had been discharged, "have been widely circulated, but many of them have been obviously based on a misunderstanding of the facts. After this boy had been taken into custody for his own protection, a quantity of documents was found in his possession showing him to be connected with an organization known as the Young Workers' League. He also had a dozen or more applications for admission into this society signed by other school children in this city, as well as a copy of an international hymn.

"These papers were called to the attention of the Court when it was informed that the police were investigating the character and purposes of the organization, of which the boy admitted being a member. That was all there was to the matter so far as the Court was concerned. No charge of juvenile delinquency was ever made against the boy nor was any prosecution suggested in connection with the possession of these papers. Had the documents proved to be seditious or anarchistic in character, the Court would have undoubtedly taken appropriate action. But in the absence of any such evidence no legal action was undertaken or even contemplated."

CELAYA, Mexico, Dec. 5.—President Obregon's health was much improved today. The President was able to hold conferences with the Minister of War, General Serrano, discussing the situation in the State of Guerrero. The President, wrapped in a heavy white sweater, spent an hour trolling in the garden of the home where he is staying. The doctors in attendance say the President needs a complete rest of two weeks, but he is unable to comply with the orders of the doctors due to the immense work caused by the approaching elections and also the financial condition of the country.

The President will not return to Mexico City until the end of December, and possibly not until January. It is expected that when he returns he will stay only a short time, as the nature of his illness prevents his living at a high altitude.

LIFT BAN ON DORBON.

French Publisher, Detained at Ellis Island, Finally Admitted.

Louis François Dorbon, French editor and publisher, who was detained by immigration authorities upon his arrival Tuesday on the French liner Suffern, was released yesterday, after being questioned for more than an hour by a special board of inquiry at Ellis Island.

Henry H. Curran, Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island would not discuss the reasons which led to the detention. He said the action was taken in accordance with instructions from Washington to see that admission did not violate the immigration laws.

Mr. Dorbon said he knew of no reason why he should be detained. "The only possible reason I can think of is that some one sent an anonymous letter. It may have been done by some business competitor," he said.

"I should like to go back again and go all through Ellis Island, and I think I shall ask Commissioner Curran to permit me to do so," he said.

Mr. Dorbon comes to New York to spend two months in the Fall of each year. The remainder of the year he stays in Paris where he also conducts a book store.

BACK LOANS BY FRANCE.

Ministers State Case to Senate Committees Affecting 800,000,000 Frs.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—Premier Poincaré, M. Lasteyrie, Minister of Finance; M. Maginot, Minister of War, and M. Eynac, Sub-Secretary of Aeronautics, attended a joint meeting today of the Senate Committees of Finance and Foreign Affairs; to state the case for the proposed loans of 400,000,000 francs to Poland, 300,000,000 to Yugoslavia and 100,000,000 to Rumania, previously voted by the Chamber and now before the Senate.

The Premier gave assurances that the orders for which the loans would pay would all be executed in France, either by State establishments or factories under the control of the Ministeries of Finance and War. He also asserted that the Governments concerned had proffered ample security for repayment.

After the Ministers had answered several questions, the Finance Committee adopted the bills relating to Poland and Yugoslavia, 8 to 5, but postponed that relating to Rumania for further consideration.

Board Studies Polar Flight.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The Special Planning Board for the navy polar expedition held its first meeting today with Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, Chief of the Navy Air Service presiding. Organization of the board was perfected, the only absent member being Commander Fitzhugh Green, who is expected to be present when the board continues its work tomorrow.

SEES NEED FOR FIVE NEW HUDSON TUBES

STRESSES TRAFFIC GAIN

City Officials Attend Port Authority Meeting for the First Time.

Five additional vehicular tunnels under the Hudson River at three points north of the Canal Street tunnel, now under construction, will be needed within the near future to keep pace with the increase in automobile traffic, D. L. Turner, consulting engineer of the Transit Commission, told the Port Authority yesterday at a public hearing on additional tunnel or bridge construction between New York and New Jersey.

The hearing was the result of a request by Governor Smith of New York and Governor Silzer of New Jersey that an investigation of locations, costs, traffic problems and other features be studied with a view to presenting a report to the two State Legislatures early next year. "We stand ready to recommend to the Legislatures the passage of any additional legislation that will be helpful toward the accomplishment of this result (construction of additional vehicular tunnels or bridges)," the joint statement of the two Governors said.

The three routes suggested by Mr. Turner are between Weehawken and Fifty-seventh Street, between Fort Lee and the vicinity of Manhattan Avenue and between Dyckman Street and the Palisades. The first routes, he said, should be two tunnel routes, providing two lanes each way, while the third should be a one tunnel route, with one lane each way.

City Officials at Meeting.

Vehicular tunnels, rather than bridges, should be constructed, Thomas Adams of the Russell Sage Foundation City Planning Committee, told the Port Authority, "provided that experience of the vehicular tunnel about to be opened does not disclose any unexpected difficulties with regard to this mode of vehicular communication." He recommended, however, that a bridge be built further north, at some such point as 178th Street. F. D. Underwood, President of the Erie Railroad, declared that tunnels afforded "the quickest and most practicable method of communication."

Samuel Rea, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, favored in a letter the construction of a bridge at Fifty-seventh Street. Another bridge in the vicinity of Spring Street was favored by Alfred C. Bossom, architect. The New Jersey-Hudson River Bridge Association also made a general recommendation that bridges be built.

For the first time since the Port Authority was organized one of its meetings was participated in yesterday by city officials. John J. Delaney, Commissioner of Docks and a member of the Board of Estimate's transit committee and Clifford M. Pinkney of the Department of Public Works of Manhattan Borough, sat with the Port Authority at the hearing. Their presence was regarded as an indication that differences between the present city administration and the Port Authority had been adjusted.

Those who attended the hearing yesterday included spokesmen for the New York Chapter of the American Association of Engineers, the New York State Association, the Central Mercantile Association, the United States Real Estate Owners' Association, the Jersey City Chamber of Commerce, the Harlem Board of Commerce, the Harlem Board of Trade, the West Harlem Business Men's Association and the Hoboken Chamber of Commerce.

To Co-operate With City.

Eugenius H. Outerbridge, Chairman of the Port Authority, in opening the hearing said the commissioners would furnish the city with all information derived from the public hearings or through investigations and would "confer with the city officials for the benefit of their suggestions, advice or criticism and with the view of arriving at a complete agreement before themselves expressing any ultimate determination as to whether the communication should be by tunnels or bridges, or both, and where the most appropriate locations would be."

Mr. Turner, in his report to the Port Authority, said:

"Automobile traffic is growing so rapidly that in my judgment additional vehicular tunnel projects crossing the Hudson River between New Jersey and New York surely should be investigated and probably should be inaugurated with as little delay as possible. I believe that the Canal Street tunnels will become saturated with traffic almost as soon as they are opened. It would be unwise to wait for the completion of these tunnels before studying the needs for planning additional ones. A short time in the future I believe that at least five additional tunnel crossings under the Hudson River will be needed.

"The Canal Street tunnels will conveniently provide for the traffic into New York from Morristown, Summit, Montclair, Newark and Jersey City, and for the territory south of these points. There should be another similar pair of tunnels crossing from Weehawken over to about Fifty-seventh Street in New York, providing an arterial route conveniently connecting Passaic, Paterson, Pompton and the central section of New Jersey into and across Manhattan, and to Long Island by way of the Queensboro Bridge. There should also be another similar crossing in the neighborhood of Manhattan Street, connecting Fort Lee with New York, and thence via the existing highways up through New Rochelle, Rye, Stamford, &c. Such a crossing would serve all of the southern and central sections of New Jersey and afford direct access between these territories and Westchester and Connecticut, without requiring such traffic to traverse lower Manhattan. There should probably be another single tube crossing, providing for a lane of traffic each way, in the neighborhood of Dyckman Street, affording more direct access to Hackensack, Englewood, Suffern, Nyack, the northern section of New Jersey and the territory in New York west of the Hudson River."

Mr. Adams of the Russell Sage Foundation said that the city planning committee's engineering staff had given careful consideration to the subject of river crossings, but had not arrived at any final recommendations.

"Our studies, therefore," he continued, "seem to indicate clearly the desirability of several tunnels for the Port of Manhattan below Central Park and a bridge at Fort Washington, say 178th Street, for the traffic from or to North Manhattan, the Bronx, the Borough of Queens—via the new tri-borough bridge—Westchester County, Connecticut and New England.

"More specifically," he said, "we recommend considering, in addition to the twin vehicular tunnel now under construction at Canal Street, two additional vehicular tunnels at the most advantageous points between Canal Street and Fifty-ninth Street; a high-level vehicular bridge further north—for example, at Fort Washington Avenue (178th Street), where full advantage could be taken of the high banks of each shore. By an improvement of the Manhattan shore of the Harlem River, south of High Bridge Park, studies for which are also being made, much of the light traffic between lower Manhattan and such a bridge could be diverted to north and south routes east of Fifth Avenue."

Speaking for the Central Mercantile Association, Joseph E. Kean asked that a tunnel at Fourteenth Street be considered. Representatives of Harlem business men's associations asked that Harlem be considered as a site for some of the tunnels or bridges. Robert Moses of the New York State Association said that there must be other vehicular tunnels or bridges in the northern part of the city.

GETS WAR CRIMES REPORT.

Daugherty Studies Findings—Christmas Pardons Possible.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Attorney General Daugherty took under consideration today a report by the special committee designated by President Coolidge to inquire into the question of clemency for violators of war-time laws.

The report was sent to Mr. Daugherty from the White House, where it had been forwarded by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, who with Major Gen. James G. Harbord, retired, and Bishop Brent of the Episcopal Diocese of Western New York, composed the committee.

Pending review of the report the Department of Justice will not reveal its recommendations. It was said at the White House today, however, that prompt action by the President was expected as soon as the Attorney General's views were before him. Should clemency be decided upon it might take the form of Christmas pardons.

MUST DOCK LEVIATHAN FOR EXTENSIVE REPAIRS

Some of Her Turbines Are Stripped and She May Be Laid Up Several Months.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The liner Leviathan, the largest craft flying the American flag under the control of the Shipping Board, has stripped the blading of some of her turbines and will be out of service for several months to enable repairs to be made.

Orders have been issued by the Navy Department at the request of the Shipping Board to the Brooklyn Navy Yard to make ready to undertake the repairs to the former German liner. It was stated by a member of the Shipping Board that on account of the damage to the turbines of the Leviathan the steamer will be laid up for repairs immediately after her return to New York about Dec. 21.

The member of the Shipping Board stated that the liner, after returning to New York, would be sent to Hoboken, where the repair work would be done, under the direction of Brooklyn Navy Yard officials.

Asked how long the Leviathan would be laid up, he stated that this would depend upon the extent of the repairs, but members of the board expected the steamer to be out of service two or three months. She will have thorough overhauling while at Hoboken to put her in shape for next Summer's traffic.

The Leviathan is propelled by steam turbines. An official of the board said that they were not working right, and the extent of the damage could not be known until her turbines were opened. As to how much the work will cost, he said he doubted if any one knew.

The recent reconditioning of the Leviathan was undertaken at the plant of the Newport News Dry Dock and Ship Building Company at Newport News, and Gibbs Brothers, New York engineers, were retained by the Shipping Board to supervise the work, which cost about $8,200,000.

CRAIG REPEATS ATTACK ON MAYER

Julius M. Mayer was adjudged guilty, and on Feb. 24, 1921, was sentenced to imprisonment for sixty days in the Essex County Jail, Newark, New Jersey; and

Whereas, the said Charles L. Craig made application to Honorable Martin T. Manton, at that time United States District Judge, for discharge on a writ of habeas corpus, which petition was granted by Judge Manton April 26, 1921; and

Whereas, an appeal was taken to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Second Circuit, which Court on May 22, 1922, reversed the order of Judge Manton; and

Whereas, the Supreme Court of the United States on Nov. 19, 1923, affirmed the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals, thereby sustaining the jurisdiction of Judge Mayer:

Now, therefore, Be it known that I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States of America, in consideration of the premises, divers good and sufficient reasons me thereunto moving, do hereby remit the imprisonment imposed by the said sentence.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto signed my name and caused the seal of the Department of Justice to be affixed.

Done in the District of Columbia this third day of December in the Year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-three, and of the Independence of the United States the One Hundred and Forty-eighth.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

By the President,
H. M. Daugherty,
Attorney General.

"The New York State Constitution provides:

"'Every citizen may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right; and no law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press. In all criminal prosecutions or indictments for libels the truth may be given in evidence to the jury; and if it shall appear to the jury that the matter charged as libelous is true and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted, and the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the fact.'

"The Constitution of the United States provides:

"'Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people to peaceably assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.'

"Judge Mayer and Attorney General Daugherty make scraps of paper of these fundamental rights.

Criticizes Mr. Daugherty.

"The communication addressed to the President by Attorney General Daugherty is a confession that the form of trial and sentence by Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer are indefensible. It is an unwilling confession forced from Attorney General Daugherty by the third degree of public opinion; but it is nevertheless a confession of indefensible conduct by Judge Mayer and Attorney General Daugherty, who came to his rescue and used the name of the United States of America to prosecute an appeal from the order of Judge Manton, in which the people of the United States had no interest of any kind whatsoever, and in which prosecution the Attorney General has been engaged down to the present time.

"Attorney General Daugherty's confession is accompanied by cries, groans and squawks intended to mislead the public as to its true character. His recommendations to the President involved a device that is a fraud upon the law. The President has power to grant pardons. But no pardon granted by the President has any effect unless and until accepted by the person pardoned and to whom it must be delivered.

"Very recently the Supreme Court of the United States held:

"'Acceptance, as well as delivery, of a pardon is essential to its vitality; if rejected by the person to whom it is tendered the court has no power to force it on him.'

"This principle is confirmed in an unbroken line of decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. Its reasons were expressed in a very recent decision of that court, as follows:

"'Circumstances may be made to bring innocence under the penalties of the law. If so brought, escape by confession of guilt implied in the acceptance of a pardon may be rejected—preferring to be the victim of the law rather than its acknowledged transgressor—preferring death even to such certain infamy.'

"As if to add insult to injury, Attorney General Daugherty, manifestly intending to deny the right so clearly confirmed by the Supreme Court, advised the President to act above the law by a remission of sentence proceed to be made operative by Executive order. No remission of sentence can be made except as expressed in a pardon granted by the President under his constitutional powers. Unless there is a pardon, there can be no remission. But no pardon has any effect unless accepted.

"The Attorney General's advice was, therefore, manifestly a fraud upon the law. It countenanced it opens the way for unlimited abuse of power by the Daugherty process. Wholesale jail delivery would be made possible by the device of mere Executive order to be issued at the instance of the Attorney General in the cases of political and other favorites without assuming the responsibility of exercising the pardoning power.

Mentions the Morse Pardon.

"Mr. Daugherty, as is well known, is an expert on pardons, or, as it may be said, an expert for profit, as was evidenced by his procurance of a pardon for Charles W. Morse.

"The circumstances made to bring the official conduct of the Controller under the penalty of the law, the innocence of which has been sullied by a decision of Federal Judge Mayer in his own favor and by Attorney General Daugherty in the appeal prosecuted by him to assist Judge Mayer in upholding his decision and sentence of sixty days in the Essex County Jail, relate to the receivership of public utility corporations in the Southern District of New York.

"The Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company and its affiliated corporations have their legal residence in Brooklyn, which is within the jurisdiction of the United States Court for the Eastern District of New York, held in Brooklyn. The acts of Congress upon the sole basis of which these public utility corporations are able to obtain the protection of receiverships in Federal courts confer jurisdiction where the plaintiff and the defendants are citizens of different States; but these acts require that the defendants must be sued in their own judicial districts.

"The court of which Judge Mayer is a member is in the Southern District of New York, the boundary line between the Southern District and the Eastern District being the East River. The records show that the complaint by a Pennsylvania corporation against the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company was filed, simultaneously with the latter's answer admitting the allegations of the complaint, at 6:40 P. M. on Dec. 31, 1918, which was some time after dark and the official closing hour of the clerk's office in that court. Although the law requires that the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company should have been sued in Brooklyn, which is in the Eastern District of New York, for some reason, which the public is entitled to know, the suit was brought where, after the close of business on the last day of the year 1918, it would land in the lap of the Hon. Julius M. Mayer in the Southern District of New York.

"The surrounding circumstances indicate a preconceived design by all of the parties to keep this receivership away from the Justices of Brooklyn, where, if anywhere, it belonged, and to strip the Federal Judges in the Eastern District of the jurisdiction rightfully belonging to them, and to bring the conduct of these receiverships, the administration of these properties by the court and the discharge of their obligations to the City of New York under the supervision and control of Judge Julius M. Mayer, in the Borough of Manhattan, the Southern District of New York.

"It is to be remembered that the State courts of the State of New York have complete jurisdiction to dispose of every question that could be involved in the receiverships of these public utility corporations. There was, therefore, a manifest purpose not only to withdraw these receiverships from the courts of the State of New York but also to withdraw them from the Eastern Judicial District of the Federal courts and to bring them under the personal conduct of Judge Mayer.

Reviews Garrison Appointment.

"Immediately upon the filing of the complaint and the defendants' answer, Judge Mayer made an order appointing Lindley M. Garrison receiver of the properties and assets of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company and two of its affiliated corporations.

"This order provided that there be placed in the possession of such receiver all 'books of account, records and other books, papers and accounts, cash in bank, on deposit and in hand, money, debts, things in action, credits, stocks, bonds, evidences of indebtedness, securities, deeds, leases, contracts, muniments of title, bills receivable, rents, issues, profits and income accruing and to accrue, as well as all interest, easements, privileges and franchises, and all assets of every kind, character and description of each of the defendants herein.'

"It further provided that the defendant 'and all other persons claiming to act by, through or under said defendants, or any of them, are hereby enjoined from interfering in any way whatever with the possession or management of any part of the property over which the receiver is hereby appointed, or interfering in any way to prevent the discharge of his duties or his operation of said property.'

"No one can dispute that this order placed in the possession and control of the receiver all of the original sources of information in regard to the property and affairs of these corporations, whose possession and control was exclusive of all others. No one can dispute that any interference with the receiver's possession and control thereof would have been summarily punished as a contempt by the Judge appointing the receiver.

"The order further provides that 'any party in interest may apply for further direction.'

"That means to the undersigned, Julius M. Mayer.

"Under well understood Federal procedure the operation and effect of that order was to preclude applications being made to any other court or Judge.

"On Jan. 15, 1919, the Corporation Counsel of the City of New York, in accordance with the directions of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment presented an application for the appointment of the Controller of the City of New York as a co-receiver to serve without pay. As Judge Mayer well understood, this application, if granted, would have given the Controller and other members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment free and unrestrained access to the original sources of information in regard to the property and affairs of these public utility corporations. A denial of such application was a denial of such access, and the original sources of information were left in the exclusive control and possession of the receiver agreed to by the companies and appointed by the court. No one understood this more clearly than Judge Julius M. Mayer.

"Judge Mayer also well understood that it is a very common practice in receiverships in the Federal courts where there are conflicting interests to appoint two or three receivers. As soon as the argument was concluded upon the city's application for the appointment of a co-receiver it was summarily denied from the bench by Judge Mayer. A few weeks later Judge Mayer's policy of appointing a single receiver acceptable to the parties in interest was followed in the case of the New York Railways Company and the various surface lines in the Borough of Manhattan, when all of the books and records and all other sources of information passed into the exclusive possession and control of Job E. Hedges, the receiver appointed in that proceeding.

Drive for Increased Fare.

"From the very inception of these receiverships a most determined drive was made on the part of the companies to obtain increases in fare. No stone was left unturned in this effort.

"Determined attempts were made to stampede the municipal authorities of the City of New York to consent to release the various transit companies from the obligations contained in their franchises and contracts for a 5-cent fare.

"An increase in the rate of fare from 5 cents to 8 cents, as demanded by the companies, would have taken from the people of New York City $60,000,000 a year and transferred it to those interested in the receiverships. One of the express purposes of the conference called by Public Service Commissioner Nixon for Oct. 6, 1919, was 'a flexible fare to be instituted, automatically adjusted to meet the cost of service.'

"A cost plus fare was even better for the transit companies than an 8-cent fare, because it imposed no limit.

"Up to the time of the Nixon conference the orders made by Judge Mayer in the B. R. T. and New York Railways receiverships placing those receivers in the exclusive control of all of the books, papers and records and all other original sources of information in relation to the property and affairs of such companies remained unmodified. Judge Mayer and Attorney General Daugherty can produce the order of the District Court of the United States signed by Judge Mayer that modified the provisions of the receivership orders placing the receivers in the exclusive possession of all the books, records and other original sources of information in regard to the property and affairs of these corporations, they are entitled to ask for a retraction. No such order can be produced. Until it can be produced the retraction must come from Judge Mayer and Attorney General Daugherty.

"It still remains true that the necessary effect of these orders was precisely as set forth in my official letter to Public Service Commissioner Nixon dated the 6th of October, 1919, explaining the reasons why it was impossible to attend and participate in the conference to grant a flexible fare and other concessions to the traction companies.

Denies Admitting Falsity.

"Numerous statements have been furnished to the press on behalf of Judge Mayer and Attorney General Daugherty that upon the 'trial' before Judge Mayer I admitted the falsity of the statements in the letter to Commissioner Nixon. There is no foundation for any such statement in the record or elsewhere.

"Judge Mayer and the Attorney General seem to have assumed that notwithstanding the character of the orders made in denying the city's application for a co-receiver, it was expected that if the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment applied to the receivers for specific bits of information that, just as the rich man gave poor Lazarus a few crumbs from his table, the receivers might dole out such information as they saw fit to the municipal authorities. It was because neither the Controller nor any other public officer assumed the rôle of Lazarus that Judge Mayer decided that no access to information had been actually requested and therefore none was actually denied. This is the subterfuge that underlies Judge Mayer's decision and sentence for contempt.

"It still remains true that the receivers appointed by him are in the exclusive possession, under his orders, of all of the original sources of information in regard to the property and affairs of these various public utility corporations, and that no one dare interfere with such control and possession under penalty of summary punishment for contempt.

"Thus, to use the language of the Supreme Court of the United States: 'Circumstances may be made to bring innocence under the penalties of the law.'

"It was well said by Mr. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, and concurred in by Mr. Justice Brandeis, that what Judge Mayer did 'was more than an abuse of power.'

"Judge Manton and Judge Learned Hand of the Circuit Court of Appeals had expressed views to the same effect.

Assails Daugherty.

"The whole tenor of Attorney General Daugherty's recommendation is to fasten upon the American people the oppressive exercise of extra-judicial authority and repression of fair criticism, and to abridge the freedom of speech and of the press in relation to any matter that a Federal Judge may deem objectionable.

"The question of the Controller's personal imprisonment is a matter of slight concern. But the usurpation of power proposed by Attorney General Daugherty is as much a blow at the rights of the American people as is the conduct of Judges like Julius M. Mayer.

"The whole conduct of the Attorney General savors of political cowardice. Unwilling to face the American people upon a question of fundamental right, he resorts to falsehood, villification and subterfuge.

"Mr. Daugherty obtained the very thing he sought when he took up the cudgels for Judge Mayer two years ago and prosecuted appeals from Judge Manton's order of discharge. The object of his action then was to uphold Judge Mayer in a sentence of sixty days in a New Jersey jail, and to intimidate and silence every one who, in the performance of duty, would be impelled to make a proper protest against oppressive judicial action in the Federal courts.

"While President Coolidge received the recommendations, and doubtless read the statements of Attorney General Daugherty, there is nothing whatever in the pardon signed by the President to indicate the slightest sympathy on his part with the statements and conduct of the Attorney General. In fact the President was careful to exclude from the pardon signed by him even so much as a reference to the communication from the Attorney General.

"While the steps taken in the various court proceedings were recited in the pardon, according to their dates, no allusion whatever was made to any action of the Attorney General."

Although the failure of Controller Craig to take a definite stand as to whether he would or would not accept the "pardon" or "remission of sentence" left that point undetermined, speculation as to his course in the best-informed quarters inclined to the belief that he would accept it. This opinion was based partly on the fact that Mr. Craig emphasized at the very beginning of his statement that the President's "pardon" as Mr. Craig insisted it should be called, was "free from conditions." Taken in conjunction with the fact that Mr. Craig's friends have said all along that the Controller would not embarrass the President by refusing an unconditional pardon, this was regarded as pretty good evidence that he will accept.

It was pointed out that Mr. Craig's interpretation of the President's order as a pardon coincided with that of Gustavus A. Rogers of the law firm of Jenks & Rogers, 67 Wall Street, who said on Tuesday that the President's action constituted a pardon by whatever name it might be called.

Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield issued a statement yesterday in which he said he was glad the President had remitted the Controller's sentence, because Mr. Craig was needed to attend to the city's finances.

CRAIG CASE BRINGS BILLS TO CONGRESS

One Provides Jury Trials for Contempt—LaGuardia Asks B. R. T. Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—What is declared by officials to be the final action on the part of President Coolidge in the Craig case was taken today when he signed the warrant remitting the prison sentence.

The warrant is being sent to New York by special messenger from the Department of Justice and will be delivered to the United States District Attorney and also brought officially to the attention of the United States Marshal. It will then be shown to Controller Craig, probably by the District Attorney. With this action, it was stated by department officials, the Government's interest in the case will end.

Attorney General Daugherty said today he did not care to make further comment on the Craig case. He felt that he had covered the ground fully in his opinion to the President. Officials of the Department do not share the view that the remission of imprisonment by the President is in any sense a full pardon. Also, they say, whether or not Craig wishes to accept the Presidential action, he is arbitrarily freed from the necessity of going to jail. To quote one official, the only way Craig can get into jail is to "break in."

Effects of the Craig case reached Congress today when Representative Zihlman, Republican, of Maryland, introduced a bill providing for trial by jury in United States Courts for contempt. Mr. Zihlman attacked the attitude of the Attorney General, saying that after criticising Mr. Craig in scathing terms, the Department turns a complete somersault" in recommending the prison sentence be remitted.

"Public sentiment has, in my opinion, been sufficiently aroused by the case of Controller Craig," said Mr. Zihlman, "to bring about this salient reform in judicial procedure—the reform of trial by jury in contempt cases in Federal courts—which will curb the power and limit the authority of Judges who demand that others obey their every whim and caprice and at the same time set themselves up as a little kingdom unto themselves.

Assails Daugherty Opinion.

"The statement issued by the Department of Justice in connection with the remittance of the sentence of Controller Craig is one of the most remarkable documents ever penned in connection with Executive clemency. After excoriating the New York official in most scathing terms and leading the public up to the belief that he should have been imprisoned for life for committing lese-majesty, the Department turns a complete somersault and recommends that his prison sentence be remitted, with the statement that this is done for the good of the City of New York.

"There is no reason why Controller Craig could not transact the official business of the City of New York from the county jail in New Jersey as well as from his office in the Municipal Building, and every one who has followed this case believes that the prison sentence was remitted in response to expressed opinion of the country which has been aroused by the far-reaching power of Federal Judges who set themselves above criticism and who become peevish when any one questions their authority.

"A part of the New York delegation in Congress has already met and asked for an investigation of the receiverships in the New York City courts, and from what I have been able to learn about the small coterie who have been the beneficiaries in these collusion receiverships the entire procedure will bear investigation.

"If this case will focus public attention for the need of a change in procedure, Controller Craig will have rendered a great public service, and the country will benefit because of his attitude."

The Zihlman Bill.

The Zihlman bill, which will go to the Judiciary Committee, provides:

"That from and after the passage of this act, every person or persons charged with contempt of court, or with violating any order, decree or judgment of any court of the United States, or of any judge thereof, shall be entitled to the right of a trial by a jury in the court in which said charge is preferred. Provided, that this shall not apply to contempt of court committed in the presence of the court.

"Section 2. That in any case of a conviction and judgment for a contempt in said court the person so convicted or against whom there is such judgment entered for contempt shall be entitled to prosecute a writ of error to the Circuit Court of Appeals of the circuit in which said court entering such judgment is situated: Provided that the defendant so convicted may be admitted to bail pending the prosecution of said writ of error, bail to be fixed by the Court before whom said trial was had."

LaGuardia Asks Inquiry.

Representative LaGuardia of New York today introduced a resolution asking the House to call on the Attorney General for information concerning the Brooklyn Rapid Transit receivership with a view to a Congressional investigation.

"I believe," said Mr. LaGuardia, "that the facts in the receivership will be of the utmost interest to Congress. If my information is correct, it may disclose the fact that $18,000,000 was lent to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system by the United States Government during the war. Just how this loan is justified I am curious to ascertain."

Mr. LaGuardia's resolution follows:

"Resolved, That the Attorney General be, and he is hereby, directed to inform the House of Representatives, if not incompatible with the public interest, as follows:

"1. The names, addresses and amounts of claims of the petitioners applying to the District Court for the Southern District of New York in the year 1919 or thereafter for the appointment of a receiver for the property of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, or by whatever name the said company operating surface cars, elevated and subway lines in the Borough of Brooklyn, City, County and State of New York, may be known.

"2. The name of the receiver appointed and all reports, accounts and statements made by him to the said District Court during the time of said receivership.

"3. An itemized list of expenses, excluding the usual payroll of employes, but including all salaries over $10,000, operating expenses, legal, administrative, supplies and replacements during said receivership.

"4. The amount of fees paid to said receiver and an itemized list of all expenses, legal, clerical, accounting, professional or otherwise, paid in connection with the said receivership.

"5. The amount expended by the receiver and an itemized list thereof of all expenses incurred by him in connection with a strike of employes of the said Brooklyn Rapid Transit lines in the years 1920 and 1921.

"6. The amount owing by said Brooklyn Rapid Transit lines or any of the subsidiaries or allied companies of said Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, or by whatever name said company may be known to the United States Government, or any of its agencies, other than taxes, during the period of said receivership; and "(a) Payments of interest or principal to the United States Government on said loan made by said Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company during said receivership.

"(b) Any modification of the terms of said loan, extension of time or other arrangements in connection with the said loan made during the period of said receivership."

MILLER SAYS BABY IS NOT STILLMAN'S

Ex-Governor Calls Guy Fraud on Society and Son of Indian Guide.

ARGUES BANKER'S APPEAL

Decision Reserved After Mills and Mack Reply for Mrs. Stillman.

The Appellate Division in Brooklyn was asked yesterday not merely to reverse the decision which cleared Mrs. James A. Stillman and found Guy Stillman legitimate, but to make a finding that she was guilty of misconduct and that the child was the son of Fred K. Beauvais, Indian guide.

This was the crux of the argument made by former Governor Nathan L. Miller, who appeared as chief of legal staff for James A. Stillman in his fight to upset the victory scored by Mrs. Stillman a year ago. Guy Stillman, now 5, was characterized as a fraud on society who had no manner of claim to the name of the banker.

Isaac N. Mills, who led Walter S. Ward's successful fight for freedom several months ago, was in command of Mrs. Stillman's legal forces, with John F. Brennan, actual leader, sitting at his elbow. John E. Mack of Poughkeepsie, guardian ad litem for Guy, made a rebuttal to Judge Miller's résumé. The defense, dealing with the sale by Beauvais of eight alleged Beauvais-Mrs. Stillman letters for $15,000, charged that Beauvais had always been under suspicion and for that reason never had "a chance to make his treason on the stand."

Four hours were used in the argument, two hours by Mr. Miller, an hour and a half by Mr. Mills and a half hour by Mr. Mack. At the conclusion of the hearing decision was reserved for a few days. Hearing the appeal were Presiding Justice Kelly and Associate Justices Young, Jaycox, Manning and Kapper. Supporting Judge Miller were Cornelius J. Sullivan and Outerbridge Horsey of Nicoll, Anable, Fuller & Sullivan, 61 Broadway. Alfred Bryan of Yonkers reinforced Mr. Brennan.

Stillman Banks on Letters.

At the outset of his argument Mr. Miller declared that the backbone of the banker's case was in the many letters that figured in the case. He said that if the letters were found to be fabrications—as alleged by the defense—then the case had no merit. If, he added, they were found to be genuine, then a prima facie case had been established against Mrs. Stillman and Guy.

To supplement his oral argument, Mr. Miller handed to each of the Justices a bulky volume containing scores of examples of Mrs. Stillman's handwriting. There would be an excerpt from some of her undisputed orthography and below would appear an excerpt from the letters which she denies having written. The book's pages were covered with transparent celluloid. The originals of the letters were also put before the Court.

"We are here," said Mr. Miller, "asking not merely for a reversal. We are asking for a reversal and an adjudication to the contrary. Two hundred and eighty days before the birth of Guy, which would be on Feb. 1, 1918, and I wish your Honors would kindly remember that date as it is important, Mrs. Stillman was living at Pleasantville, Westchester County. No other member of her family was there. Mr. Stillman was living at 9 East Seventy-second Street, where he had been for some time, with his sister, Mrs. Isabelle Rockefeller. Mr. and Mrs. Stillman were entirey apart.

Called Guide to Pleasantville.

"On Jan. 26 Fred Beauvais arrived at Pleasantville. That is admitted. He came pursuant to her telegraphic summons. She said that she wanted him to chop wood, due to a coal scarcity. It is known that she had at least seven laborers there who were capable of chopping wood. Though summoned to do manual labor Beauvais was not housed in the servants' quarters. He was put in the east wing of the main house, which was for the exclusive use of the family, and from Jan. 26 to Feb. 13 or 14, he and Mrs. Stillman alone slept there every evening. This period was important in the life of Guy.

"On Feb. 12, the daughter, Miss Anne, returned from school with the mumps. Mrs. Stillman on the following day went to the Hotel St. Regis, where she had secured rooms for Anne. A few days later Beauvais went there. With her father-in-law lying on what was believed to be and what really was his deathbed, she and Beauvais went to Canada. She went there with her paramour and remained until March, when she read in the newspapers of the death of Mr. James Stillman, which had occurred on March 15."

Mr. Miller then turned to Mrs. Stillman's hasty visit to Buffalo, where she went to consult Dr. Hugh Russell, an osteopath and friend of the Stillman family. It was from Buffalo that the so-called "confession" letter, which her husband contended was an admission of infidelity with Beauvais, was dispatched.

Cites Visit to Dr. Russell.

"Desperately," said Mr. Miller, "she sought for relief, for she knew and her husband knew that he could not have been the father of the child. She went to Dr. Russell for a certain kind of relief. She was unable to get it. Then she went to Boston and to Providence, evidently for the same kind of help. She says that she went there for 'sunshine and air.' I don't know whether she got it, but at any rate she returned to Buffalo in desperation, considering that what she had done would make her an outcast.

"Mrs. Stillman told the doctor that she had written to her husband telling him of the Beauvais incident. The letter she wrote is here. I shall not burden the court at this time by reading it. She does confess she was going to have an Indian baby. True, it was couched in delicate language, but it was there just the same. Of course, it was confidential, but when we say that she published it to the doctor we insist that fact removes the seal of confidence."

In his argument Mr. Miller did not overlook the "black bear" telegram which Mrs. Stillman sent to Beauvais immediately after the birth of Guy. "We contend," he remarked, "that this shows Beauvais to have been the father of the child." He then considered the legal aspects of the exclusion of letters written by Mrs. Stillman to Anne and to Mr. Stillman. "These letters," he said, "show that the woman was contemplating suicide."

Says Stillman Has Been Maligned.

"Mr. Stillman has been maligned in these briefs," he continued, "and he has been maligned in the public press. He has been falsely pictured as harboring an adulteress. I am not here pleading for him. But what did he do? He telephoned to Dr. Russell to protect her. He took her home until the child was born. Mr. Stillman has been accused of being the aggressor and of wrongdoing. We have it from Mrs. Stillman's own lips that it was she who precipitated this unfortunate controversy.

"This child has no right to the name of Stillman. Under that name he is a fraud and an impostor. It was proper for Mrs. Stillman to contemplate divorce and marriage to this Indian so that the child could assume his proper name."

Mr. Miller's reference to a marriage to Beauvais was based on a letter, which the banker's counsel contended was written by Mrs. Stillman to Beauvais in July, 1919, which assured the Indian that the writer loved every pore in his skin, and asked "when can we get married?" The attorney said that the evidence in the case clearly showed Mrs. Stillman to have had a "hankering" after Beauvais and that "she created opportunities with but one motive."

Declares Gifts Indicate Father.

"I want to say right here when they charge Mr. Stillman with baseness in harboring his wife," said Mr. Miller, "that there is not one scintilla of evidence in this case that he ever gave Guy even so much as a stick of candy. Mr. Stillman foolishly thought to lock his shame in his own closet. Every one has his own code of morals and Mr. Stillman was vain and foolish to think that he could lock this secret up. The presents that Beauvais made to Guy shows that the presents came from the real father."

After displaying a tiny cradle and a piece of birthday cake, which he charged Mrs. Stillman had sent to the Indian guide on the occasion of Guy's first birthday, Mr. Miller returned to the letters. He paid special attention to the $15,000 letters, four of which were read into the record at the last hearing in the case in May, 1922.

"Beauvais never denied authorship of the letters which were bought," he pointed out. "The defendant alleges that we induced Beauvais to write them. The authorship has not been questioned. If the letters are fabrications, then Mr. Stillman has no case. Mrs. Stillman's attorneys said that the referee had found these letters to be fabrications. He did not. He said they had been purchased for $15,000 and that the other letters had not been accounted for. The question here is—are those letters genuine? Mrs. Stillman refused to answer yes or no when confronted with them. Her only answer was 'They are not my sentiments, so I could not have written them.'

"This judgment in her favor will continue to be a stench in the nostrils of all who love justice, as long as it remains unreversed. The shame that has been done cannot be wiped out. Shall this Court say that the son of an Indian is of white blood? Maybe the Stillman case has been a stench in the nostrils of all decent people—made so by this woman herself."

At one point in his searching analysis of the evidence in the record, Mr. Miller, who before he was Governor was a Judge of the Court of Appeals, said that the "referee decided this case on trivialities." He closed his argument with this question: "Shall the judgment of this court perpetuate a fraud?" a reference to the legitimacy of Guy.

Mills Replies for Mrs. Stillman.

"We are here in defense of a wife and mother," said Mr. Mills, in rebuttal, "whose honor is involved, as well as in defense of the legitimacy of a child, now 5 years old. We dispute the authenticity of the letters which Mr. Miller says show inclination and opportunity. Mrs. Stillman is an intelligent, educated woman, and there is no evidence of intelligence or education in the letters attributed to her. She was before the referee for three days and she denied writing the letters. The referee must have believed her, for he excluded them from the evidence. As regards the telegram announcing the arrival of the baby, Mrs. Stillman sent the same telegram to two other persons besides Beauvais.

"It has been said by Judge Miller that Mr. Stillman never evidenced any affection for little Guy. Yet the testimony shows that once when he called to see the infant he said 'we were afraid he would be in bed.' Does that show a hatred for the child or a suspicion that Mrs. Stillman had been unfaithful?

"The testimony shows that Mr. Stillman gave Mrs. Stillman many valuable presents and that he always remembered every anniversary, even that of their engagement. He sent her a check for $5,000 with this message: 'Would you like to buy something with this check—don't buy clothes or anything necessary.'

"Somebody has said, 'Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned.' Stillman did not dare to keep away from Mrs. Stillman for a period of three months, as has been said here. He, too, knew the fury of a woman scorned, and dared not bring it upon himself. He feared she might find out what he was doing. We may infer from the fact that Beauvais was paid $15,000 by emissaries of Stillman that he was bought long before. The inference is that he made up those letters. The inference is that they planned to put Beauvais on the stand, but for some reason or other Mr. Brennan and Mr. Mack suspected him and he was never called."

Mr. Mack declared that the legitimacy of Guy had been established beyond doubt and that nothing in the appeal had been raised to offset his claim. Neither of the principals in the case was in court.

HEAR FROM MRS. CROKER.

Signs Indian Name to Message for Greenwich Village Gathering.

A telegram from Mrs. Bula Croker, widow of the late Richard Croker, sent from the Wigwam, Palm Beach, Fla., and signed in her Indian name, Ketaw Keloutuchy, was read yesterday during the Indian Day exercises under auspices of the Greenwich Village Historical Society, at the Ainslee Galleries, 677 Fifth Avenue. The telegram expressed regret at her sudden departure from the city.

The message was read by Princess Atalie Unkalimt, a descendant of the Cherokee tribe, who was delegated by Mrs. Croker to speak for her. It was explained that Mrs. Croker's presence in Florida was required in connection with the settlement of the Croker estate. Princess Unkalimt is the daughter of Thomas L. Rider, an Oklahoma State Senator, who was the son of a Cherokee chief. She is the founder of the First Daughters of America, which seeks to bring about a clearer understanding of the condition of the American Indians today.

Three other Indian girls were present, two from the Mohawk tribe, White Fawn Red Eagle and her daughter, Chicakee Red Eagle, and Princess Chisquilis, a Cheyenne, who since her graduation from the Carlisle School several years ago has been teaching in a girls' school in this city.

Among the guests present was John R. Voorhis, President of the Board of Elections and the oldest resident of Greenwich Village. He celebrated his ninety-fourth birthday last July.

MARINE DIES AFTER BOUT.

Following his collapse in a six-round bout with Thomas Reed of 783 St. Ann's Avenue, the Bronx, a member of the 258th Field Artillery, at the armory of the 212th Artillery, Sixty-second Street and Columbus Avenue, Tuesday night, Thomas Madden, 25 years old, a marine on the U. S. S. Wyoming, died yesterday morning in Roosevelt Hospital.

In one of a series of weekly matches held at the armory Madden collapsed in the sixth round. No particularly heavy blow had been struck, spectators said, and the referee declared the match to have resulted in a draw. Before the bout Madden had been examined by Major Daniel S. Coleman, U. S. Marine Corps surgeon of the Wyoming, and pronounced in perfect condition.

FOG HAMPERS THE FERRIES,

Shipping Slowed Up in the Harbor, but There Are No Accidents.

A thick fog blew in from the sea yesterday with the drizzling rain and caused some inconvenience to shipping. There were no accidents, however.

There was a delay of five minutes in the Thirty-ninth Street ferry service from the Battery. The 2:30 P. M. trip from South Ferry to St. George was abandoned because of the fog, but the 3:40 boat went out on time.

Governors Island was obliterated for a time, but came into view again late in the afternoon.

Auto Owner Couldn't Pay Fine.

Harry Elias of 385 Grand Avenue, Brooklyn, owns an automobile, but he couldn't pay a fifteen-dollar fine for speeding when he was arraigned yesterday before Judge Morris L. Rosenwasser in the Yonkers Police Court. He was sentenced to an alternative of five days in jail.

FIND YOUNG DAUDET COMMITTED SUICIDE

Three Doctors Who Examine the Exhumed Body Agree No Other Conclusion Is Possible.

BOY'S LETTERS RECOVERED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—The body of Philippe Daudet, son of the royalist leader, Léon Daudet, was exhumed this morning and the wound from which he died was examined by three doctors, two appointed by the Department of Justice and one representing the Daudet family. After a thorough examination all three agreed that no theory other than suicide was possible. They found that the bullet from the revolver of small calibre had entered the right temple and emerged at the left side of the head and that the shot had been fired with the weapon pressed against the head, the skin and hair being burned.

Thus the allegation that young Daudet was murdered is definitely negatived and the affirmations of the chauffeur in whose taxicab the boy shot himself is fully confirmed. There remains to be solved the second assertion of Léon Daudet and the Royalists that the suicide was the result of suggestion.

The police today obtained possession of the originals of the notes and poems which Daudet, whether voluntarily or not, left in possession of the anarchist editor, Georges Vidal. The latter, it appears, sent them by registered letter to his wife at Marseilles, but, he declares, "with the intention of getting them back and submitting them for police inspection, as promised yesterday." He sent to Marseilles one of the anarchist group, Mme. Hauteclaire. Her movements and visit to Mme. Vidal were known to the police and on her arrival from Marseilles this morning she was asked to hand over the documents. This she did.

They appear to be exactly as Vidal described them, there being among them the note written at Havre in which the lad talked about visiting the lands of the north and a note written to Vidal at the Café Grenier de Gringoire, in which he spoke of the money he had borrowed and asked that it be repaid out of a deposit he had left at the Libertaire office.

It is admitted by all those who have been following the case attentively that though the Anarchists' story has so far been completely supported by all the facts revealed, there has been no substantiation of several allegations of the Royalists. There remain, however, several points to be cleared up. The vendor of the revolver which the boy used has not yet been found. It is thought that he does not wish to reveal his identity, for fear of punishment for selling the weapon to a minor. In the cab an empty cartridge shell has been found, but whether it is the same one that Daudet fired or another is not yet clear. The chauffeur cleaned and washed his cab the day after the tragedy and this shell was not found till nearly a week afterward.

Another element of mystery has been introduced by the Royalists, who yesterday took with them to the examining magistrate "an important witness," whose name and features they refused to disclose except to the magistrate. At the entrance and exit of the Magistrate's rooms, with coats and hats, they concealed his face and figure from waiting photographers.

Louis Forest, the well-known editorial writer of the Matin, advances the theory that young Daudet was afflicted with that curious dual mentality of which Stevenson's Dr Jekyll and Mr. Hyde is a classic example.

"The boy," he writes, "was afflicted with mental troubles. That fact is established. Two suppositions are therefore possible. Either he went to the Anarchists in the hope of obtaining information to serve the Royalist cause of his father or felt himself converted to the opinions of the people who usually are considered his father's worst enemies. If this latter supposition is accepted it is probable that the boy was sometimes a Royalist and sometimes an Anarchist, according to which one of his dual personalities was in the ascendant, and that when his other self predominated he did not remember what he had seen and done. When such natures become conscious of their double mentality they are generally rendered desperate and impelled to commit suicide."

ITALY TO INDEMNIFY VICTIMS OF THE FLOOD

Minister Estimates 500 Dead and 130,000,000 to 150,000,000 Lire Damages.

ROME, Dec. 5.—The Minister of Public Works, Signor Carnazza, informed the Cabinet today that the fatalities in the flood of Saturday in the Bergamo Valley aggregated about 500, and that the material damage was estimated at between 130,000,000 and 150,000,000 lire. He urged that measures be taken to indemnify peasants for losses sustained or to aid them in re-establishing their farms and businesses.

BERGAMO, Dec. 5.—Every church in Bergamo Valley left standing by last Saturday's flood was the scene yesterday of a funeral service for the victims. Two hundred and fifty bodies have been recovered so far throughout the valley. Snow has succeeded rain, adding to the difficulties of the searching parties and to the organization of relief work among the survivors. The homeless are being cared for with contributions that are pouring in from all parts of Italy.

DOMODOSSOLA, Italy, Dec. 5.—A torrent, swelled by the rising of the Ossola River, is threatening the safety of the Simplon railway line. Many of the inhabitants of the region have fled from their homes, fearing disaster.

The flooding of the Formazza Valley by the breaking of a dike on the Tooe River has caused damage estimated at several million lire. The deluge, the result of the exceptionally heavy rains, uprooted trees and destroyed the roads throughout the valley.

Sherman Ends Gasoline Inquiry.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Having finished his investigation of the gasoline situation in New York State, Attorney General Sherman is preparing the report of his findings, which will be submitted to Governor Smith within a few days. The investigation included a complete survey of gasoline prices extending from New York to Buffalo.

Bandits Use Adhesive Tape for Gags.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 5.—Bandits have learned that adhesive tape is an effective material with which to seal the lips of their victims. It was used this morning by three gunmen, who escaped with $300 in cash and some merchandise after holding up Abraham Akers and a clerk in the former's dry goods store. The two men were gagged with adhesive tape after they had been bound up in the peacavet.

"Three Removes are as Bad as a Fire"

Have you ever had to move or rearrange your office?

Then you know Ben Franklin was right when he said about furniture—"Three Removes Are As Bad As A Fire."

With ordinary wood and glass office partition, one move is as bad as a fire.

Telesco Partition is built to be moved.

It has interchangeable units, erected entirely with screws, and because of its extension top it can be made to fit any height ceiling without change or alteration.

STRATON TO DEBATE WITH A MODERNIST

VIRGIN BIRTH ONE SUBJECT

Baptist Says He's Ready to Be Taken to the Woodshed for Punishment.

The clash between the Baptist Fundamentalists and the so-called Modernists reached a climax last night when the Rev. Charles F. Potter, pastor of the West Side Unitarian Church, 550 Cathedral Parkway, issued a challenge to debate to Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, 123 West Fifty-seventh Street. The challenge was accepted.

In Calvary Church the Baptist Fundamentalists are holding a series of mass meetings, asserting, among other things, that the Bible is the infallible word of God and everything written therein should be construed literally.

In a letter to Dr. Straton the Rev. Mr. Potter challenged him to a public debate upon the following points:

1—That the Bible is the infallible word of God.

2—That an evolutionist can be a Christian.

Plans to Hold Debates Publicly.

Mr. Potter added that it should be understood that Dr. Straton will take the affirmative on the first and third questions and the negative on the second. It is proposed to hold the debates publicly, one each in the respective churches of the challenger and the challenged and the third in "neutral territory."

Mr. Potter's letter said in part:

"This proposal to you is made partly because of the contemptuous and untrue assertions about Unitarianism made from your pulpit in your presence without contradiction by the Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the Baptist Church, Fort Worth, Texas, last Sunday afternoon and because of the aspersions cast upon my friends, Dr. Faunce and Dr. Fosdick, in your church last evening."

Mr. Potter also issued a statement to the press, in which he said:

"Too long has Dr. Straton gone unanswered and unchecked in his career of open challenge to Modernists. Dr. Straton's condemnation of Mr. Brady's refusal to debate with him on the morality of the stage places him in a position where he can hardly refuse my challenge with any grace. Last Sunday evening Mr. Norris sneeringly said: 'Imagine Liberals having a revival.'

Stirred by Attacks on Evolution.

"New York liberals have been quiet too long. It is time to demand that defamatory statements cease immediately. It is also time that direct answers were made to the extravagant statements of the Fundamentalists. Dr. Straton and his group are openly challenging the believers in evolution."

Dr. Straton, in accepting the challenge said in part:

"I have read your letter of Dec. 4 with great interest and hereby accept your challenge, subject to a few changes in the subjects for debate. I agree with you that these great issues in the religious field are the most vital and important before the people today."

The letter then suggests that in "dragging in" the names of Dr. Faunce and Dr. Fosdick, Mr. Potter is bringing the debate to the level of personalities and goes on to say:

"I suggest the following subjects for debate:

"1. Resolved that the Bible is the infallible word of God.

Evolution Question Worded Differently.

"2. Resolved that the earth and man came by creation of a living God and not by evolution.

"3. Resolved that the miraculous virgin birth of Jesus Christ is an essential Christian doctrine.

"4. Resolved, That Jesus Christ is the Divine Son of God.

"5. Resolved, That Jesus Christ will return in bodily presence to this earth and establish the reign of universal peace and righteousness.

"I will champion the affirmative of all these subjects."

Dr. Straton also issued a reply to the statement which Mr. Potter made in connection with his letter of challenge. This statement says in part:

"I notice that in Mr. Potter's statement to the press an expression that the time has come when I should be taken to the woodshed for punishment. I will submit with the best grace possible. I only hope Brother Potter will not say before beginning the chastisement: 'Remember, this is going to hurt me more than it does you.'"

MOSES FOR THE HAGUE.

Senator Wants World Court There Instead of League Tribunal.

United States Senator Moses of New Hampshire proposed yesterday the development of a world court at The Hague in place of that set up under the League of Nations. In an address before the American Association of Woolen Manufacturers, at a dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria, he said that it should be kept in mind that America had sponsored The Hague tribunal.

"Why should we turn our back upon a child of our own creation in order to fondle the rag dolls of foreign diplomacy?" he asked. "Like the Treaty of Versailles, the League court carries obligations which the United States cannot undertake unless we are prepared to repudiate the verdict of 1920 and to take the first step in a path which leads to the vortex of close and inescapable entanglements in European problems.

"Yet those of us who recognize the facts and who have the temerity to assert them are characterized as humanely strabismic and politically paralyzed. We are accused of obstruction and are taunted with having no constructive plan to offer as against one which promises so high a return that nothing short of an international blue-sky law can properly interfere with its operation."

Senator Moses characterized The Hague tribunal as a body which only needed to be nurtured to become what America once sought to make it.

BATTLE FOR WORLD COURT.

Advocates America's Membership Before Marquette Club.

Advocating that the United States become a member of the World Court, George Gordon Battle, speaking before the Marquette Club at its regular monthly meeting in the Plaza Hotel last night, declared that the court "is the last stage in the long conflict between law and violence."

The court, he declared, carries into international fields the principle of adjudication of disputes in an orderly manner.

"In all civilized communities," he said, "men have long since ceased to regard violence as a reasonable method for the settlement of private controversies. Unfortunately, our national Governments have lagged behind. They have largely adhered to the ethics of the savage and have settled their serious quarrels by war and bloodshed rather than by the methods of reason and justice."

Mr. Battle declared that the present World Court fulfills all of the requirements laid down by former Secretary of State Elihu Root in his instructions to the American delegates to The Hague Conference in 1907. The court, he said, is composed of able judges who have a sense of judicial responsibility, and the court in his opinion, had competent jurisdiction since matters are referred to it only by nations signing the covenant, or when both parties to a dispute agree to submit it to the court, and to be bound by the court's decision.

A December Sale of Fine Heavy OVERCOATS

From the Founder's Writings

New Beginnings Are the Soul of Perseverance

To make a home or a store a little better today than it was yesterday is the secret of the newness of things here.

Every hour comes along with some new ideas and good purposes on its back, and the whole day is filled with little endeavors to suppress errors, improve systems, and to get clear of the defects and annoyances arising from human imperfections.

Of course, there are rush periods in every day that no human being can foresee or fully provide for, but they subside generally in a few minutes.

Though our patrons are very considerate, it will be seen that we are all the time learning to be more considerate of our customer's time and convenience.

PLAN TO GET YOUTH IN BUILDING TRADES

MODEL SEEN IN OLD GUILDS

Craftsmanship Must Be Raised to Former Dignity, Says F. D. Roosevelt in a Letter.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Plans for launching a national apprenticeship program for the construction industry were discussed today by the Apprenticeship Committee of the National Construction Council. The committee is meeting here in connection with the convention of the National Society for Vocational Education, which opens tomorrow. The committee's purpose is to further development of apprenticeship in the construction trades.

A letter from Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the National Council, read at the opening session, characterized apprenticeship as "one of the greatest problems in American industry today." The country should be aroused, Mr. Roosevelt said, "to the need of placing skilled manual labor on a par with clerical and non-manual labor in the public esteem."

John Donlin, President of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, proposed a nation-wide survey of apprenticeship needs, and pledged the co-operation of labor in training sufficient youths to meet these needs.

Other speakers included F. W. Walker of Beaver Falls, Pa., Chairman of the committee; John W. Cowper of Buffalo, President of the Associated General Contractors of America; Fred F. Moran of the New York Apprenticeship Committee; C. A. Prosser, Director of Dunwoody Institute, Minneapolis; Thomas F. Preece of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Association of America, and George Dautel of the Mason Contractors Association of Cleveland.

Mr. Roosevelt's letter said:

"One of the greatest problems in American industry today is the lack of young men to fill the ranks of certain trades and the surplus of workers in the so-called white collar occupations. This problem is a national one and can be solved only as such.

"Three things must be done to solve the problem. First, we must find in what building trades shortage of man power really exists. Having found where young men are needed, there must be determined what sort of schooling or training is needed to turn out graduates fitted to become apprentices; young men who will be welcomed into the ranks of skilled labor. I hope there will be established such practical standards as will make any young man so trained eagerly sought.

"The third problem, once the others are solved, is to assure steady employment to graduates of these courses.

"What we need is more appreciation of the dignity of craftsmanship, the true guild spirit of the middle ages, which made the workmanship of that day something to be studied and admired by the generations which followed."

ROBBER OF MRS. POST SENTENCED TO 8 YEARS

Special to The New York Times.

MALONE, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Thomas Carney, 27, said to be a notorious New York City jewel thief, was sentenced today by Judge F. G. Paddock in County Court to serve eight years in Dannemora Prison on a charge of grand larceny in the first degree.

Carney was accused of attempting to steal jewelry valued at $20,000 from Mrs. Mary Post of New York and Chicago, on Aug. 27, while she was a guest at a camp near Paul Smith's. The robbery was blocked by servants who caught the thief and forced him to take the jewelry from his pocket.

Mrs. Post took the stand today to identify her jewels.

Carney, after staging a hunger strike in the Franklin County Jail for the last two weeks, was in a weakened condition and had to be carried into the courtroom by officers. He collapsed in a chair.

The indictment charged this crime as a second offense, the record showing conviction on the same charge in New York City.

STARVED BUT WILL STAY.

Denver Girl Who Collapsed on Street Refuses to Go Back.

Two and a half days of starvation in New York haven't convinced Nanette Prevost, 19 years old, formerly of Denver, that the big city isn't the place for her.

Lying on a cot in Bellevue Hospital recuperating from the effects of malnutrition which caused her to collapse at Chambers Street and West Broadway Tuesday, Nanette declared her determination to stay until she gets some work to support herself.

"I graduated from high school in June and three days later had the misfortune to lose my mother. Denver in a tough place to get a job. You have to wait until some one dies there. I qualified in stenography at high school and decided to come to New York to find work in an office. I have no idea of going on the stage or entering the movies.

"I left Denver with $60 in my possession and arrived here full of hope and confidence. I had heard a lot about this town and was determined to make a place for myself here. I went to live at a Y. W. C. A. and searched about for a job, but to no avail. Sunday morning all my money was gone and I wandered about without a room or anything to eat."

She said she was an orphan and without relatives here, but she is determined to remain in New York and will continue her hunt for a job as soon as she is able to leave the hospital.

DENIES PLEA OF ACTRESS.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Surrogate George A. Slater of Westchester County, today denied the plea of Miss June Avis Evans, an actress, for a jury trial of her claim against the estate of the late Daniel R. Hanna, publisher of Cleveland, who left a $10,000,000 estate.

This is the second time Miss Evans has lost her plea for a jury to decide her claim of $1,230 a month for life, which she alleges Mr. Hanna agreed to give her in consideration that she break her engagement to marry him, which she says she did.

Surrogate Slater said the motion was denied "until such time as all parties interested in the estate are properly before the Court." He ordered the executors of the estate to file an accounting.

ROTHENBERG NURSE BEFORE JURY TODAY

IS GUARDED DURING NIGHT

Two Attempts to Kidnap Witness Reported—Jurors Fear They May Be Attacked.

Special to The New York Times.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Anna Sobin, 16-year-old nursemaid, who is the last person known to have seen 7-year-old Howard Rothenberg before he was found strangled to death early on the morning of Aug. 29 at Windham, will tell her story to the Greene County Grand Jury tomorrow morning. She is regarded as one of the most important witnesses.

District Attorney Charles G. Coffin has said repeatedly that he believes Anna innocent of any criminal act, but he also has said that he thinks she knows more than she has told to the authorities. The Grand Jury was in session only two hours this morning. Among the few witnesses were Mrs. Joseph Checketts of New York, a Summer boarder at Windham, and John Finkle, Windham riding master.

The Grand Jury proceedings took second place in interest to the persistent rumors that efforts are being made to kidnap or intimidate witnesses. The authorities believe that two such attempts have been made on Anna Sobin. As a result she sleeps in a different room in Sheriff Pierce's home every night. In addition to the Sheriff and an under sheriff who sleeps in the house, a deputy stands guard outside. The members of the Grand Jury also have let it be known that they are uneasy. Their number has been reduced to sixteen, the minimum, and if one dropped out the investigation would have to be started anew. Eleven have to make long trips over lonely mountain roads each night and it has been suggested that they be armed.

Charles Rothenberg, Howard's father, was forced into involuntary bankruptcy in the Federal Court in Newark yesterday by three petitioners, one of whom was his brother Samuel. Until a fortnight ago Charles Rothenberg with Samuel and another brother, Joseph, were in business together as hat manufacturers.

Samuel Rothenberg listed a $3,000 loan against Charles. The two other petitioners claimed a total of $730. Charles's assets were estimated at $5,000 and his liabilities at $15,000. It was said that he had spent $9,000 in the investigation of his son's death. Federal Judge Runyon appointed Louis Freund receiver.

REPUDIATE RED LEADER AS PRAISING FASCIST!

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Dec. 5.—The Executive Committee of the Italian Communist Party has demanded that Deputy Bombacci, once leader of the party, resign his seat in Parliament for having referred to Facismo in a too conciliatory fashion in a speech before the Chamber on the proposed Italo-Russian commercial treaty. Bombacci on that occasion referred to Mussolini's rise to power as "Italy's wonderful revolution," and said that he looked forward to a day when the relations between Italy and Russia would be cemented by an alliance.

Such language from one who in his election speech authorized his supporters to hang him to the nearest lamppost if he did not carry out the work for a proletarian revolution in Italy on Russian lines caused surprise. Bombacci declares that the move against him was dictated by personal hatreds, and that he has not made up his mind whether he will obey the order to resign. In any case, he says, he will never abandon the Communist Party.

The Executive Committee of the party says in its resolution: "The Italian proletariat approves the resumption of commercial relations between Italy and Russia, but not for the reasons of narrow and egotistical economic interest which prompt the capitalistic bourgeoise. The Italian proletariat approves because the resumption of commercial relations will strengthen and give the possibility of further development to the Russian proletariat, which, despite the open and secret attacks of the international bourgeoisie, maintains its place in the forefront of world revolution. On account of his speech in the Chamber, which offends not only the principles but also the dignity of Italian Communists, Deputy Bombacci is no longer authorized to represent the Communist Party in Parliament and to speak in its name."

Ministerial newspapers express scarcely repressed glee at this split among the Communists. Bombacci has a large following, which will probably go with him if he is expelled from the party.

ITALY TO SUPPRESS STUDENTS' REBELLION

ROME, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Reprisals against the rebellious university students who continue their agitation to disrupt school discipline was promised at today's meeting of the Cabinet by Minister of Education Gentile.

The Minister, in making a report to the Cabinet on the closing of the University of Rome because of objections made by the students to the provision of the new law regarding examinations, said his Ministry was prepared to punish severely all agitators whose actions tended toward disrupting the normal trend of educational institutions.

Premier Mussolini said he fully approved of decisive action against recalcitrant students and declared that his entire Cabinet stood solidly behind Signor Gentile for the enforcement of the law.

Some agitation was reported today in Turin and Naples, chiefly among students of the medicine, engineering and law departments.

The students object to the law's provisions making it obligatory to pass all examinations before being admitted to the next year's course. Those who matriculated last year are especially aroused over this, contending it is unfair to expect them to sit now for examinations in which they failed during their first year at the university.

The chief innovation introduced by the law, which completely reforms the whole scholastic machinery of Italy, consists in limiting the number of State schools throughout the kingdom as well as the number of students who may attend each course. The sudden application of the law led to numbers of students being unable to obtain admittance to the State schools, and the private schools have been unable to accommodate the surplus.

These limitations do not apply to the elementary schools, attendance at which is still compulsory.

BIRTH CONTROL AID TOLD BEFORE POLICE

900 PATIENTS IN 11 MONTHS

The operation of a birth control clinic called the Clinical Research Bureau, at 104 Fifth Avenue, was disclosed in detail yesterday at a luncheon at the Hotel Pennsylvania of the American Birth Control League. The clinic appears to have been "secret" in the sense that the police were unaware of it, but it has been known to hospitals, physicians, social service agencies and the church heads of some parishes, and has derived most of its 900 patients through such channels.

Treatment has been limited strictly, according to the heads of the organization, to those lawfully entitled to receive it—married women who were diseased, or whose lives would be endangered by child birth.

The police, apprised of the existence of the clinic by publications in yesterday's newspapers, sent representatives in plain clothes to the luncheon, according to the league itself. Those representatives, it was added, acted merely as observers and no doubt reported to their superiors. Chief Inspector William J. Lahey, questioned as to the department's attitude toward the project, said it would be "investigated."

Established on Jan. 1 of this year, the clinic is said to have received 900 patients and to have refused twice that number because they fell without the legal classification of those who may lawfully receive aid in birth control. For a guide in keeping within the law, the clinic adopted the decision of Justice Frederick E. Crane on Jan. 8, 1918, when he upheld one of the numerous convictions of Mrs. Margaret Sanger, President of the league, for disseminating contraceptive information. Justice Crane held that the only exceptions permitted under the law were married women who were diseased or whose lives would be endangered by child birth.

The police promptly raided a birth control clinic opened in Brooklyn in 1916, and the eleven months' functioning of the Fifth Avenue institution is believed to be the first occasion when such a clinic has endured over a considerable period. According to its heads, the patients were 33 per cent. Protestants, 32 per cent. Catholics, 31 per cent. Jews and 4 per cent. scattering. Sixty per cent. were born in the United States and 40 per cent. originated among thirteen foreign countries. Although accepted for physical reasons, 73 per cent. were said to possess also economic reasons for not wishing to become mothers. Pregnant women were not accepted.

Tells of Need for Clinic.

The clinic has been presided over by Dr. Dorothy Bocker, who has been director of physical education in several universities. In a speech at the luncheon she said that maternity and child-welfare legislation as well as tuberculosis-prevention work must be supplemented by birth control if they were to be effective.

"Appropriations amounting to $206,000 will be spent this year in maternity hygiene and child-welfare work, much of which will be in vain unless birth control is also resorted to," Dr. Bocker continued. "Mothers suffering from tuberculosis die in 65 per cent. of childbirths, and infant mortality due to congenital disease is appallingly high. Such measures as are provided in the welfare legislation take care of only half the problem. Tuberculosis prevention is rapidly coming to the irreducible minimum, and the disease can only be stamped out by birth control.

"At the outset of our work at the clinic we sent out questionnaires to 100 physicians and to 100 hospitals, asking for their attitude. Six per cent. of the physicians replied that they gave such information, provided the patient were sick enough, while the others replying, about 70 per cent., said they did not give such information. Nearly all the hospitals replied, but only 4 per cent. gave out birth control information."

At the conclusion of the speaking, donations were asked for continuing the work of the clinic. About $5,000 was raised, according to Mrs. Ann Kennedy, executive secretary. Mrs. Sanger presided. Among the speakers were Heywood Broun and the Rev. Dr. William H. Garth, pastor of St. Mark's Church, Islip, L. I.

A movement was started to petition the State Legislature to amend the penal laws to permit licensed physicians to give patients contraceptive information in public and private practice.

PRISON OFFICIAL HELD FOR BEATING CONVICT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—Charles Santee, Second Deputy Warden at the Eastern State Penitentiary, was held today in $1,000 bail after a convict had testified before Judge Monaghan that Santee had beaten him so severely he was confined to a hospital for two weeks. Aggravated assault and battery was the charge against Santee, preferred by James Fraley, the convict, serving twenty years for the murder of his sweetheart.

A crowded courtroom then witnessed the unusual sight of a prisoner being led back to the penitentiary by the man charged with having inflicted serious injuries on him.

Bail for Santee was furnished by Second Deputy Warden Herbert A. Smith, and Judge Monaghan placed the prisoner in the custody of the prison officials. The Judge said he regretted he lacked the power to send Fraley to some other prison, as he declared he feared Santee or his associates might take vengeance on him.

DRY AGENTS MOBILIZED.

Haynes, Yellowly, Izzy, Moe and Fifty Others Are In Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 5.—The greatest assemblage of Federal prohibition enforcement officials ever seen in Michigan gathered in Detroit today. E. C. Yellowly, Federal Director General; Judge L. L. Porterfield, right hand man to Roy A. Haynes, the Federal Commissioner; H. A. Dyckman, chief of the tenth District; John W. Harper, Mr. Dyckman's assistant; James R. Davis, Federal Director for Michigan; Izzy Einstein, and Moe Smith were among the half a hundred dry agents present. Mr. Haynes is known to have been here Tuesday, and is reported to be still in the city.

None of the agents would explain the purpose of the meeting. Messrs. Einstein and Smith, corralled in the lobby of their hotel, were asked why Mr. Haynes was here. Both looked blank. Then Izzy started to tell funny stories. Meanwhile the air is electric with rumors.

There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered while it acted. Get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave, without the plaster and without the blister.

Musterole does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders.

Gently massage Musterole in with the finger-tips. See how it brings relief—how the pain disappears.

Try Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia).

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

3 RUN OVER BY AUTO GO RIGHT ON STAGE

Actor and Two Actresses, Knocked Down by Car, Escape Serious Injury.

PINNED UNDER MACHINE

Although they had been knocked down and jammed under an automobile last night in Livingston Street, near Nevins Street, Brooklyn, Edward Lanner, 50; Miss Gladys Palmer, 21, and Miss Elsie Mills, 34, after treatment for bruises at the Holy Family Hospital appeared in the sketch "When We Grow Up" at Keeney's Theatre, near the scene of the accident. The audience knew nothing of their narrow escape from death.

Lanner, who gave the Fulton Hotel, Eighth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street, as his address, was guiding the two actresses across the street in the rain on the way to the theatre at Livingston Street and Hanover Place when the automobile bore down on them. Charles E. Anderson of 60 South Elliott Place, Brooklyn, owner and driver of the car, later told Policeman Potello that rain on the windshield prevented him from seeing the performers until the car was almost on top of them.

He applied the brake, but the car skidded and struck Miss Palmer. As she was falling she knocked down Lanner and Miss Mills. The car rolled over the trio without the wheels touching them. Policeman Potello appeared in a police car and lifted the car up, while Anderson and others pulled the man and the two women from under it. Dr. Nussenbaum took them to the hospital in an ambulance.

Georgette Buysse, 10 years old, of 450 West Forty-sixth Street, who was a favorite with the police of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, was dying when removed to Roosevelt Hospital. She had been run over by a motor truck at Tenth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street. The accident was witnessed by a score of schoolmates of the girl, who was on her way home from Public School 44 in West Forty-seventh Street, near Ninth Avenue. The child's skull was fractured.

Joseph Tronser, 25, of 543 West 160th Street, driver of the truck, who is employed by Park & Tilford, grocers, was held in $2,000 bail on an assault charge by Magistrate Edgar V. Frothingham in the West Side Court.

Adolph Schawalzhoff, 65, of 888 Jackson Avenue, the Bronx, was knocked down by a motor truck last night at Third Avenue and 147th Street, and was removed to Lincoln Hospital in a critical condition. Tony Tucci of 157 South Seventh Avenue, Mount Vernon, driver of the vehicle, was arrested on a technical assault charge.

An automobile overturned a motor truck in the afternoon at Rogers and Clarkson Avenues, Brooklyn, and three of the four occupants were seriously injured. They were Samuel Gluck, 965 Whhelock Avenue, the Bronx; David Weissberg, 690 Flushing Avenue, and Bernard Hollander, 709 East Fifth Street, both of Brooklyn. They were removed to Kings County Hospital. Abraham Heyman of 991 St. Marks Avenue, Brooklyn, driver of the truck, escaped injury. The automobile was driven by Edward T. Fellows of 330 Lincoln Road, Brooklyn.

AUTO HURTS KILL PRINCESS.

Princess Chigi Dies After Automobile Accident Near Rome.

ROME, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Princess Maria Chigi, daughter of the Duke of Torlonia, died today as a result of an automobile accident near the royal hunting lodge of Castel Fusano, close to Rome.

The Princess was motoring from Rome to Castel Fusano. Her car, according to one story of the accident, after turning a sharp corner, became unmanageable, crashed into a tree and turned on its side.

Another report had it that the car skidded and fell over an embankment twenty-five feet high.

The Princess died from an internal hemorrhage.

Wife of New Jersey Congressman Is Also Injured in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Senator Edge of New Jersey and Mrs. Edge were slightly injured last night when they were hit by an automobile while they were crossing Sixteenth Street on foot in a rainstorm.

Senator Edge sustained a deep cut over the right eye, requiring several stitches. Mrs. Edge escaped with bruises but will be confined to her house for several days.

HARVARD DONS BLUE SHIRTS

Club Is Formed to Promote Economy Among Students.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 5.—Harvard is to have a "Blue Shirt Club." Plans for the election of members were postponed today, but the Executive Committee met in Phillips Brooks House and adopted a platform.

The reason for the club seems to be to force down laundry charges, but higher motives are asserted in the platform. The first plank condemns the use of automobiles by students in the college, and states that they are "a detriment to the intellectual pursuits and moral fibre of the student body." Another plank explains its unalterable opposition to the Klu Klux Klan and other obnoxious anti-American organizations.

A button has been designed for the club and orders placed for it.

The members of the Executive Committee believe that until prices are lowered, four blue shirts a month should be the number worn. It is planned to introduce the club at other colleges and universities. One of the members of the Executive Committee is Corliss Lamont, son of Thomas W. Lamont of New York, who for several weeks has clung to blue shirts.

ARREST FUREY IN LYNN.

Alleged Associate of Arnstein Held on Fugitive Warrant.

LYNN, Mass., Dec. 5.—Edward ("Big Ed") Furey, alleged associate of "Nicky" Arnstein, was held in $5,000 bonds until Saturday on a fugitive warrant issued by the New York courts today. Furey, who recently completed a jail term for impersonating a prohibition agent, was found not guilty of larceny in court just before the warrant was served.

Furey testified that he raided Dominic Spinnale's house, posing as a prohibition agent, and seized whiskey, but did not take anything else. Spinnale's wife testified that money and jewelry were taken during the raid.

Police Headquarters here last night refused to comment on the arrest of Furey in Lynn, but it was known that this detention had been requested. Records were not within reach to determine which of the counts against Furey had been invoked at Lynn, but it was thought to be one having to do with the bond theft investigation. He has been a fugitive since jumping his bond here in 1919.

WANTS ENGLAND TO KNOW US BETTER

British Think Ellis Island Is Our Only Holiday Resort, Says Sir Herbert Morgan.

RUM RUNNING OUR PASTIME

Delegates to Advertising Convention in London to Be a Great Peace Mission, He Tells Club.

Sir Herbert Morgan, Chairman of the British Reception Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, told members of the Advertising Club of New York at luncheon yesterday that he believed the American delegation to the international convention in London next year would constitute the "greatest mission of peace and good-will" that ever set out from this country. England, he inferred, did not have too great a knowledge of America.

"So far as we know in England," he said, "you have only one holiday resort—that is, Ellis Island—and your favorite sport and pastime would seem to be rum-running.

"I realize every great city, every great State is going to make its contribution. Not only will you be representative in that sense, but also each one of your great industries, your professions and your banking institutions, your railways, your hotels and your public utilities will combine to make this what I believe is going to be the greatest mission of peace and good-will, the greatest pilgrimage which has ever set forth from these or any other shores during our own lifetime or during the history of the world."

Sir Herbert came to this country to make preliminary arrangements for the twentieth annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World in London from July 13 to 18, 1924. In his youth he lived in America, and on that ground found objections to history as taught here. He felt that after their visit to England, American advertising men might suggest revisions in the history that children learn in this country.

"I grew up in America," said Sir Herbert, "carefully nurtured and tutored in your American history, and I grew up with a thorough and wholesome hatred and detestation of my mother country. Now, from what that is worth, I can throw out the suggestion that if the advertising community of this country, after a full knowledge of England, undertook the task of providing intelligent histories for the little boys and the little girls of America, I think you would be making an enormous step forward in stamping out that historical animosity—and I think you will agree it does exist to an extent. I think if you will do something to stamp that out, we in turn on our side can do the same thing."

Sir Herbert said that his visit here had revealed America as the Mecca of advertising. And through it, he believed, came a close insight into the desires and ambitions of the people to whom the appeal was made.

"Your advertisers here are constantly spreading the gospel of education," he said. "They are spreading the gospel of progress, they are spreading the gospel of good health, and irrespective of their interest in the sale of particular articles, I do believe that vast and gigantic propaganda that is going in is of enormous benefit to your civilization and, I think, probably assists you more rapidly than anything else to assimilate the enormous rush of population which comes to these shores every year."

NEW LINER ARRIVES.

The Voltaire to Be Placed in South American Service

The new Lamport & Holt liner Voltaire arrived yesterday at Hoboken from Belfast, Ireland, to join the company's fleet in the New York and South American service. She has been named after her predecessor, which was torpedoed during the war while acting as a transport. The Voltaire will be the most luxurious vessel operating in the South American trade. She has accommodation for 300 first, 125 second and 300 third class passengers. Her public rooms are spacious and lofty, having been designed specially for tropical service. The smoking room has been designed in the manner of the living hall of an old Tudor manor house in the time of Henry VIII.

Opening out from the smoking room is the veranda café with wicker furniture. Forward on the same deck is the lounge, designed after the Directoire period in France. The chairs and settees are upholstered in silk damask and tapestry, and an attractive dome of wrought iron and glass dominates the entire lounge. The room is surrounded with French windows, which give a maximum of light and ventilation. Opening off the lounge is the music room, divided by a series of sliding glazed screens. The pressing of an electric button can throw both rooms into one when the space is needed for concerts or church service.

Another fine apartment is the dining saloon, which is 75 feet long and 63 feet wide and is illuminated by a dome done in the azure blue of the Italian sky, thirty feet above the tables. The dining room seats 262 passengers. The furniture is of quartered Italian walnut, upholstered in antique blue leather. The ship has been equipped with a special pantry for mothers where they may prepare special dishes for their small children.

The Voltaire has a number of private and public bathrooms and in the tropics a large canvas swimming pool will be erected on the after deck. All decks are connected with spacious companionways or staircases of mahogany decorated with wrought iron. She also has an elevator. She is equipped with a gymnasium, children's play room, with toys, sand pit and swings, a photo dark room, hair dressing shop and laundry. Space has been allotted on the broad promenade deck for a tennis court and a golf meter course.

The cabins are fitted with one, two and three bedsteads and several of them have private bath and sitting rooms and trunk rooms.

The Voltaire is a twin-screw ship of 1,900 gross tonnage with cruiser stern and is 526 feet long and 63 feet abeam. She has an average speed of 16 knots. Her commander is Captain Oscar Penrice, the Commodore of the Lamport & Holt fleet.

COURT RULING STIRS JAPAN.

Washington Decision Revives Proposal to Enforce Anti-Alien Law.

TOKIO, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Aroused by the return from the United States of large numbers of Japanese immigrants, various public organizations and vernacular newspapers of the empire are urging the Foreign Office to take some action which will offset the effect of the decisions of the United States Supreme Court sustaining anti-alien land laws of California and Washington.

So far, beyond sending instructions for the guidance of Ambassador Hanihara in Washington, the contents of which have not been disclosed, the Government has taken no action. Proposals for the abolition of equality in Japanese and American nationality and for enforcement of the Anti-Alien Land act, passed by the Diet ten years ago, but never enforced, have been under consideration for a year, however.

The difficulty foreseen in Government circles in the enforcing of the Anti-Alien Land Act arises from the fact that restrictions on the ownership of land by aliens are waived in the case of citizens of the United States which now permit aliens to own land.

STUDIED USURY LAW IN LOAN TO KNAUTH

TO GET 40% OF PROFITS

When Loan Was Increased to $3,000,000, a 6% Rate Was Fixed on the Whole Amount.

Walter J. Bartnett, a California lawyer who drew up the agreement by which George W. Perkins, W. C. Peyton and their associates lent the Stock Exchange firm of Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne $2,000,000 to stave off impending failure, was a witness yesterday before Referee Robert P. Stephenson at the inquiry into the firm's bankruptcy. The particular purpose of the investigation is to determine whether the Perkins-Peyton group, because of the loan, were partners in the banking house.

According to Mr. Bartnett the Perkins-Peyton group was to receive 40 per cent. of the profits, with a specified minimum of $100,000 and a maximum of $500,000 in two years. The original contract, Mr. Bartnett said, gave the lenders option on a half interest in the firm for $350,000. When $1,000,000 more was advanced, a new arrangement was made by which the $3,000,000 became a straight 6 per cent. loan.

Thought Security Loan Safer.

Questioned by James N. Rosenberg, counsel for Receiver Middleton S. Borland, as to why Mr. Perkins and Mr. Peyton did not lend cash in June, 1921, Mr. Bartnett said that neither desired to borrow any money. He added: "There were also objections from a legal ground. It was believed it would be a safer course to follow to make the loan in securities."

The referee and Mr. Rosenberg questioned him closely about the "legal reason," but he said that the compelling reason for their refusal to lend cash was sentimental.

"But the sentimental reason that existed June 4, 1921, ceased to exist Nov. 20, 1922, when instead of getting 40 per cent. of the profits, they accepted 6 per cent. straight interest?" Mr. Rosenberg commented.

"The contracts speak for themselves," was Mr. Bartnett's reply.

Studied Usury Laws.

"Did you study the New York laws regarding loans of money and loans of securities before the contracts were signed?"

"I did."

"Did you study the New York laws and statutes as to usury?"

"I did."

"Did you state to Peyton, or Freeman, or Perkins, or any one else, anything on the legal effect of a loan of money and the legal effect of a loan of securities and the rights of the lenders thereon?"

"I did. I stated that a loan of securities could be made and any compensation could be fixed. A loan of money was limited to 6 per cent. interest."

"You didn't look into the law as to usury just to go into an academic question?" Mr. Rosenberg inquired.

"No."

"A problem was created, which made the need for you to look it up?"

"Exactly."

"Who presented that problem?"

"I can't state that."

Mr. Bartnett testified that the Perkins-Peyton group did not lend the money as a business venture, but to keep the firm standing. He quoted Mr. Peyton as saying that unless the firm made money, he did not want to be compensated. Mr. Peyton's interest, he said, was in his friend John R. Hall, a partner in the firm, and in the general banking situation.

SAYS PRISONER ADMITS BURNING BODY

NAPA, Cal., Dec. 5.—Edward J. Sailstad, a phonograph dealer, formerly of Eau Claire, Wis., arrested here today at the request of Wisconsin authorities who charged that he placed a body in a house at Lake Nebagammon and then set fire to the structure, confessed burning the house, according to District Attorney Anglin of Napa County.

With Sailstad when he was arrested was a young woman who purported to be his wife but who told District Attorney Anglin her name was Mary Brown and that she had come West with Sailstad after meeting him in Chicago.

In his alleged confession Sailstad told how he had exhumed the body of Allen McFee in Lake Nebagammon Cemetery, taken it to a house he had rented and then burned the dwelling in an effort to leave the impression that he himself had perished, so that he might collect the insurance on his life.

ROUND-UP ON BOWERY.

Captain Kerr Borrows Two Patrol Wagons to Gather In Drunks.

The police have been bothered a little lately by their troubles on and near the Bowery. Most of the trouble seemed to originate in the very bad Bowery liquor. There have been large numbers of automobile accidents in the heavy traffic and apparently many of them resulted from men who chose the street as a pallet or could not stagger out of the path of the vehicles. Last night Captain Kerr of the Oak Street Police Station decided that it was cheaper and easier for the city to arrest all the drunks and put them out of harm's way.

He told his force his ideas, borrowed a pair of patrol wagons from the Clinton Street Station and started a regular municipal bus service up and down the Bowery, the wagons making trips every hour on the hour. By midnight he had corralled more than 50 men and entered them on his blotter. Latest reports indicated that before morning he would have gathered in at least one hundred.

Chatham Square seemed to be the most prolific spot, although the streets radiating from it also yielded a good portion. The record up to midnight was held by a young patrolman named Andrew Johnson. He went after his quota and he got it. When the patrol wagon came along he had eleven lined up at Bayard Street and the Bowery. Most remarkable of all, they were in good humor, and as the wagon arrived he had them singing "Here Comes the Lassie." It was explained by Johnson, who said he had told them the lunch wagon with hot coffee and doughnuts was on the way.

ARBITRATION COURT UPHOLDS OUR CLAIMS

International Tribunal Has Decided Eight of the Ten Cases Against British.

SUSTAINS DEWEY'S ACTION

Damages Are Denied to the British for Cables Cut at Manila in the Spanish War.

LONDON, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Citizens of the United States were markedly successful in the cases brought before the International Pecuniary Claims Tribunal. Out of the ten cases heard by the tribunal, which has just closed its sessions in London, eight were decided in favor of the United States. None of the British claims against the United States was sustained.

Some of the cases were of more than 100 years' standing and had previously been argued by some of the greatest American and British lawyers. The total sum involved in the litigation runs into millions of dollars.

The tribunal, which adopted the principle of arbitration as a basis for its decisions, was composed of an Englishman, an American and a Frenchman. It was presided over by M. Fromageot, an eminent French legal authority on the Ruhr.

One of the most important cases in which the American contentions were sustained was that involving claims for war damages by British cable companies against the American Government for the action of Admiral Dewey in cutting the Hongkong-Manila cable in 1898, and similar action by the American naval forces in severing cables uniting strategic points in Cuba at the time of the Spanish-American War. Although similar claims by French cable companies for war damages were paid by appropriations from Congress, the tribunal sustained the argument of Frederick K. Nielsen, counsel for the American Government, that the United States was under no legal obligation to make compensation in the British case.

The success of the American attorney was all the more remarkable in view of the fact that the executive department of the Washington Government had already recommended to Congress that payment be made to the British companies.

The tribunal awarded $50,000 damages to the heirs of an American citizen who were improperly deprived of lands in the Fiji Islands prior to Great Britain's extension of sovereignty over those islands.

The tribunal dismissed a British claim for several million dollars damage against the United States for alleged improper interference by the Federal authorities with a large irrigation project in New Mexico, which is popularly known as the Rio Grande case.

In a session extending only six weeks, the tribunal established a record for expedition and decisiveness almost unknown to British courts. Only one claim of all the complicated cases reviewed remains to be decided, and this will be heard in Washington, when the tribunal reassembles next Winter. So far as variety and the number of cases listed for adjudication are concerned, American lawyers regard the scope of the arbitration as considerably greater than that of any other arbitration between two Governments.

The prompt results achieved are pointed to as a vindication of the principle of arbitration as a means of settling disputes between two countries, as opposed to diplomatic compromise or other methods not based on the strict legal merits of the various litigations.

Frederick K. Nielsen and his associates, Frederick D. McKenny and William C. Dennis, are leaving England for New York by the Leviathan.

ENGINEERS IN CONVENTION.

Their Aid in Industrial Preparedness for War Is Asked.

Women and men who are physically unfit for active service will be charged largely with the responsibility of carrying on industry in case of war, according to the preparedness program of the United States Government as outlined yesterday before the American Society of Mechanical Engineers by Captain W. H. Churchill, who spoke at the session of the ordnance division of the society. The occasion was the fifth session of the society's forty-fourth annual convention which is being held at 29 West Thirty-ninth Street.

Captain Churchill, who is attached to the New York district ordnance office, said that engineers and manufacturers are organizing to aid in solving the production problems of preparedness.

"If the local branches of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers," he said, "and of other engineering bodies, would devote meetings to the problems of the districts in which they are located, and would continue into their plants the preparedness plans that are being perfected up to their front doors by the War Department, this country of ours would be carrying such a strong insurance policy against war that no enemy, nor logical combination of enemies would dare attack us nor drag us into any conflict they might contemplate entering."

Relief of congestion in large cities by the diversion of industries to country villages through transmission of hydro-electrical power and steam, was urged by John R. Freeman of Providence, R. I., in an address last night.

The address followed resolutions adopted late in the afternoon by the forest products division of the society asking Congress and the State Legislatures to adopt timber conservation and reforestation as an essential part of the program of legislation.

OPPOSES FREIGHT CUT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Opposition was expressed today to President Coolidge by Paul Shoup, Vice President of the Southern Pacific Railroad, to the agitation in Congress for a horizontal cut in freight rates.

Mr. Shoup told the President that the only equitable way to handle complaints against existing rates was the manner now employed by the Interstate Commerce Commission of treating each case individually. In this, it was understood, Mr. Shoup expressed the general sentiment of all railroad executives.

"It would not be fair to the railroads," Mr. Shoup told the President, "to be compelled to reduce rates horizontally, or for the Interstate Commerce Commission to order blanket reductions. In fact, it would develop situations in the rate structure which the Commission has been anxious to avoid—the discrimination in favor of one community or gateway to the detriment of another."

OPPOSE FIRE WHISTLE.

New Rochelle Residents Say It Disturbs Sleep and Does No Good.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Recommending that the fire whistle be used only when a conflagration threatens the city, the League of Neighborhood Associations has requested the New Rochelle Fire Commission not to sound an alarm for ordinary fires. It is pointed out that the sounding of the alarm on all occasions "does no good," as it only attracts a crowd to the scene of the fire which hampers the firemen.

Commissioners Nestler and Wheeler agree that the sounding of the whistle on all occasions not only is a hindrance to the firemen, but disturbs the early morning rest of New York commuters. The protest will be considered at the next meeting of the commission.

THIS Vocalion is offered in answer to an almost overwhelming demand. As dainty and tasteful a console model at such a low price seemed at first impossible. Yet here it is—a beautifully made, well-proportioned Queen Anne cabinet which will add a note of beauty to any room. A genuine Aeolian-Vocalion at $150—about the price of an ordinary phonograph.

This charming instrument possesses all the Vocalion's full richness of tone, it plays all standard records without change of equipment—and plays them as can no other phonograph.

New, Latest Equipment
At a remarkable Price

Then, too, it possesses the greatest phonograph feature of all, so recognized by musicians here and abroad, the famous Graduola, which brings into play your own musical nature, for with it you may sway the music with your own hands as your mood wills.

It is impossible with any newspaper illustration to do justice to the beauty of this dainty Queen Anne Vocalion. Come in and see and hear it. You will want one in your home for Christmas.

The Merriest Christmas of All—

Bright and early Christmas morning you and your boy will be running his Lionel Train, enjoying the "thrills" of the World's most fascinating and educational toy.

The realistic Lionel Equipment includes Crossing Gates that automatically lower as the train approaches and raise as it passes by. Electric Block Signals flash "Danger" and "Clear Track Ahead," while Electric Warning Signals ring at crossings. All Lionel Locomotives, Cars and Accessories are of steel construction and practically indestructible.

For 23 years Lionel Electric Trains have been electrically and mechanically perfect—fully guaranteed. They are attractively finished in rich enamels and baked like automobile bodies.

TRUCKMEN DEMAND CAR PARKING LAW

Declare Congestion Cannot Be Relieved Until Certain Zones Are Cleared.

PUBLIC SPACES NOT USED

Secretary Barry Says Owners Cannot Be Prevented From Leaving Cars In Street.

The Merchant Truckmen's Bureau of New York, through Thomas F. Barry, Executive Secretary, issued a statement last night, in which it was declared that there would be no improvement in relieving traffic congestion in New York City until an ordinance was passed by the Board of Aldermen prohibiting parking of pleasure cars in certain zones. Mr. Barry also said:

"The recent ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen does, of course, reduce the speed limit of motor vehicles, but it does not help traffic congestion. At the present time, there is no law on the statute books which prevents a man leaving his pleasure car parked in the most congested area, if he desires to do so, for an indefinite length of time. Patrolmen are unable to obtain convictions of men who block up city thoroughfares with their cars unless they produce positive evidence before a magistrate that the defendant interfered with traffic.

"In certain sections of the city there are as many as sixty to a hundred cars parked in one street for from ten to twelve hours every day. This results in commercial trucks, in many instances, being unable to effect delivery of merchandise to the uptown buildings.

"Recently when the need of a parking ordinance was broached to the Board of Aldermen, members of the special committee on traffic wanted to know what we intended to do with pleasure cars, assuming that the ordinance was passed. Our reply was that it was clearly the duty of the city to supply public parking places.

"We have since been informed by the traffic division of the Police Department that the cityh as provided these public parking places but that the general public is unwilling to use them to any great extent because the car owners have to walk three or four blocks back from the place they parked the car, to their business. Certainly it is much better for thep ublic to use the parking places provided by the Police Department now than to be entirely forbidden at some future date, to bring cars into certain sections of the city altogether. We must have regulation if traffic is to move at all.

"In any event, some regulation must be had before thep roblem of the motor vehicle becomes an ever greater modern Frankenstein. Any parking regulation is naturally not popular and it will take a courageous Board of Aldermen to pass it, yet it is vitally necessary."

SUN YAT-SEN READY TO DEFY THE POWERS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HONGKONG, Dec. 5.—I had a conversation with Sun Yat-sen yesterday at his headquarters in Canton. He was brisk and vigorous and younger in appearance than when last I saw him in Shanghai. He said the war situation was excellent, but money was the great need. Canton could not continue to shoulder the whole cost of the constitutionalist fight for good government. He has therefore decided to seize the Canton customs and to instruct the Commissioner to hand over all revenues.

If Peking issued short-service foreign loans, Sun continued, he promised to contribute the due proportion from Kantung, but it was intolerable that Peking should be enabled to collect revenue from Kangtung for the purpose of war. He could only abstain from the seizure of the revenue if the diplomatists granted Kantung a portion of the customs surplus, as was done in 1919-1920, plus arrears since 1920.

In reply to a question as to when he would take this extreme step, he answered: "Probably within the next few days."

On my pointing out there were at present no fewer than nine British, French, American and Japanese gunboats at Canton, Sun said he did not hope to overcome such an array of foreign might, but added he would regard it as an honor to be defeated by all the powers and the movement would then enter upon a second phase, but he refused to be more explicit. He hinted at an active alliance with Russia.

Though declaring he was sincerely anxious for good relations with the powers, especially with Great Britain, he held them responsible for the continuance of strife in China and for affording Peking moral and financial support. Directly that was withdrawn war would cease. Meanwhile he was determined to pursue any measure to gain his ends.

Admirals to Resist Seizure.

PEKING, Dec. 5.—In spite of a warning from the diplomatic body informally conveyed to Sun Yat-sen a few days ago, he again is threatening to seize the Canton, House of Canton and to appropriate revenues unless his claims for a share in the customs surplus is admitted. Foreign Admirals now at Canton are understood to be prepared to resist any interference with the customs administration, maintenance of which is vital to foreign commerce and upon the regular collection of which depend revenues devoted to the service of the foreign debt. It therefore is of the utmost importance to foreign interests that the position of the customs should not be jeopardized.

Hitching his wagon to his market

When "old settler" hauled a load of grain to the elevator, drove overweight hogs to the siding, or milk to the dairy, there he left the products of his toil, completely gone from sight and mind when he headed his team for home.

That's as near as the past generation of farmers got to their market. They were producers solely. How their products went into the mysterious processes of distribution was something beyond their ken. Production was their forte, their constant study. Their farm papers educated them faithfully and thoroughly in advanced breeding practice, soil improvement, economical crop and stock feeding.

That was the system of feast or famine, of unstable prices to grower and to consumer as well. The farmer strove to produce his utmost, regardless of conditions, flooding the market at the peak of production, constantly cutting the ground from under his feet.

Keenly aware of the demoralization and instability of his position, nevertheless the farmer was "market blind." Inheritance, tradition and training had focused his energies solely on production. Then came The Country Gentleman with its agriculturally revolutionary point of view. It has educated the farmer in marketing and selling. It has corrected the myopia that foreshortened the farmer's vision of market. It has brought him the message of standardization from his brother producer of the town.

The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is read by the new generation of farmers, which, now market-conscious, is learning to produce for a market it understands. These are the farmers who are making money to-day.

THE RULES OF THE HOUSE.

Party revolts are not always what they seem. The ostensible reason of the bolt for two days of seventeen nominal Republicans in the House of Representatives was given by them as their deep-seated objection to what they are pleased to call the tyrannical rules of the House. But after two days of heroic standing up to be counted, they capitulated on promise of what they could have had from the first without any row at all. That is to say, the old rules are to be in force for a month, during which time amendments are to be studied which will then be reported to the House by the Rules Committee, with free opportunity for debate and for getting a vote upon any additional changes that may be proposed.

All this is so small a concession, and in the event may prove so barren, that it can hardly justify the insurgents for making their fight or for surrendering so easily. But this is on the assumption that they really cared about the rules. As it looks now, that was merely a pretext. What in reality they desired was to make at the very beginning of the session a theatrical demonstration of their strength. They showed that they could prevent the election of a Republican Speaker. But this was simply incidental to their main intent of serving notice on the party organization that they would have to be reckoned with throughout the entire session of Congress and on all matters of legislation in which they took special interest. The whole thing was a kind of gigantic advertisement that they would have to be consulted and squared before business could be done. But here again we come against the fact that this manœuvre was needless. At the end of it we knew precisely as we did before it that Senator LA FOLLETTE has at command seventeen mule-power in the House of Representatives. It was a way of driving home upon the party managers his capacity and readiness to make mischief.

On the question of the House rules, pure and simple, some members have legitimate grievances. Most of the Progressives have only inarticulate grouches. It may fairly be argued that the House ought to have a fuller and more continuous control over its committees. A chairman ought not to be permitted indefinitely to hide away in his pigeonholes a bill which may be desired by a majority of the House. It is doubtless also the case that the discretion of the Rules Committee should not be left so wide as it is at present. But if these or other reasonable changes in the rules were made, no man ought to think that they would end complaints. Many impetuous gentlemen in the House would go on protesting that they were prevented from conferring vast and instant blessings upon the country through the operation of the rules of the House.

What these impatient souls would like is the passage of their bills swift on the heels of introduction. They believe that their great thoughts are of a sort to win approval at once from all honest men, so why go through the long and tedious process of discussing their bills in committee, studying their probable effect in law and in practice, recasting their phraseology, bringing them into harmony with existing statutes and court decisions, and in other ways condemning eager reformers to undergo irksome tests? Of course, they are willing that the bright dreams of other members should be submitted to the cold light of day. They confess that all of the 600 bills introduced the first day of the session could not safely be made law on the second. They concede the necessity of subjecting the ordinary run of bills to close scrutiny in committee and in the House itself. But they are so sure that all their own measures are as perfect in form as they are statesmanlike in conception that they cry out upon the routine which every legislative body is forced to follow unless it is content to become a chaotic mob.

It is said that the rules of the House work to prevent legislation, not to facilitate it. So they do, and so they should. Out of the 20,000 bills introduced in the last Congress, only a few deserved to get on the statute book, and even of these few some could have been spared. There must be rules, and these rules will inevitably seem harsh and arbitrary to men in a hurry to make the world over by act of Congress. Yet changes in them should be made only with caution and after careful study. As Representative LONGWORTH remarked, the rules of the House of Representatives reflect the experience of a hundred years. To alter them hastily or set them aside lightly might easily lead to serious consequences. There is, for example, a rule of the House that an appropriation bill on passage cannot be amended so as to provide money for some new form of expenditure. The "point of order" always lies against such a proposal, and it has undoubtedly in times past saved the taxpayers many millions of dollars. One of the pending demands is that this rule be abrogated, or at least modified. But to do so would obviously open still wider the door to governmental extravagance.

SPEAKER GILLETT.

The little flurry of opposition to the re-election of Speaker GILLETT was in no sense personal to him. He was only for two days the innocent bystander while the shots of Senator LA FOLLETTE's hold-up men were flying. The days of dominating Speakers of the House of Representatives may be over, under present methods, but in fairness as a presiding officer, in close attention to the public business, in dignified bearing, and in the geniality and cultivation displayed in private life, Mr. GILLETT ranks well with the best of his predecessors, though some of them were more famous for other qualities. At the time when the Speaker had to be absent from the last Congress for a few weeks, on account of poor health, a tribute was paid to him by the Democrats which was more than graceful—it was almost affectionate. There can be no doubt that he will resume the exercise of his important office with the respect and good-will of both sides of the House. Even with his diminished powers, the Speaker is in a position to exercise great influence upon legislation; and it is a happy thing for the country that it has in Mr. GILLETT a Speaker upon whose character there has never been a breath of suspicion, and whose abilities are certain to be expended upon what he believes to be the good of the nation.

IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

In the Richards Primary law South Dakota possesses an elaborate and peculiar statute. Twice it has been repealed by the Legislature. Twice the people by referendum have again hugged it to their bosoms. A poor thing, sir, but my own. On Nov. 13 there was a convention of every party in every precinct. Three delegates were elected to the County Proposal Convention held on Nov. 20. In that body every precinct delegate cast a third of the vote of his county for his party nominee for Governor in the last election. The county conventions chose each three Proposal Men to the State Proposal Convention Dec. 4. There each County Proposal Man cast a third of the county vote as before. Every Proposal Convention has to make a platform and the candidate has to accept it. Further, the "paramount national issue" has to be stated and each platform summarized in eight golden words, to be printed on the ballot.

It is hard for the outlander not to get lost in this maze of perfection. Still, politics is pursued much after the manner of less favored States. Mr. MCADOO was overwhelmingly ahead of Mr. HENRY FORD at the Democratic County Proposal Convention. Some of the Republican Conventions instructed for Mr. COOLIDGE, some for HIRAM JOHNSON; apparently a large majority was uninstructed. The Coolidge men did a good deal of quiet work or else it didn't need to be done, because the majority, so far as opinion can be judged by the conventions, favored Mr. COOLIDGE. The Johnsonites made a vivid campaign. Governor MCMASTERS, the gasoline god; Senator NORBECK, and the three Representatives in Congress were with them. Senator STERLING and Indian Commissioner BURKE were the only conspicuous leaders of the Coolidge forces. The triumph of the Son of the Golden West seemed as sure as he always is. Besides, it was said that the President did not want his name to go before the convention. None the less, he won by nearly two to one. Now the partisans of the great Regressive know the taste of sour grapes. These preliminary conventions don't amount to anything, we are told. Wait till the people get a chance to turn out for HIRAM at the March primaries.

Without making too much of these first fruits, it looks as though in South Dakota, a farming State, Mr. COOLIDGE's origin and rise and homely rural good sense and judgment have made a strong impression upon many farmers. He has shown much of that stability and steady courage which gave KNUTE NELSON so just and firm a hold upon the Minnesota farmers. Agricultural relief seems to have been the "paramount national issue" for both Republicans and Democrats. Not in his capacity as a publisher, but as the heart and soul of the agricultural bloc, Senator CAPPER was named for Vice President. At least, friends of alliteration will approve the choice. COOLIDGE and CAPPER. Mr. JOHNSON can get on the ticket as an independent in the extreme left column or as a minority candidate in the second column. Mr. LA FOLLETTE, whom his South Dakota friends have been talking of as the candidate of the Republican Convention, beat Mr. FORD in the Farmer-Labor Convention. He has till Jan. 1 to accept. He will scarcely be helped in the Republican National Convention by this reminder of his proper party. Democratic hopes in South Dakota rested on union between the Democrats and the Farmer-Laborites. It couldn't be brought about. In the Democratic Convention Mr. MCADOO beat Mr. FORD 7 to 1. Doubtless Mr. FORD's bashfulness discouraged his friends in all camps.

The Superintendent of the South Dakota Anti-Saloon League exhibited to the horrified voters a choice mare's nest. The Wets were for Mr. FORD. The Superintendent must have confused him with Senator COUZENS. The renomination of Governor MCMASTERS, Johnsonite, and the defeat of JOHNSON, indicate either a fine independence on the part of the Proposal Men or some mysterious working of the Richards law. Senator STERLING will run as an independent or a minority candidate. Lose or win, a South Dakota candidate gets a lively run for his money.

HEROIN.

The League of Nations' Advisory Committee on the Opium Traffic has requested each Government (presumably whether in the League or not) to appoint a committee of inquiry with a view to ascertaining the possibility of completely abolishing the manufacture of heroin and its use, or of limiting its use to certain types of cases if the committee of inquiry decides that the manufacture cannot be done away with entirely. It is to be expected that there will be practical co-operation from America, for Congressman PORTER, who has been extremely active in attacking the opium traffic, spent some time at Geneva this Summer, despite his hostile attitude toward the League and his earlier differences with "Mr. Cecil."

The testimony so far gathered seems to support the conclusion that the medical need for heroin is negligible compared with the evil effects of its use. The House of Delegates of the American Medical Association at its annual session three years ago, in New Orleans, adopted a resolution going the whole length of this conclusion: voting that "heroin be eliminated from all medicinal preparations, that it should not be administered, prescribed nor dispensed, and that the importation, manufacture and sale of heroin should be prohibited in the United States." The Surgeon General of the United States many years ago issued an order directing all commissioned medical officers to discontinue prescribing heroin. It serves no purpose that other agents cannot accomplish as effectively and without the attendant possibility of grave disaster.

What the nature of this physiological and moral disaster is, subjectively, has been described by Dr. ALEXANDER LAMBERT. But it is shown objectively also in the records of crime. The Chief City Magistrate estimates that of about nine hundred drug addicts committed last year, 98 per cent. were users of heroin. What is more appalling is that, according to the Treasury Report on Traffic in Narcotic Drugs, most of the heroin addicts are comparatively young, "a large portion of them being boys and girls under the age of 20."

There can be, or should be, but one answer from the several nations to the inquiry of the League committee, but total abolition can be made effective only through international co-operation. It will be necessary to fight with others this evil not only here but out "where the poppies grow," even as our soldiers fought a common enemy in certain other fields where "poppies blow."

THE Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. of New York gives an invaluable service to the people of this city. It asks little in return—only enough to help it do all the work that it thinks to be urgently necessary. It has planned a budget for the coming year of $1,091,690. But it already has a total available income of $1,416,690. This means that it is asking the public to give not more than $300,000, or 17 per cent. of its total budget. It has added $100,000 as New York City's contribution toward the national work of the Y. W. C. A., making a total of $400,000. The initial response is gratifying, one-fourth being pledged the first two days of budget week. It should be an easy matter to gather the rest for this most worthy cause. The expense involved in raising this amount is expected not to exceed 1½ per cent., and a prompt response on the part of those who wish to be counted in may reduce even this minimum. In any event, the policy of the organization is not to spend more than it has. If the residue needed on the basis of a close estimate is not contributed, something that ought to be done will be left undone.

A CITY'S REQUISITION OF A GENERAL.

If he could obtain leave of absence from Secretary DENBY, Brig. Gen. SMEDLEY D. BUTLER would accept the position of Director of Public Safety which Mayor-elect KENDRICK of Philadelphia has offered to him. That city is notoriously "wide open." As a clean-living Quaker and a fighting marine, General BUTLER would like to grapple with the reform problem in Philadelphia. "I realize," he says, "that there is a political situation in Philadelphia that breeds fighting. But I am not afraid to tackle what "I know is a hard job." Nor was RUDOLPH BLANKENBURG afraid, a man of great soul and high courage and leader of the best organized reform movement that Philadelphia had ever known. But as Mayor he failed, in spite of his splendid example, to break up the political ring. Seven years after his term ended in 1916 it seems to be as strong for evil as ever.

Thirteen hundred "saloons" flourish in Philadelphia, defying Governor PINCHOT and Major MURDOCK, the Federal Prohibition Director. General BUTLER, as the head of the police force, would be expected to close the saloons. He wants policemen to "feel like the "men of the Marine Corps—that it is "an honor to be a member." The aspiration does him credit, but the politicians would combine to undo him. Philadelphia would not be a "paradise for bootleggers" if the politicians in protecting them did not debauch men of the police force.

One of New York's best Police Commissioners was General THEODORE BINGHAM, but he was on the retired list. Drafting an officer from the active list of the army or the navy to command a police force and do reform work would establish an unhappy precedent. Aside from the fact that a good officer would be lost to a service which needed him, there would be other requisitions for men with reputations as fighters and disciplinarians to take charge of the police in large cities. As the American people are sensitive to control of their affairs by the army or navy, except in grave emergencies, the innovation would be resented. Secretary DENBY is strongly opposed to lending General BUTLER to the Mayor of Philadelphia, and it would be surprising if the President were not to agree with Mr. DENBY.

The responsibility for setting Philadelphia's house in order rests first of all with the Mayor. Mr. KENDRICK should be able to find a competent and honest Chief of Police, or Director of Public Safety, among its citizens. Salem in Massachusetts has just elected as its Mayor, by a majority of 4,826 in a total vote of 12,579, GEORGE J. BATES, who pledged himself to wage war relentlessly on the bootleggers and to close every saloon in the city. Where there's a will there's a way, and Mayor BATES will evidently be backed by the sentiment of his community. The prohibition laws are enforceable when Mayors and Chiefs of Police use their authority conscientiously and manfully; but they must have the assistance of courts and juries. Nothing more heartening has occurred than the conviction in this city of EMANUEL H. KESSLER, boastfully called the "King of the Bootleggers," and his lawless associates.

TEMPERAMENTAL TENNIS.

Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth. Because Mr. WILLIAM T. TILDEN, lord of the tennis world, resented advice, and because Mr. HAROLD HACKETT, who gave the advice, was a trifle indiscreet in his account of it, we are threatened with Mr. TILDEN's retirement, not from the game, but from the Davis Cup team, which represents American national prestige in tennis. The issue has already passed from the taking or non-taking of advice by Mr. TILDEN to the use of "star-chamber methods" by the Davis Cup Committee. Mr. TILDEN thinks the committee's secretiveness may lead to our loss of the cup, so he proposes to cure it by threatening to quit playing, which might also lead to our loss of the cup. He seems to have much the temperament, as well as the physical prowess, of Achilles, and he would follow precedent by retiring to his tent.

All this is very deplorable. Tennis is such a very amateur sport, and the amateur spirit—we are told—is such a noble thing, that one is pained to find amateurs quarreling almost as if they were professionals; pained, too, to find that the whole trouble started from some magazine articles Mr. TILDEN is writing about his art. That has been known to cause trouble in professional baseball also. Mr. TILDEN doubtless writes the articles which he signs, as professional baseball players do not, always; but that does not do away with the danger that lies in the appearance of the same individual both as actor and as commentator.

Mr. HAROLD HACKETT says that the advice which he and others gave to TILDEN during the rest period of the Davis Cup doubles match was necessary. TILDEN says it was not. Admitting that he played better after the advice, he says it was because he was more sure of himself "and also more desperate." The issue of the right of the Cup Committee to give advice is not raised. If the committee gave him orders beforehand, says Mr. TILDEN, in plenty of time, he would follow orders. But when they come to him between the third and fourth sets he will do as he pleases.

Mr. TILDEN is notoriously a good deal of a prima donna, yet when Mr. HACKETT accused him of "parking his intelligence outside the stadium," and of regarding himself as the best doubles player in the world, as he says he does not, he certainly had provocation which would set off a good many tempers. If Mr. HACKETT's interest was purely in keeping the record straight, he could have accomplished this without using language that he must have known would make TILDEN explode. Yet it is to be observed that the wicked professionals put up with harsher criticism than that. They often threaten to punch somebody's head; in rare cases they actually do some punching. But as a rule they take it as part of the game, unpleasant but inevitable.

Our tennis champion feels that advice in the middle of a match is ill-timed. Yet when Mr. RUTH stepped up to the plate in the eighth inning, with the bases full and his team one run behind, and Mr. HUGGINS ordered him to take two, he took two, even though he struck out in consequence. Mr. RUTH also had something of a temperament till he discovered it was a luxury which he could not afford. With all reverent genuflection before the amateur spirit, one still feels that there is a discipline in professional sport which trains men to stand the gaff.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Refusals to Listen Are Stupid.

In this country it is rare, and in most parts almost unknown, when a man has "hired a hall," or one has been hired for him, for anybody seriously to attempt to prevent him from saying what is in or on his mind. Usually, immediate and audible comment on his speech is confined to applause, and by most audiences resentment is expressed whenever adverse interruptions are frequent enough to indicate efforts to silence the speaker and break up his meeting.

This is as true here at political gatherings as at others, and it is something of a mystery why it should be so different in England. There "heckling" at political meetings is a long-established custom, and during the present electoral campaign it not infrequently has degenerated into fierce abuse of candidates, sometimes taking the form of physical violence. Even women have not been spared this treatment.

It must be remembered, of course, that we are hearing much about the riotous meetings and little or nothing about the more numerous orderly and decent ones, but there have been enough of the former kind in the past week to give American observers a feeling that the English talk a little too much about their belief in fair play. Certainly it is unfair, and something to be ashamed of, to deny to a candidate the right or privilege of addressing the constituents whose votes he wants, and worse than stupid to answer his arguments with hootings and insults. Some British candidates, indeed, can answer decent hecklers so humorously and effectively that they gain rather than lose from these manifestations of dissent, but nothing can be done with people who refuse to listen, and still less with those whose arguments are bricks and clubs.

The fact that in every instance the rioting and violence in this British campaign have come from ruffians pretending to represent the more advanced sections of labor or the proletariat makes the thought of the acquisition of increased political power by these groups disquieting.

He Says He Has Solved the Problem.

From the dispatches as yet received so little in detail can be gathered as to what Mr. MARCONI has done, and especially as to how he does it, in the way of giving direction to etherial vibrations, that for the present belief in the accomplishment of a great improvement and advance in radio communication must rest chiefly on the fact that he says so. He is not a man to make premature announcements or excessive claims.

From the beginning of ethertal telegraphy and telephony—both words thus used are more convenient than accurate—it has been realized that there was an enormous waste of energy in the sending out of impulses in every direction—in filling with them, that is, a sphere of space. In this peculiarity lay, too, the source of the other radio faults, including lack of secrecy and the interference of each message with all others of approximately the same wave length.

The ambition of the inventors and researchers was to find a way to trent the impulses produced at the sending stations about as light rays are treated by the lenses and reflectors of lighthouses, and the difficulty, or one of the difficulties, was the finding of something through which the mysterious impulses could not pass. One of the dispatches mentioned this as the finding of something that would stop them, but obviously the mere stopping of them on the side away from the selected destination would not reduce the waste of energy. Seemingly Mr. MARCONI has done better than that—has succeeded not only in stopping the rays, but in sending them back in the opposite direction and concentrating them where they are wanted, exactly as a reflector does a light in front of it.

That, if true, will cause one of those "revolutions" that are so much oftener promised or prophesied than achieved.

Better Than Hopeless Antagonism.

It is the part of wisdom to accept and utilize new methods and devices, instead of opposing or ignoring them, even though they interfere with established customs or compel their abandonment. An example of such readiness to change and to make the best of it is to be seen in the announcement by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company that it is going to cancel two freight trains on one of its minor lines and substitute for them a service of motor trucks to be run at its own cost and profit.

That is better than sad complaining about the harm which trucks are doing to the railways by taking away the very cream of their freight traffic and moving it in a competition which is unfair because the truck owner uses roads which he is not taxed to maintain, as the railway companies are to maintain their tracks.

That such competition is unfair cannot be denied, even by those who get their goods carried more cheaply than by the railways. To equalize conditions for the two services, however, would require the return to the system of toll gates on every main highway, and that never will be done.

He Forgot the Indian Standpoint.

An earnest orator who was making, the other day, an eloquent protest against restrictions on immigration to this country, once so proud to be the welcomer of all who wished to come, chose to enforce and illustrate his plea an incident that served his purpose ill, or at any rate would have served it ill if any of his hearers had given it a little thought.

How much would have been lost, he asked in effect, if the Indians had stood on the shore when the Mayflower arrived and either had sent them all back across the sea or had admitted only a few who happened to please Indian fancy?

That, indeed, if kept up, would have been bad for us white folk, but how about the Indians themselves, then the owners and occupiers of the whole country? It would have been vastly to their advantage, from their own point of view, if they could have established a quota system so much more rigorous than ours that Europeans of all kinds would have been kept a minute and easily manageable minority.

And those of us already here are the Indians of today.

TACKLING FOOTBALL GIANT.

College Faculties Are Challenged to Join in the Game.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your recent article on "Too Much Football" the writer, together with some other observers of modern college athletics, seems to deplore the evils and absurdity of the football insanity, but asks "What are we going to do about it?" and answer the question rather weakly, as it seems to me, by saying, in substance, "Oh, well, let it stay. There isn't much to be done about it; and if it were cast out, seven other devils, worse than it, probably would take possession both of undergraduates and alumni," &c.

Isn't this rather begging the question? It would seem as if this spineless method of dealing with the problem is largely responsible for the present situation.

Please allow me to suggest a remedy that would meet the issue squarely and, I feel confident, would eliminate the undesirable conditions entirely:

Let college Presidents and Faculties assume again the authority and control of college affairs that they once exercised, instead of supinely allowing the alumni and undergraduates to supersede them; abolish paid admissions to games, salaried coaches and trainers and commercialism of all kinds, which by general agreement should have no place in college life, and the proper balance of study to sport and recreation would soon be established.

This solution of the problem is so simple and easy of application that it seems as if it would occur to the college authorities. It has not been difficult for them to throw the literary classics overboard, but where is the college President who dares to thrust the brand into the eye of the football Cyclops?

Is moral courage a thing of the past? Cannot a college President make a tackle, to say nothing of gaining ground enough to make a touchdown? I fear the wonderful ethical and moral training of football is not having its perfect work among Faculties and trustees. They seem a puny and feeble folk.

Should they ever develop courage and backbone enough to tackle the football giant it would be very interesting and refreshing to watch the game.

GAME REFUGE BILL.

Proposal for Government Purchase of the McIlhenny Club Property.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems strange that in all this controversy about Mr. McIlhenny and the proposed Gulf Coast Club nothing has been said in print about the National Game Refuge bill, which is to be reintroduced at the next session of Congress, and how that measure would clear up the whole situation.

Mr. McIlhenny, it appears, would prefer to have the land under discussion a game refuge rather than a hunting club. He is ready to sell, according to newspaper statements, to responsible parties who could provide adequate warden patrol.

Now, the main idea behind the National Game Refuge bill is the setting aside of suitable areas as permanent refuges for all the varieties of migratory birds. Since this area controlled by Mr. McIlhenny is among the most suitable for this purpose in the whole United States, it would, if the Game Refuge bill were law, be one of the very first under the circumstances to be considered by the Government.

If all the energy which is being devoted to the pros and cons, the rights and wrongs, of the McIlhenny Club should be directed toward getting the Game Refuge bill through the next Congress, the controversy would be happily settled, and the Audubon Society and other well-intentioned agencies would be relieved of the necessity of raising special funds to purchase this property for preservation as a refuge.

THE LITTLE VOICES OF THE HOUSE.

Make such a clamorous din
That often I am at a loss
To know where to begin;
For, it is quite expected, I
Will all their many wants supply:

The dishes loud for water call
At least three times a day,
I faithfully attend their needs
Unless I am away.
And then when I come back, the place is
Just filled with their reproachful faces.

And, in the sternest tones, demand
The dustcloth, while the window shades
Most sorely need a straightening hand;
And—did you hear?—that upstairs rocker is, just now, screaming for the broom!

Throughout the morning, thus I go;
No chance for me to rest.
So many are the calls on me,
I'm hurried and oppressed;
But when the voices all are stilled,
Somehow my heart with pride is filled.

EUROPEAN SETTLEMENT.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Settlement of the German reparations problem alone will not cure the disordered financial and industrial conditions prevailing throughout Europe. Undoubtedly, settlement of that problem is essential, but the following additional measures are also necessary:

The Allies must agree among themselves and with the United States upon a workable settlement of their governmental indebtedness to each other and to the United States.

Each of the leading nations of Europe must take the necessary steps to balance its governmental budget and to restore its currency to a stable basis.

The Allies must agree upon the enforcement of the measures provided for by the Treaty of Versailles to prevent Germany from again creating a formidable military machine dangerous to the peace of the world.

The Russian problem must be solved so that Russia may again produce and consume normally and take her place in international trade.

For practical purposes, though not in theory, the reparations problem, the problem of settling international governmental indebtedness and the problem of balancing governmental budgets and restoring a stable measure of value and medium of exchange in the several countries are connected problems, as none of them can be solved effectively without solving them all. It is true that the borrowings of the Allies from each other and from the United States were not conditional upon the recovery of reparations from Germany and that neither the United States nor any of the Allies proposes that Germany shall be released from the payment of any part of the reparations liability which Germany is able to pay. However, both the ability of Germany to pay reparations and the ability of the Allies to pay their debts will depend upon the re-establishment of prosperous trade conditions throughout Europe. Germany's ability to pay reparations will depend not only upon the existence of stable political and sound financial conditions within Germany and upon the willingness of the German people to work hard and live frugally, but it will depend also to a large extent upon the expansion of production, consumption and trade in other European countries. Germany can pay reparations only out of her exports or their proceeds, and the amount of German exports will depend largely upon the ability of other European countries to buy and pay for German products. Similarly, the power of other European nations to buy German products will depend to a considerable extent upon the power of Germany to buy their goods. In each country the restoration of industrial prosperity and trade depends upon the balancing of the country's governmental budget and the restoration of a stable currency, and this cannot be accomplished without a workable settlement of the country's international governmental indebtedness.

As these essential steps can be taken only by agreement among the interested nations, the obvious course is to hold an international conference to agree upon a comprehensive plan for the settlement of these four problems—the reparations problem, the problem of international indebtedness, the problem of balancing governmental budgets and restoring stable currencies, and the problem of insuring against future aggression by Germany. The Russian problem probably must be left to solve itself, but the other nations of the world should be ready to lend a helping hand whenever the Russian Government is prepared to recognize unalterable economic truths.

The only direct interest of the United States in these problems is that of obtaining payment of the indebtedness due to it, and the Government of the United States probably would not feel at liberty to join officially in such a conference without authorization by an act of Congress. The wisest course, therefore, would be to hold the proposed conference at first without official representation of the United States, though probably it would be desirable to appoint an American observer to advise the conferees unofficially as to American conditions and to report to the American Government on the negotiations leading to the adoption of an agreed plan. The nations of Europe should first agree among themselves upon a just and workable plan for the settlement of their problems and should then submit this plan to the United States for its approval. As the restoration of prosperity in Europe would indirectly benefit the United States and all the rest of the world, the Government and people of the United States surely would receive sympathetically any just and workable plan that may be proposed.

To make such a conference successful it is essential that the several Governments should look forward, not backward, and that they should frankly and courageously recognize existing facts and conditions. The representatives of each of the interested Governments should face the existing conditions in a businesslike manner with the sole purpose of finding the best practicable solution in the interest of all concerned.

In dealing with the German reparations problem they should recognize the fact that Germany can pay reparations only out of exports or their proceeds; that it is wholly impossible to determine in advance how much Germany will be able to pay and that the only workable reparations plan is one which would automatically stimulate German exports and automatically transfer to the Allies as large a part as is practicable of German exports or their proceeds. To require Germany to issue bonds and to pay specified sums annually would not be a workable plan, because if German exports in any year should not prove sufficient to make the required payment Germany would have to default and the present condition would recur. On the other hand, if Germany's exports in any year should prove more than sufficient to pay the fixed instalment of reparations payable in that year, Germany should be required to pay to the extent of her ability.

The countries which have largely impaired their currencies and lowered their standards of value by the issue of irredeemable paper would have to face the resulting situation and deal with it courageously. They would have to recognize, on the one hand, that the debasement of their currency caused great injustice to creditors whose claims arose when gold was the standard of value, and, on the other hand, that to make the present currency payable at par in gold would probably be impracticable and certainly would cause great injustice to debtors whose obligations were incurred after the currency was debased.

In dealing with the allied indebtedness to the United States it should be recognized that the United States incurred a large national debt on account of the war, but received no share of the reparations claim against Germany and no share of the German colonies which were taken over by the Allies. It would be appropriate in any proposal made to the United States to recognize definitely the claim of the United States to the open door for trade purposes.

WORK OF LEAGUE GROWS HEAVIER

The Council Meeting Next Week Has a Full Schedule of Important Questions.

AMERICAN INTEREST IN TWO

GENEVA, Dec. 5—The increasing volume of work of the League of Nations is shown by the length of the agenda of the next meeting of the League Council which will be held in Paris beginning Dec. 10. The Council resembles the board of directors of a great corporation and passes upon a variety of subjects affecting various aspects of international life.

First comes the fixation of arrangements for the two international opium conferences, which will probably be held at Geneva next Summer with the United States, as the leader in the anti-opium fight, the foremost participant. Then there is consideration of the social evil growing out of the traffic in women and girls, in which the United States has shown special interest and for the expert investigation of which an American institution has advanced the funds.

International health questions, which the United States follows so closely, have also to be taken up by the Council. There are many other social matters on the agenda. These include the investigation of slavery, the question of Russian refugees, the campaign to stamp out the world traffic in obscene publications and various projects to bring about a closer intellectual co-operation between world peoples.

Passing to the political, the agenda embraces the reduction of armaments, with consideration of the compact of mutual assistance elaborated at the last Assembly; the reports of various countries which hold vast sections of the earth's surface in the form of League mandates, the thorny problem of the German-colonists in Poland whose lands have been expropriated by the Polish Government, the delimitation of the frontier between Czechoslovakia and Poland, the Memel dispute, the situation in the Sarre Valley, which is controlled by a League commission; the appointment of a high commissioner for the free city of Danzig, the condition of Austria, which the League is rebuilding financially; plans for the financial reconstitution of Hungary and reports of the conferences on customs formalities and transports.

Finally there will be the report of the commission of jurists on just how various clauses of the League Covenant should be interpreted. This inquiry grew out of the Greek-Italian dispute. It is the capital item on the Council agenda.

PLANS A BOOK EXCHANGE.

Copyright, 1923, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 5—At the Paris offices of the League of Nations there is meeting this week the International Committee on Intellectual Co-operation, of which Henri Bergson is President and in which seventeen nations are now actively co-operating. This committee aims at doing for intellectual workers what the Labor Bureau of the League does for manual workers. It aims at instituting a kind of clearing house for intellectual help.

One of its first tasks is the arrangement of a book exchange. In the countries of Europe where currency is depreciated foreign books of all kinds, and especially scientific and philosophic works, become impossibly expensive for most underpaid professors. From Poland, from Austria, Rumania, Greece, Yugoslavia and other countries there have come to the committee appeals for help in most of the important branches of human knowledge.

Some of the appeals have reached America and with their usual generosity great bodies of Americans are trying to help. They are willing to subscribe money to send books and to aid in every possible way. But the great difficulty has remained unsolved of how best to get the kind of books wanted to the people who want them. It is this which the International Committee is trying to arrange. The transport of books being always a heavy item, care has to be exercised in selection and distribution. It is recognized that it is not the slightest use just sending all over the world a miscellaneous collection of works. The committee, therefore, is considering a plan whereby a league of intellectual co-operation in each country should supply the committee secretariat at Geneva with a list of wants on behalf of its members whenever the wants arise, and that the secretariat should then address itself to the committee in the country where the wanted books are published with the request either for a donation or exchange. The problem is one of grave seriousness, for in the present political and financial turmoil of Europe there is an admitted decline in intellectual effort and opportunity. In the movement which took definite shape during the assembly of the League at Geneva in September, many Americans were deeply interested, as for instance George Ellery Hale of the Mount Wilson Observatory, Dr. Millikan, the Nobel prizeman; Dean Wymore of Northwestern University, J. B. Schramm of the National Research Council, W. G. Leland of the Carnegie Foundation and Professor Algernon Coleman Krantz of the American University Union. The hope of some of these men is to establish in the United States a committee which will unify all efforts now being made and work in co-operation with the League committee.

While for the present the committee is most directly occupied in the exchange of literature and letters it will develop later other activities, as for instance improvement of patent laws, development of research work and exchange professorships. In time it is hoped there will be possible a co-ordination through Geneva headquarters of all the intellectual movements of the world with resultant benefit to every country taking an active share.

ALLEN ATTACKS ISOLATION.

Says Europe Would Have Recovered by Now With America in League.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 5—European recovery from the World War virtually would be complete if the United States had entered the League of Nations, Major Gen. Henry T. Allen asserted in an address to students of Washington University today. The speaker was commander of the American Army of Occupation in Germany.

"French occupation of the Ruhr and the resultant demoralization of Germany would not have occurred had the United States been a member of the League of Nations," he declared.

"The most certain methods this Government can adopt for preservation of peace is to join the League or some association of nations as its power and prestige may more directly influence world problems."

SIR WM. MACKENZIE, GREAT BUILDER, DIES

Financier Who Gave Canada a Third Transcontinental Railway Expires in Toronto.

BEGAN LIFE AS TEACHER

"Emperor of the North" Was Promoter of Some of Canada's Largest Industries

TORONTO, Dec. 5.—Sir William Mackenzie, leading Canadian financier and railroad builder, died today after a long illness. He was 74.

Sir William had warded off pneumonia after having been ill for some time and was believed to be recovering. Lady Mackenzie died some years ago.

Sir William Mackenzie began life as a country school teacher and he arose to a position where he was able to dominate a vast transcontinental railroad and interocean steamship lines. His vast interests extended from Canada, the United States and to South America. He was knighted by King George in 1911.

He saw into the future and was quick to grasp the enormous possibilities of Canada; he welded together a nation, and by pushing the Canadian Northern Railroad across the continent threw open to settlement and cultivation vast tracts of unoccupied farm and timber lands.

Sir William came of Scotch stock. He was born at Kirkfield, Victoria County, Ontario, on Oct. 30, 1849. He received his early education in the public schools of his native district and at the Lindsay Grammar School. Later he attended the Military School at Toronto. He prepared for a teacher's license and taught for a time in the public schools. Aspiring to a more active life, he found wider scope for his tremendous energies in commercial life, and engaged at first in the lumber business.

At that time the Tosonto and Nipissing Divisions of the Grand Trunk line were being built and Sir William, then Mr. Mackenzie, obtained a contract for the construction of sections of these lines. Later he undertook for the Canadian Pacific Railway the extension of the system through the mountains of British Columbia.

Partner of Sir Donald Mann.

It was about this time that he met Sir Donald Mann, who was then in the lumber business. Their partnership was formed in 1886 and it was never dissolved.

Next Sir William entered upon one of the most important works of his career in carrying out the project of building the Canadian Northern Railway. The building of the second transcontinental railroad won for himself the title of "Emperor of the North."

The Canadian Northern, from Quebec to Vancouver, was completed in 1915. It took years to build the road, but the builders pushed the lines of rails ahead in the face of great difficulties. The work of construction and obtaining necessary finances was successfully accomplished by Sir William. Sir Donald Mann and Roderick J. Mackenzie, a son of the former. The war, however, hampered the work and led to financial difficulties which resulted in the purchase of the Canadian Northern by the Dominion Government.

Some of Canada's largest industries owe their inception to Sir William's enterprise. He was one of the promoters of the Columbia Lumber Company, the Canadian Land and Investment Company, Hughes Car Ventilating Company and the Canadian Mining Trust Company. He was besides a director in many corporations. He served as President of the Canadian Northern, Northern Ontario, Halifax & Southwestern Railway, Inverness Railway and Coal Company, Winnipeg Street Railway, Toronto Street Railway, Toronto & York Radial Railway, Canada Northern Land Company, Canada Southern Steamships, Ltd., Sao Paulo Tramway, Light and Power Company, Monterey Water Works and Power Company, Port of Para Docks Company, Rio Janeiro Tramway, Light and Power Company, Ontario Electric Development Company and as a director in the Shawinigan Water and Power Company, National Trust Company, British Empire Trust Company, Commercial General Electric Company, Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, Columbia River Lumber Company, Imperial Life Assurance Company and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York.

SIR DONALD MANN SHOCKED.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Sir Donald Mann, who has been staying in London for three weeks, as soon as he learned of the death of Sir William Mackenzie, canceled his visit to Moscow and made arrangements to return to Canada on Friday. He hopes to be able to resume his trip to Russia in a few weeks.

Sir Donald had received daily cables about Mackenzie's illness. The last he got before the news of his death stated he was a little better. He was too overcome by the shock of losing his old friend to see THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent or make any comment.

HERBERT STANDING DEAD.

Veteran Player of Stage and Screen Dies in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 5.—Herbert Standing, well known actor, died at his home early this morning after an illness of five weeks. He was 77 years old.

He is survived by a widow, two daughters and five sons, Wyndham and Herbert Jr., who are in New York, and Sir Guy, Percy and Aubrey Standing, now in London. All are engaged in theatrical work with the exception of one daughter.

Herbert Standing was born in London in November, 1846. He was one of twenty-four children. He was educated in England and made his first stage appearance more than half a century ago, his first part being that of Longford in "Still Waters Run Deep." He played with Sir Henry Irving, Sir Charles Wyndham and other notables. He became a motion picture actor about nine years ago.

Mr. Standing played in "The Man from Painted Post," "A Little Patriot," "The White Man's Law," "How Could You, Jean?" "Amarilly of Clothesline Alley," "He Comes Up Smiling," "Through the Wrong Door," "Almost a Husband," "Don't Ever Marry" and other screen productions.

Frederic Benzinger.

Frederic Benzinger, a former member of the staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES, died on Sunday at the home of his sister in Hornell, N. Y. He was born in Susquehanna, Pa., in 1858, and had been engaged in newspaper work all his life, having entered a printing office when he was 15 years old. He established newspapers at Cedar Rapids and Des Moines, Iowa, and at Omaha and Lincoln, Neb. He was on the staff of The Omaha Bee, Chicago Inter Ocean, Chicago Times-Herald and other newspapers. He served as Paris correspondent and as a New York correspondent. He joined THE NEW YORK TIMES staff in 1915 and later served as New York correspondent for The Milwaukee Sentinel.

Mrs. Isabel Montant Dies in Paris.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—Mrs. Isabel Gurnee Montant, daughter of the late Walter S. Gurnee of New York, and widow of Jules A. Montant, died at her residence here this evening. Mr. Montant, who was well known in New York, died in 1913.

MAURICE BARRES DIES SUDDENLY IN PARIS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—The death of Maurice Barres, one of the most considerable figures in modern French literature, a great patriot and a distinguished member of the French Chamber of Deputies, occurred in his home last night. Although M. Barres had recently been suffering from an attack of bronchitis, the end came with dramatic suddenness.

A little before 7 o'clock last evening he left the Palais Bourbon and returned to his home in the Boulevard Maillot in the best of spirits. At a quarter after 11 he passed away in his wife's arms. After dinner with members of his family, M. Barres, at 10 o'clock retired to his room. While undressing he suddenly complained of cold and commenced to tremble. The valet, placing him in bed, called Mme. Barres, who went to fetch a doctor, but when the latter arrived it was to find M. Barres dead. The sudden death was ascribed to heart disease, the result of the strain of recent illness from overwork.

Born in Charmes in 1862, Barres studied at Nancy, came to Paris as a young man of 20, passed the law examinations at the Sorbonne and rapidly achieved fame by his articles, which were chiefly contributed to "advanced" magazines. In a curious pamphlet "Ink Spots" appeared a short essay, "Eight Days With Monsieur Renan," which created a sensation in the literary circles of Paris.

His first three books—"Under the Eyes of Barbarians," "A Freeman" and "Garden of Berenice"—made his name famous in French literature before he reached the age of thirty. Most of his subsequent publications are also so well known as to be hardly necessary of enumeration.

Barres was elected in succession to José Maria de Heredia in the French Academy, of which he became the youngest member. An ardent patriot among the great figures of contemporary public life in France, Barres was early attracted to politics, his tendencies being frankly monarchist, and it was as monarchist that he became a member of the French Parliament.

On Friday last M. Barres, who specialized in Eastern French affairs and Rhineland questions, appeared before the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber, where he was also to submit a report next Friday on observations gathered during a journey to the Rhineland and Ruhr last Summer. In the Chamber today President Raoul Peret paid a tribute to the late member, whom he described as "an incomparable patriot, whose whole life was animated by the single thought of the greatness of his country."

It was announced this evening that a national funeral will be given M. Barres.

WM. H. HUMISTON DEAD.

Music Critic, Composer and Conductor Dies After an Operation.

William H. Humiston, former assistant conductor of the Philharmonic Society and for the last two years music critic of The Brooklyn Eagle, died yesterday at the Fifth Avenue Hospital, following an exploratory operation performed Tuesday afternoon, which had disclosed a malignant cancer. His illness, undermined till then, had caused growing concern despite apparently robust strength since his return from a Summer abroad. He was 52 years old and was a native of Ohio. His father and one brother survive him.

Mr. Humiston was widely known as a writer and lecturer on music, as well as conductor and composer. He wrote suites for orchestra and for violin and piano, a volume of essays on Wagner, and various contributions to magazines. His first musical criticisms were written as assistant to H. T. Finck, of The Evening Post, his neighbor at 485 Manhattan Avenue. It was from this friend's house, where he was cared for when his illness became acute, that he went to the hospital. His own home was at 181 Manhattan Avenue.

A student under the late Edward MacDowell at Columbia, Mr. Humiston was among the early members of the MacDowell Memorial Colony at Peterborough, N. H. He also was an organist and member of the American Guild of Organists. He received from Lake Forest University in Illinois the degree of Master of Arts just before sailing last Summer to write for The Eagle on musical conditions in Europe since the war.

BISHOP ATKINS DEAD.

Leader in Methodist Episcopal Church South Was 73.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 5.—Bishop James Atkins died here tonight following a stroke of paralysis. For more than a quarter of a century he was a leading figure in the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Bishop Atkins was born in Knoxville, Tenn., in 1850. He was President of Asheville Female College in 1870 and later President of Emory and Henry College.

Frank Earle Haywood.

Frank Earle Haywood, son of the late John N. Haywood, one time Tax Commissioner, died yesterday at the age of 63. He came of an old New York family, his grandfather being owner of the old Broadway stage line. Mr. Haywood was born and lived for thirty-five years on Stuyvesant Square. Recently he had made his home at Sharon, Conn. He was a member of the Sons of the Revolution.

$50,000 HOSPITAL BEQUEST BY BREWER

Gift to Lenox Hill Institution by Rudolph J. Schaefer in Memory of Parents.

WILL URGES AID FOR CHURCH

Rudolph J. Schaefer, head of the F. & M. Schaefer Brewing Company, who died Nov. 9 last, at Larchmont, left a will, filed yesterday, giving $50,000 to the Lenox Hill Hospital in memory of his parents. He also gave $10,000 to Frank W. Rickers, long employed by the brewery, "for faithful services," and $5,000 to William F. Pippinger, who had been his secretary. William H. Klenke and Samuel S. Brewer, friends, got $5,000 and $2,500, respectively.

Mr. Schaefer gave $5,000 to the "Huckleberry Indians," in care of R. O. Haubold, and also left the organization the bronze figure of an Indian which it presented to him on his fiftieth birthday. The gift, with $5,000 each left to two nieces, are to be paid out of his holdings in the Ritz-Carlton Restaurant and Hotel Company of Atlantic City.

The residue of the estate is left in trust. Out of the income the executors are directed to pay the widow, Fredericka V. Schaefer of Larchmont, N. Y., $25,000, while the remainder of the income is to be equally divided among the following children:

Frederick M. E. Schaefer of 617 Lexington Avenue, Rudolph J. Schaefer Jr. of Larchmont, N. Y., and Edmee Eloise Schaefer Pryibil of 490 West End Avenue. On the death of their mother the children are to receive the principal of the residuary estate.

The will requests the children to contribute to churches and charities "supported by me during my life."

A codicil to the will makes a specific bequest of $10,000 to the daughter, Edmee Eloise Schaefer Pryibil, and $500 to four servants. It appoints the sons, Frederick M. E. and Rudolph J. Schaefer, Jacob Ruppert and R. O. Haubold executors and trustees. The value of the estate is not disclosed.

Japanese Want Ship Liquor Treaty.

Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

TOKIO, Dec. 5.—Japanese foreign office officials are watching the progress of the Anglo-American ship liquor treaty with a view to attempting to negotiate a similar one. The Japanese would have nothing to lose in acceding to twelve-mile search, as there are no Japanese smugglers, while the right to carry liquor sealed into and out of Honolulu would be of the highest value, in view of the shipping competition.

Distribute From Dallas

By the GENERAL MANAGER of THE DALLAS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

WHY do more Northern and Eastern concerns maintain distributing branches at Dallas than in all other Texas cities?

BECAUSE there are 2,000,000 people within a 100-mile radius of Dallas and 10,000,000 within 24-hour train service. BECAUSE Dallas has 20 steam or electric railway outlets, a perfected package car service, assuring quick deliveries without extra expense.

BECAUSE Dallas is the home of the 11th Federal Reserve Bank and the financial capital of the Southwest, the fastest growing district in America today, which has produced Five Billion Dollars worth of new wealth in a year.

BECAUSE Dallas has ample warehouse facilities, skyscraper office buildings, equable climate; an Open Shop city; splendid living and working conditions, and the tremendous asset of the famous Dallas Spirit of confidence, co-operation and driving power.

Dallas' jobbing business exceeds $500,000,000 annually and the Federal census shows the city leading the State in manufacturing.

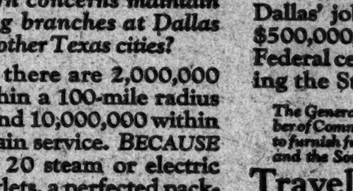
If You Give the Duofold Christmas

But before you buy, look for the protecting stamp on the pen—"Geo. S. Parker—DUOFOLD—Lucky Curve"



"IF ONE can judge by the throngs at the Duofold counters," says one writer, "this Christmas America is wishing out loud for this princely gift!"

The only sad part about it is that more people are hoping that they will get the black-tipped, lacquer-red pen than there are Duofolds to give. For though we've been shipping up to 10,000 and 12,000 pens a day, we are near our limit for the present. And in all the world there are few pen craftsmen who can grade up to Duofold standards.

For one thing, Duofold Point must earn the O.K. of five separate sets of inspectors. And this after several delicate tasks. One is fusing the Iridium tip in the extra thick gold point. Done as Parker craftsmen do it, point and tip are forever inseparable.

Another is polishing this tip to jewel-like smoothness—so smooth it needs no "breaking in." It suits all hands; no style of writing can distort it. We guarantee this point for mechanical perfection and wear for 25 years!

★Handsome Gold Girdle reinforces the cap—was $1 extra—now free. Neat Gold Pocket-clip or Gold Ring-end for ribbon also included. Yes, Parker Duofold is really a $10 value for $7. Our volume and methods save you the difference. For example, we reclaim gold dust even from factory sweepings. One such rubbish heap recently yielded $2500 in gold.

Higher priced gifts than Duofold could not be more admired. Its color is regarded as handsomer than gold. And no ordinary pen or ordinary gift can create half the joy that Duofold will give your friends and loved ones for life.

FACE PRISON TERMS FOR OBSCENE PLAYS

BANTON TO SHOW NO MERCY

TICKET GOUGERS WARNED

Speculators Charging More Than 50 Cents Commission Will Be Prosecuted.

Theatrical producers, if convicted of staging obscene or salacious plays, will face imprisonment as well as fines, according to a statement made yesterday by Judge Cornelius F. Collins in General Sessions. Judge Collins on Monday instructed the December Grand Jury to investigate alleged objectionable plays and to return indictments if the evidence so warranted.

"I feel that if there are convictions of managers for the production of obscene shows not only will fines be imposed, but the managers will also get jail sentences," said Judge Collins. "I am certain all the other Judges of General Sessions feel the same way about it. I believe punishment for offenders should be swift, and that certainty of conviction and of a jail sentence would do more than anything else to deter those who want to capitalize salaciousness.

"There is no doubt that most of the managers are decent and that, in addition, they will themselves be 'down on' the producer of indecent plays because it will be to their interest to discourage such things. Abuse of our liberal laws relating to performances would inevitably result in censorship, and I do not believe the decent managers of New York are going to permit such a condition to come about."

Unconfirmed reports said several plays underwent revisions after Judge Collins's charge to the Grand Jury. Representatives of some of the managers denied that changes had been made to avoid prosecution.

Modification of performances against which evidence already has been gathered will not cloak the producing managers with immunity, it was learned. If there is evidence that before the Grand Jury was instructed certain managers were producing obscene and otherwise objectionable plays their cases will be presented just the same.

Ready to Push Prosecution.

Judge Collins said details had been brought to his attention and that he was ready further to advise the Grand Jury as to what action it should take. Up to yesterday afternoon District Attorney Joab H. Banton had received no formal complaint against any theatrical production in this city. When asked if he would drop action against shows that were expurgated following threats of prosecution, he said:

"If anybody comes in with evidence that certain plays were really objectionable and illegal some time ago I will go right ahead and prosecute. These complaints will, however, be turned over to the Magistrates' Court and if the defendants appear to be guilty they will be held for trial in Special Sessions."

The possibility of arrests and prosecutions of unlicensed theatre ticket speculators being put off until after the Court of Appeals has acted on an appeal in a test case which was decided last week in the Appellate Division against a speculator was announced yesterday by District Attorney Banton. The prosecutor made the announcement after a representative of authorized speculators was said to have asked him to suspend enforcement of the State law and local theatre ticket ordinance. Mr. Banton made it plain that he would suspend action only on condition that the speculators agreed to sell tickets at their face value, plus the 50 cents commission legally permitted.

"The main thing that the people want is not to be gouged," declared Mr. Banton. "As long as the people who buy tickets are protected, I am willing to forego action on the failure of speculators to provide themselves with licenses under the law."

To Keep Watch on Speculators.

When informed the speculators were to confer on his proposal today, Mr. Banton intimated that the police would continue to watch the speculators to see that they kept to such an agreement. He said failure to live up to it would result in immediate prosecution.

Jonathan Bingham, counsel for the campaign against gougers Mr. Banton will confer this morning with James B. Wallace, Secretary to State Controller James W. Fleming, who has the power to revoke a speculator's license if he is found guilty of charging more than 50 cents commission on a ticket. The prosecutor said the whole situation will be gone over and arrangements made for co-operation between the District Attorney and the Controller's office in the enforcement of the State law.

Mr. Banton received a complaint from a representative of the Civil Service Reform League; who alleged speculators were charging exorbitant prices for tickets for a benefit performance for the league to be held at the Metropolitan Opera House on Dec. 13. The man charged speculators were demanding $12.50 for a ticket, the box office price of which was $1.50.

The hearing on the complaint of Elliott S. Norton of 490 Riverside Drive that he was charged $13.20 by the Arrow Theatre Ticket Company, 1,539 Broadway, for two tickets with a face value of $6.60, was adjourned yesterday in West Side Court until the forenoon of Dec. 11. Assistant District Attorneys Alexander Lehman and Charles White requested Magistrate Edgar V. Prothingham to adjourn the hearing when they obtained four additional subpoenas for witnesses. The summonses, it was said, were for employes of the company.

$22,500 FOR AUTO DEATH.

Salesman's Widow Wins Verdict Against a Yonkers Lawyer.

A jury before Supreme Court Justice Tierney gave a verdict for $22,500 yesterday against Joseph A. Corbalis, a Yonkers lawyer, in a suit by Mrs. Annie Dreyer of 1,789 Madison Av., whose husband, Maurice Dreyer, was killed by the lawyer's automobile on March 31, last, at 110th Street and Fifth Avenue. Mrs. Dreyer sued for $75,000.

Moses Veltenstein, attorney for Mrs. Dreyer, contended that Corbalis made no effort to find out whether the man he had struck could be saved by taking him to a hospital at once, but put on power and was not captured until his coupé had reached 162d Street. Dreyer, who was a salesman, was dragged a half block by the mudguard of the lawyer's car, it was alleged.

Corbalis denied that his car struck Dreyer, and asserted that he was cleared in criminal proceedings arising out of the accident.

Mother of Nine Is Constable In the Village of Seldom Seen

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 5.—Mrs. Julia M. Fife, mother of nine children, a widow, today rules Seldom Seen as its constable by virtue of 19 votes of the 25 in the hamlet in a recent election.

Seldom Seen, though scarcely more than a mile from this city's business section, is an inaccessible village of sixteen homes, perched on the edge of a precipitous bluff that comprises a portion of St. Clair Township.

Seldom Seen was the former rendezvous for promoters of cock fights and for a time boasted of several gambling resorts.

These are gone now, says Constable Fife, "thanks to fire, and I don't expect the element that supported them to return. But if they do—" (she displayed a threatening bare arm and a clenched fist, hardened by unremitting daily manual toil)—"they better not try it!"

3 KILLED AS STILL IN GARAGE EXPLODES

Two Families Have Narrow Escapes as Fire Spreads to Adjoining Houses.

ANOTHER SERIOUSLY HURT

Prohibition Raiders Seize 15 Stills and 10,000 Gallons of Alcohol on Canal Street.

Three men were killed and one probably fatally injured by the explosion of a whisky still early yesterday morning in a garage at 636 Jefferson Street, West New York, N. J. The garage was burned and the fire spread to two adjoining buildings so quickly that the families hardly had time to escape with their lives.

Fifteen stills and 10,000 gallons of denatured alcohol with coloring matter valued at $50,000 were seized by prohibition agents in a building on Canal Street, and ten stills and $1,000 worth of redistilled denatured alcohol were confiscated in a garage in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn by the police.

The explosion was in a one-story garage, owned according to the police, by Antonio Casper. After the fire was extinguished the police searched the ruins and found three large stills. In the ruins they also found the charred body of Alfonso Grazioso of 329 Madison Street, Hoboken. James Grazioso, brother of Alfonso, and Michael Dellisone of 409 Jackson Street, Hoboken, were blown out of the garage into the street, where they were picked up unconscious. James Grazioso, known as "Jimmy Andrews," died soon after he and Dellisone had been taken to the North Hudson Hospital. Dellisone died later. The police found $700 in the pockets of Alfonso Grazioso and $400 in the pockets of James.

Negro Rescues Baby From Fire.

The fire spread so quickly to 634 Jefferson Street that Henry Helfrich, his wife and two children were unable to save any of their belongings. Herbert Jackson, a negro, of 637 Jefferson Street, was aroused by the explosion and ran to the rescue of the family of Joseph Hildebrandt of 638 Jefferson Street. He cut his hands and arms in smashing a window, through which he carried the Hildebrandt baby to safety.

Casper was arraigned before Judge Charles M. Egan in the Common Pleas Court and was held on a charge of manslaughter. He denied that he knew the stills were in the garage. Casper was released on his own recognizance pending an investigation and hearing. The police and fire officials began an investigation. Three weeks ago there was a similar explosion in a garage in West New York.

Police investigating the still explosion alleged last night that James Grazioso and Deisonne were under indictment and out on $5,000 bail for the shooting of Patrolman Michael Krisinich of the Second Precinct in Hoboken last October. They are alleged to have been with a group of men who fired at the policeman when he was investigating an alleged bootlegger's alcohol cache on Jackson Street, Hoboken. In 1915, according to the police, James Grazioso and Detective John Sullivan, who was attempting to arrest him for shooting another man. For this, the police alleged last night, he had been sentenced to serve from six to twelve years in the State Penitentiary, but came out last summer. He crowned King of the Mardi Gras held by St. Anne's Church in Hoboken last Summer, because he received most votes in a popularity contest.

The seizure of the fifteen stills and $50,000 worth of alcohol was made in the seven-story building at 352 Canal Street, occupied by the Cross Siclare Special Paper Cutting Company. Cross Siclare, the proprietor, and Nathan Siclare, his brother, of 1,769 Eightieth Street, Brooklyn, and Edward A. Dorney, 123 West Ninety-sixth Street, a shipping clerk, were arrested.

The raid was made on information gathered by Prohibition Agent John Kerrigan. Kerrigan alleges he met Siclare on Tuesday ostensibly concerning a prospective purchase of some paper stock. Kerrigan, however, pretended to be in a hurry and explained that he was to meet a man from whom he was to buy some alcohol. He alleges that Siclare offered to sell 500 gallons of alcohol. Kerrigan claims that he agreed to consider the offer if Siclare would furnish a 5-gallon sample. Kerrigan alleges that Siclare gave him the sample, on the basis of which he obtained a search warrant. Kerrigan said that the floors of the building were equipped for paper cutting, and the seventh for distilling the denatured alcohol.

Held for Dry Authorities.

When the Prohibition Agents searched Siclare's office they said they found a case of Scotch whisky and ten gallons of wine. The prisoners were taken to the Beach Street Station, where they were held for the prohibition authorities.

Inspector Walsh of the Ninth Inspection District received a telephone call at his office in the Brownsville Police Station from a woman who did not disclose her identity, saying it would be worth while to investigate a garage at 231 Hopkinson Avenue, at Atlantic Avenue opposite the House of the Good Shepherd. Inspector Walsh and a squad of aids went to the garage, which they said was owned by Dominick Marotta. They alleged they found ten 20-gallon stills in operation. They also found four barrels of denatured alcohol, six 5-gallon cans of re-distilled alcohol and 60 empty cans. They arrested Marotta and Salvatore Bucarie of 73 Wilson Avenue, who, they allege, was employed as distiller by Marotta.

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Dec. 5.—The Nobel committee has decided to award no peace prize this year.

GRAND JURY GETS BANK MURDER CASE

District Attorney Dodd Does Not Expect Indictments Before Friday, However.

NO ONE RECEIVES IMMUNITY

Attorney Goldstein Tells Diamonds to Get Other Counsel—"Disagreed on Policy," He Says.

The Kings County Grand Jury yesterday received evidence in the murders of William S. Barlow and William H. McLaughlin, messengers of the West End Bank, from whom $43,607 was stolen at New Utrecht Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, Brooklyn, Nov. 14.

District Attorney Charles J. Dodd estimated that it would be Friday before indictments could be expected. Presentation of evidence was by Assistant District Attorney Thomas C. Hughes.

The jurors had before them maps and diagrams showing the route taken by the slayers from the elevated station at which they committed the crime to Nineteenth Avenue and Sixty-seventh Street, where they abandoned the stolen automobile they used in the hold-up and flight.

William S. Germaine, cashier of the bank and formerly employer of the self-confessed originator of the plot, Anthony Pantano, was a witness. Leonard D. Sacks, sales manager of the Diamond Box Company of 315 East Twenty-second Street, Manhattan, was called to the stand in connection with the assertions of Barlow Morris Diamond and his brother, Joseph G. Diamond, defendants, as to the time they were in the plant the day of the crime.

Lester B. Scofield, vault manager of the Fifth National Bank, at Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue, Manhattan, was a witness. Scofield rented, three hours after the crime, a safe deposit box to Barlow Diamond, who gave the name of "L. Ritter" and who placed $9,000 of the stolen money in the box. Scofield also issued a card of access to one of Diamond's sisters, the latter giving the name of "J. Ritter."

Goldstein Quits the Diamonds.

Dr. E. M. Martin, Assistant Medical Examiner, took the stand to report on his autopsies the day after the crime.

The Grand Jury will resume its inquiry this morning.

After a conference with District Attorney Dodd, Jonah J. Goldstein of 366 Broadway, Manhattan, made this announcement:

"Because of a disagreement in policy, I have requested the Diamonds to procure other counsel. I cannot see my way clear to continue as their counsel in justice to the defendants and myself. On account of the confidential relationship existing between attorney and client, it would be a violation of the ethics of the profession to comment further at this time."

"Is the disagreement because of the failure of the Diamonds to adhere to your instructions that they co-operate fully with the District Attorney and the police?" the lawyer was asked.

"I do not think it would be fair to the defendants to comment further," replied Goldstein.

District Attorney Dodd made known that he would not permit either of the Diamond brothers or Pantano to go before the Grand Jury, as they would thus gain immunity if permitted to testify without signing waivers.

"Every one charged with participating in this crime will have to answer before the Grand Jury without immunity, opportunity being provided through legal technicalities for his escape from punishment," said the prosecutor. "Those accused will have to stand trial. We will build up our case without the aid of any of those believed to have taken part in the crime. The accomplices in such a crime, in which the lives of two innocent men were snuffed out, take nothing from the burden of their crime through a confession of guilt and disclosures leading to arrests and convictions. The hour of their repentance comes too late."

Pantano's Examination Delayed.

Pantano, accused of murder in the first degree, was arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Louis Reynolds in Flatbush Court, but his examination was postponed again, this time until next Monday. On the following day the Diamonds are to appear for examination. But if the Grand Jury has indicted them before then, their cases automatically will pass out of the magistrate's jurisdiction.

After a search of records at Police Headquarters Inspector John D. Coughlin asserted yesterday that Barlow Diamond's clashes with the law began fourteen years ago, when he was 14 years old. At that age, when he was a pupil of Public School 14, Manhattan, and lived at 331 East Twenty-fifth Street, he pleaded guilty in Children's Court to stealing automobile spark plugs. Sentence was suspended.

Eight days later, Jan. 29, 1909, he was sent to the House of Refuge on Randall's Island on complaint of his parents, who said the boy was disobedient, kept bad company and was incorrigible. He was paroled March 3 of the same year. He was arrested in October, 1910, for shoplifting silverware worth $8.95 from a Sixth Avenue department store. He was returned to Randall's Island and was paroled Oct. 8, 1910.

Diamond's sisters, Elizabeth and Sarah, appeared at Headquarters yesterday and demanded a black traveling bag found in his possession when he was arrested at the Hotel Statler, Cleveland. The demand was refused. They did not give any explanation for their desire to get the bag.

JUDGE DISARMS WOMAN IN PITTSBURGH COURT

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 5.—Judge Richard Kennedy leaped from the bench, grasped a loaded revolver in the hand of Mrs. Catherine Chusas, 50 years old, and succeeded in disarming her before she was able to shoot Delmont K. Ferree, an attorney, in a crowded courtroom of the County Court this afternoon.

Witnesses and spectators fled from the courtroom when they saw the woman draw the weapon from the folds of her dress during a hearing before Judge Kennedy. Ferree, who was standing beside her, leaped over a rail and fled from the room as she pointed the gun at him.

After being subdued, the woman was examined by a physician, who stated she was mentally deranged.

Mrs. Chusas had been called into court on the request of her husband, who sought to have her put into a hospital on account of her mental condition. Last October the woman got an award of $6 per week as support from her husband, with the understanding that she enter a hospital for treatment. Yesterday her husband sought to have the court revoke the order on the ground that his wife refused to go to a hospital.

Ferree represented the husband.

Communists Overran Russian Churches, Sharing Buildings With Monks and Nuns

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

RIGA, Dec. 5.—Izvestia of Nov. 30 states that Moscow has twenty-five nunneries and monasteries, many of which are now used for social purposes. Here, it says, two worlds live side by side—the Old World, robed in black cassocks, and the New, to which nothing is sacred.

Izvestia adds that in one nunnery 300 students are quartered. They interrupt and drown the bells of the church by singing songs. They have despoiled the neighboring churchyards and furnished their quarters with benches and with material taken from the vaults.

The same article describes in florid language how people come to some of the churches to pray, only to find the League of Communist Youth in possession holding atheistic meetings in the buildings, from which Icons and holy pictures have been removed and in their place portraits and busts of Marx, Lenin, Trotsky, Liebknecht and other Communist leaders substituted. They also bear the legend, "Religion is the opium of the people."

Even the altars are despoiled of their ornaments and disfigured by Communist portraits. In the churches Communist boys and girls dance to the music of pianos.

FIFTY MORE DEATHS CALLED SUSPICIOUS

ECLECTIC BOARD RECALLED

Twenty Additional Names of Doctors Disbarred from Practice Will Be Announced.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Dec. 5.—The Grand Jury today received twenty-five more cards from the State Department of Health, which is examining every death certificate issued in Connecticut in the last five years. This makes a total of about 300 suspicious death cards given to the Grand Jury for investigation.

A score of these suspicious death cards were issued in New Britain, and in some cases the Grand Jury will look behind the actual signature of the death certificate and reveal the identity of the original attending physician, who often dropped the case and called in another doctor when death was imminent. Mrs. Annie Flood of 1,886 Stanley Street, New Britain, was a witness late this afternoon. She is the widow of Christopher Flood, who was attended by Dr. James W. Bush. He has been subpoenaed by the Grand Jury. He is a graduate of a Kansas City medical college.

One of the disbarred New Britain doctors, Peter K. Koraitis, has announced he intends to go to Chicago if he is stopped from practicing in Connecticut. New Britain's main streets are crowded with physicians and competition is keen. Many of the persons who call at the Town Clerk's office to file death and birth certificates are unknown to the authorities and are not registered.

Dr. George M. Sutcliffe was at the Court House today in the care of a deputy. He is not under formal arrest.

Dr. Samuel Posner, formerly of New Haven, who was found by detectives in Brooklyn, was a witness today. He was followed by three Hartford eclectics, William Feldman, Julius Karp and Etamar Mower, Jr.

The Grand Jury was told today that many Missouri plants requiring the constant attendance of a resident physician made contracts for about $2,000 for the annual services of a doctor with a diploma, calls. These paid $500 to the doctor they assigned to the plant and kept the rest.

Professor William P. Sachs, a former Missouri official, who has been the star witness on the inner workings of the Missouri diploma mills, started today for St. Louis and will endeavor to persuade Dr. Sam Kaplan of St. Louis, who has refused to appear voluntarily before the Grand Jury, to come East and aid in investigation.

The eclectic examining board, which was in session today, was ordered back again for tomorrow, when a list of some twenty names to be added to the eighteen already disbarred from practicing will be given to it.

SEEKS MORE ROOM FOR FIGHT ON CRIME

District Attorney Joab Banton told the members of the Committee of the Whole of the Board of Estimate yesterday that more office space was needed by his department to successfully fight crime. Extra court rooms, as well as rooms for jurors, were among the pressing requirements, he said.

"Our work is being hampered to a considerable extent," he said. "Every inch of available space in the Criminal Courts Building is now being utilized, but it isn't enough and has resulted in impairing the efficiency of my office. In January there will be two Judges of General Sessions idle because we have no court rooms for them. Consequently cases which should be tried at once are held up."

Mr. Banton said he had to surrender his library several times to various Judges and Grand Jurors, and suggested that the city acquire at once the Excelsior Building, at 137 Centre Street, for temporary use. He explained that the building has a subterranean connection with the Criminal Courts Building.

Authority to begin condemnation proceedings to remodel the building already has been given by the Board of Aldermen, but the committee desired more information regarding the cost and held the matter over until this was obtained. Acting Mayor Hulbert suggested the erection of a building for the District Attorney at Centre and Worth Streets.

This is the site which it has been proposed to turn over to the Federal authorities for a post office, providing a present post office building in the City Hall Park is vacated. Mr. Hulbert declared that the Federal authorities must let the city know at once if they will accept the site at Centre and Worth Streets and abandon the old building. The Acting Mayor commended the District Attorney upon his activities, and assured him that the Board of Estimate would do everything possible to provide adequate quarters for his department.

When the committee was informed that if the city took over property at Park Avenue between 122d and 123d Streets for a school site, it would bring about the eviction within a year of 147 families in modest circumstances, action was postponed for ninety days and the Corporation Counsel was ordered to hold up court proceedings.

During the meeting Acting Mayor Hulbert suggested that the Transit Commission, in building future subways, consider the question of incorporating in the plans tubes for carrying parcel post packages. William G. Fullen, chief counsel to the commission, agreed to take the matter up with that body.

Half of $1,000,000 Fund Raised.

With the subscription of $25,000 made yesterday by Edward Weston, President of the Weston Electrical Instrument Company of Newark, the Executive Committee in charge of the Stevens Institute of Technology $1,000,000 Endowment Fund announced that half of the fund had been subscribed.

CONFESSES HE SLEW WIFE 14 YEARS AGO

COURT FOR DEPORTING HIM

Prisoner Has Been Arrested 32 Times in America—Once Called Black Hand Chief.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 5.—County Judge William F. Bleakley and court attachés were astounded today, when Natale Zucco, 42 years old, of Mount Kisco, who had been arraigned on the charge of carrying a pistol, admitted that on Aug. 18, 1909, he killed his wife, Carmela, in the town of Radicena, Province of Reggio, Calabria, and that he had never been arrested for the crime. Zucco, questioned by Judge Bleakley, appeared to be proud that he had killed his wife, because, he alleged, she had been unfaithful to him.

Zucco, who has been arrested forty times, on charges ranging from assault to murder, told Judge Bleakley that while he was living in Chicago he received information from a friend in Radicena that his wife had been unfaithful to him. He said he went to Italy immediately and confronted her.

"How did you kill her?" Judge Bleakley asked.

"I shot her five times," the prisoner answered.

"Why did you do it?"

"Because she no friend of mine."

Zucco said he eluded the Italian police and fled across France. He engaged passage from Marseilles and returned to America, taking up his residence in Mount Kisco. Although arrested thirty-two times in this country he always has managed to escape sentence.

The story of the murder of his wife was brought out when Zucco pleaded guilty to the pistol-carrying charge. He will not be sentenced until he will be made by Deputy Sheriff Frank Cherico and Judge Bleakley to deport him.

According to a report submitted by the New York Police Department to Judge Bleakley, Zucco in 1909 boarded the Hamburg-American liner Moltke, and kidnapped from a berth Francesca Paladino who was being deported after conviction on several charges.

When the girl was arrested later she alleged Zucco was the chief of one of the most dangerous blackhand gangs operating in this country. One of Zucco's lieutenants, Rocco Cassone, she said, sailed on the same steamer with Lieutenant Patrosino and was the man who shot and killed the New York detective in Italy.

She charged Zucco shot her when she threatened to bare Zucco's blackhand schemes to the police.

Zucco boasted before Judge Bleakley that he had been arrested and imprisoned eight times in Italy for assault, conspiracy, resisting officers and numerous other charges. He denied, however, that he was implicated in a murder in Erie, Pa., for which he was arrested in 1913 and discharged on a technicality.

SLAIN MAN IDENTIFIED.

Police Believe Staten Island Killing Was Result of Vendetta.

A vendetta is believed to have been responsible for the death of the Italian found stabbed Tuesday in a lonely district of Dongan Hills, Staten Island. The victim was identified yesterday by New York and Jersey City police as Filipo Randici, 38 years, of 23 East 183d Street, Bronx.

Identification was based upon comparison of body scars, finger prints and a photograph of the dead man with those of a Filipo Randici wanted for murder in Jersey City since April, 1917. All marks tallied to the satisfaction of Chief of Police Battersby and F. B. Ambrose of the New York Homicide Bureau.

Jersey City records showed that Randici was indicted there for the slaying of Francisco Damezio. Randici admitted he had mistaken Damezio for another Italian, named Scheidri, who had attacked his sister fifteen years before in Italy and whom Randici had followed to this country to "get." Damezio died within twenty-four hours, when the charge of atrocious assault against Randici was changed to murder, but overnight Randici had jumped his bail. A nation-wide search was made in vain for the fugitive.

Police yesterday expressed belief that some of Damezio's or Scheidri's friends had hunted Randici with better success.

THIEF BOOKED FAR AHEAD.

After Term for Auto Stealing He Will Face Hold-Up Charge.

William Axelrod, of 544 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, accused of being one of the four men who participated in the Hold-up of employes of the Ritz Carlton Hotel on the morning of Oct. 9 last, in which $4,000 worth of gems were taken from a showcase in the lobby, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Mancuso to the theft of a $3,000 automobile. He was remanded for sentence Tuesday.

A jury at his trial in General Sessions recently on the hold-up charge failed to agree. Judge Mancuso announced that a warrant would be lodged in Sing Sing when Axelrod begins the auto theft sentence so that the prisoner can be returned to this city for a new trial on the hold-up indictment. Axelrod also is under indictment in connection with the theft of $34,000 worth of furs in May, 1920, from the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation at 48 Great Jones Street.

$50,000 SILK THEFT TOPS DAY'S CRIMES

Drivers of Two Trucks on Lincoln Highway Kidnapped and Held Prisoners Seven Hours.

WOMAN AIDS IN HOLD-UP

New Jersey figured yesterday in the crime wave spotlight, the Newark police making known a holdup at Metuchen in which $50,000 worth of silks was stolen from two trucks on the Lincoln Highway, bound from Brooklyn to Philadelphia. The two drivers were taken around in the robbers' automobile for seven hours, bound and gagged, before they were released.

The silks had been consigned by Edward Conan, Inc., of 1,614 Grand Street, Brooklyn, to Lit Brothers, Philadelphia. One of the trucks was operated by Ernest W. Bohlen of 265 Central Avenue, Brooklyn, and the other by Frederick Follenius of Stanhope Street, Brooklyn.

While driving through Metuchen about 11 o'clock Tuesday night, Bohlen fifty yards ahead of Follenius, a sedan passed them and drew across the road, blocking the way. Four men sprang out of the sedan, each holding a pistol. Two compelled Bohlen to leave his truck and the others ordered Follenius to the ground.

Two robbers mounted the trucks and drove off. The other two bound and gagged Bohlen and Follenius and placed them in the rear of the sedan. The truck drivers said they were driven around for seven hours and that at 6 o'clock yesterday morning they were put out of the car at High Street and College Place, Newark, after having been freed from their bonds and gags an hour before. They hastened to Police Headquarters in that city. The trucks were found, empty, at Princeton, yesterday morning.

Woman Look-Out in a Hold-Up.

A woman acted as look-out last night in the robbery of a James Butler, Inc., grocery at 365 Bleecker Street, a block and a half from the Charles Street Police Station.

Robert Canning, the clerk, was dressing the window when a man entered and stepped to the counter. Thinking him a customer, Canning went behind the counter. The man drew a revolver.

"I suppose you want me to back into the rear of the store," remarked Canning.

"No, just keep your hands in the air, or I'll pump you full of lead," replied the hold-up man.

At the door stood another man. A few feet away was a woman look-out. As a woman customer was about to enter the door she engaged her in conversation until the robber inside the store came out. The two men and the woman rode away in an automobile.

Canning did not obey the warning to remain silent for ten minutes for he was not molested. He ran down the street to the police station. The robber, Canning said, got only $20. The day's receipts had been taken away by a company collector shortly before the robber arrived.

Jeweler Held Up On East Side.

Two men, neither of whom produced a weapon, yesterday stole $400 diamond ring from Morris C. Peck at the entrance to his office in 19 Division Street, he told the police of the Clinton Street station. The ring did not belong to him. It was insured. He said he also overlooked $2,000 in jewelry on his person, belonging to him and not insured.

It became known yesterday that five armed men last Sunday held up thirty dice players behind the slaughter house of Strauss & Schick & Strauss, at 300 Johnson Avenue, Brooklyn. One victim said the losses in money and jewelry ran as high as $20,000, but the police said this was many thousand dollars in excess of the actual losses. One man reported he lost $1,000. Another said $700 was taken from him. Several of the victims complained to the police, but most of them gave fictitious names and addresses.

Because there was no evidence to connect him with two holdup men who had used his taxicab in robbing two passengers of $4,000 last Sunday, Magistrate Weil in Essex Market Court discharged Benjamin Gordon, 34 years old, a chauffeur, of 6 Willett Street. Solomon Shapiro of 509 Livonia Avenue, Brooklyn, and a companion, were collecting receipts from a string of motion picture theatres when their taxicab was held up and entered by the robbers at Canal and Forsyth Streets. The robbers compelled Gordon to drive them from the scene. He surrendered later in the Clinton Street police station.

When Julius Frank, 21, a pickpocket of many aliases and known to the police of many cities, was arraigned before Magistrate Corrigan in Jefferson Market Court proceedings in the case were delayed two hours to await the arrival of the complainant, Joseph Dolgi of 213 East Fifty-fifth Street. When Dolgi appeared he told the Court that when he reached the court building entrance almost two hours before two men offered him money to refrain from prosecution. He said he went away because of their threats, but decided eventually to return and press the charge. An adjournment was granted.

Pickpocket Chase in Subway.

Scores of subway passengers joined yesterday afternoon in pursuit of an alleged pickpocket in a passageway of the Times Square station. The chase ended when Lewis Interbrush, guard, overtook the fugitive on a stairway. He said he was Samuel Gold, 30, of 68 Chrystie Street, a salesman. The police said he had a long criminal record.

C. S. Wanslin, machinist, of 40 Crescent Street, Brooklyn, said the prisoner had tried to steal his wallet. Magistrate Prothingham in West Side Court held Gold in $1,000 bail for examination tomorrow.

Earlier in the day thousands of persons in Times Square milled around Patrolman Benjamin Wertheimer of the Health Squad when he struggled with two men who he said were acting suspiciously at a subway entrance. The policeman wrested a pistol from one of the men, Philip Palanale, 22 years old, of 147 Withers Street, Brooklyn, and, drawing his own pistol, compelled both men to surrender. The other prisoner was a brother, John Palanale, 19. Magistrate Corrigan in West Side Court held Philip in $2,500 bail for having the weapon, and John in $500 bail as a suspicious character. They will be examined tomorrow.

A jury before County Judge Humphrey in Long Island City found George Faust of 124 Wilbur Avenue, Long Island City, guilty of grand larceny in the first degree for robbing Thomas Quinn, an undertaker, of $300 in February, 1922. Faust was arrested at Jones some months ago while suffering from pneumonia. He escaped from a hospital and his condition became worse. He will be sentenced Dec. 17.

Justice Mullan in the Bronx Supreme Court refused to reduce the bail of $25,000 each fixed by County Judge Gibbs on Edward Freed of 520 East Eleventh Street and Oscar Rosen of 161 Avenue B, alleged silk thieves.

The prisoners were arrested Nov. 14 at Canal Street and the Bowery, where they were found on a truck loaded with $45,000 worth of silks stolen from employes of the Northern Woolen Company of Worcester, Mass., at Southern Boulevard and 140th Street, the Bronx.

When counsel requested lower bail Justice Mullan said it was not his custom to reduce bail when prisoners were brought before him on writs of habeas corpus. He pointed out that the total of bail for the two men was lower than the value of the goods they were alleged to have stolen. The prisoners contended that they knew nothing of the robbery, but had obtained a "lift" from the driver, who escaped.

Magistrate Prothingham discharged

Bite of a Jersey Apple Makes Princess Mary Order a Crate

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 5.—Princess Mary of England and her husband, Lord Lascelles, who a year ago tasted some of the apples which had been exhibited at the New Jersey State Horticultural Society, have asked for more. And as a result Daniel Fitzpatrick, a visiting Briton, stopped at the apple exhibit on the Steel Pier, where the society's convention is being held, and ordered a crate of wineseps shipped to the Princess for Christmas.

Mr. Fitzpatrick was at the exhibition a year ago and took home some of the apples. Princess Mary, who is his neighbor, tasted some of the apples and made Fitzpatrick promise that if he ever went to the United States again to send her some more.

Morris Hurevitch, 21, a salesman, of Mills Hotel No. 3, Seventh Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street, who had been accused of grand larceny with his brother William, 26. The latter, cloakroom attendant at the D. K. E. fraternity house at 30 West Forty-fourth Street, was held for the Grand Jury, accused of stealing jewelry from bags left in the cloakroom.

Police of Fort Lee, N. J., are looking for a polite and apologetic hold-up man who Tuesday evening robbed Paul Heyne of 623 West 139th Street, New York, of $65. Heyne is a truck driver for the Otto Stoll Company, meat packers at Third Avenue and 127th Street, New York. Heyne was driving slowly through the Jersey mist toward the Fort Lee ferry when a man with a piece of court plaster under one eye leaped on the truck, pointed a revolver at Heyne and compelled him to drive off on a side road. "Some day I'll meet you, perhaps, and return this money," said the robber, "but tonight I'm in desperate need and I must take it. To show you I'm not a bad fellow here's two dollars to get you by in the meantime."

Surgeon's at St Mary's Hospital, Jamaica, say that Anthony Thor of 539 East Thirteenth Street, Manhattan, would lose the sight of his left eye because of an attack early yesterday by a man at Rockaway Road and Archer Place, Jamaica. Thor and Daniel Duvall of 519 Fifth Street, Manhattan, were set upon by two men, one of whom slashed Thor with a knife. The other used his fists. The man with the knife escaped. The police arrested Peter Cheseske of 135 Rockaway Road, Jamaica, on the second assailant.

New York Police Headquarters was informed of the arrest in Fort Jervis of Ralph J. Herman of 1,558 St. Joan's Place, Brooklyn, and Joseph M. Opelstein, also of Brooklyn, on the charge that on Tuesday afternoon they stole at Twenty-seventh Street and Sixth Avenue, New York, an automobile belonging to Emil Botkin of 1,384 Stebbins Street, the Bronx. The automobile was found hanging over a bank on the Hawknest Road, near Port Jervis, a slope leading to a 400-foot drop into the Delaware River. The men were arrested as they were about to board a train. The Port Jervis police said Herman confessed the theft, and explained that when the engine stalled he abandoned the car.

A prayer book picked up by a Long Island Railroad detective in a looted freight car at Winfield, Queens, resulted in the arrest yesterday of two boys and a man, whom the boys accused of inducing them to steal. The prayer book bore the name and address of a boy who told detectives the names of two boys he had seen near the freight car.

At their homes detectives arrested Thomas Holland, 11, of 78 Ramsay Street, Winfield, and Valentine Clafen, 12, of 5 Lexington Avenue, Winfield. They were said to have confessed stealing lamp shades, silverware and other goods from freight cars. On their information, William Schumeyer, 23, a chauffeur, of 194 Fisk Avenue, Maspeth, was arrested as instigator of the thefts.

FIND MANY REASONS FOR HOUSING LACK Conference at Philadelphia Cites Profiteering and Lack of Apprentices.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—Profiteering, irregular employment, unwillingness of banking institutions to lend money on real estate and failure of contractors to employ apprentices were blamed tonight for the country-wide housing shortage by speakers before the Ninth National Conference of Housing in America.

Declaring labor wants the responsibility for high housing costs placed where it belongs, Hugh Frayne, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, laid it at the door of every element, other than the building trades, entering into the construction of the building. He asserted there was profiteering in the purchase of land, the transfer of title, in money costs and in contractors', architects' and engineers' charges. But, he said, the public knew nothing of it.

Speaking of the insufficient numbers of trained building mechanics in the country, he laid the blame at the door of the contractors, declaring they fail to take advantage of the quotas of apprentices allowed them but rely on others to train workers.

Daniel Crawford Orr, a Philadelphia builder, attacked the policy of some banks which, he said, prefer stocks and bonds to real estate.

"Not more than 12 per cent. of the total investments handled by banks and trust companies in this city," he said, "are based on real estate or houses." Because of this policy, he declared, the average builder must go elsewhere to finance his operations, as must the private owner seeking a mortgage.

William Stanley Parker of Boston, connected with the United States Department of Commerce, declared irregularity of employment was one of the greatest factors entering the high cost of building.

"When computing hourly wages," he said, "it must be taken into consideration that these men live by the year, that there are periods of enforced idleness, and that wages in working hours must necessarily be high enough to assure a decent living during cessation of building operations."

THE PLAY

By JOHN CORBIN.

Satire on the Old Russia.

Mamaieff's Man-Servant....Lyoff Bulgakoff
Krutitsky's Man-Servant..Boris Dobronravoff
Grigory.....Nikolai Alexandroff

The technique of Ostrovsky's comedy dates from the middle of the last century and the object of his satire is the aristocracy and bureaucracy of vanished Russia; but the characters are so deliciously human and the development of the central situation so deftly effective that the final impression is of intense modernity. Stanislavsky and his company have never been quite so completely masters of high comedy as in the final scene. A situation that lesser artists would have taken in the manner of explosive humor is played with the utmost quietude and deliberation, the slight shrugging of a shoulder or a wry smile unloosing a flood of comedic suggestion. What is lost in immediate laughter is made up for tenfold by an glow of humorous appreciation that lingers long after the curtain.

The story is of a clever and handsome youth, Vassily Katchaloff, much given to stabbing the rich and the great with epigrams, who comes to realize that it is far more to his profit to mask his wit and humbly curry favor with them. So he unloads his satire upon a secret diary and goes about to pay court to the ladies and flatter the men. At the height of his success, with marriage to a charming heiress all but achieved, a mellowing fair one, upon whose favors he has climbed, steals the diary and manages to have it read before an assembly of the victims of its satire.

As each one is impaled upon a shaft of wit, the others subtly smile—only to writhe inwardly when their turn comes. It would seem that the young climber is ruined, but with a final stroke of audacity he points out that the truth of his portraits was recognized by all save each single victim, and he suggests that a concourse of such manifest dunderheads will find him more useful as a friend than as an enemy. Then he goes. But the others remain, still ruminating, and finally decide that he is right. "Leave it to me," says the mellowing fair one, quite cheered by realizing that her young rival has been eliminated.

As this cross between Iago and Uriah Heep, Katchaloff is quietly suave and dominant; but the character is less effective than a reading of the text seemed to indicate. Doubtless the repression was intentional, and doubtless also the performance was exactly timed for those who could follow what Katchaloff said word for word. As the hero's amative aunt, Fania Shevtchenko was a quietly radiant delight.

The honors of the performance went easily to Stanislavsky, who played a slow-witted and pompous old General, a gentleman of the old school. There was no undue repression here. Stanislavsky strutted and attitudinized, rumbled and hummed, spouted heroic verse and knowingly cocked his eye through a telescope made of official papers; yet in the finer humor of facial play the watery eye, the glassy stare and the wincing lips—he was unrivaled.

LOS ANGELES CURBS STIR FILM PEOPLE

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 5.—Following the closing of the Motion Picture Directors' Association Thanksgiving ball, the tide of resentment continues to sweep Los Angeles, and film interests are in revolt. More than a score of civic organizations have joined forces with the film people in the organization of a new political party, which has as its object the election of progressive and liberal men to the offices of Mayor and City Council.

President Fred Niblos of the association said today their object was not vituperation, retaliation or revenge, but an attempt of representative citizens and taxpayers to get written on the city law books such ordinances as will truly reflect the sentiments of the great majority of citizens.

Antagonism to motion picture people will result in the removal of the industry to New York, Sol Lesser, motion picture magnate, said at the luncheon of the Advertising Club. He said police intervention in the movie costume ball at the Biltmore Hotel was an incident that must not be repeated.

Following Lesser's talk the Advertising Club went on record that the city authorities must be impressed with the fact tht Los Angeles is a metropolitan city, and that the imposing of unnecessary restrictions on citizens and business must be halted. Persons in close touch with the developments indicated that some sort of an alliance would be made between the motion picture people and the liberal-minded element favoring a broader scope of dancing. Clubs, with the organizations protesting against clamping the lid on the Shriners' carnival and the other charitable affairs, and that a new political ticket might emerge.

Both the Screen Writers' Guild and the Writers' Club met in special meetings and passed resolutions to fight for a more liberal city through the election of more progressive officials.

CHURCH WOMEN SEEK LEGISLATIVE POWER

Presbyterians Are Asked to Grant Them Full Equality and Suffrage.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—A movement, fulfillment of which would give women equal representation with men on the legislative bodies of the Presbyterian Church of the United States, was disclosed during today's sessions of the National Presbyterian Conference here.

A petition embodying a request for such representation has been forwarded to the eneral Assembly of the Church by the Executive Board of the Women's Missionary society of Cincinnati, Mrs. Louise Blinn, its President, announced. It also is being circulated among members of the societies of other Presbyteries.

The petition, which constitutes the first attempt of Presbyterian women to obtain equal suffrage within the Church probably will be acted upon at the meeting of the General Assembly at Grand Rapids, Mich., next May.

Presbyterian women, members of the missionary societies of the church, now are raising much money, but have no voice in its expenditure, Mrs. Blinn declares. They are becoming tired of acting as a "collecting agency" and many are drifting into other work and will continue to do so unless they are granted equal suffrage privileges, she adds.

Apportionment of the $15,000,000 budget for the next fiscal year among the forty-six synods also was completed today under a new method in which the ability of the synods to say, their willingness to contribute and the size of the congregations were taken into consideration. Pennsylvania, with $2,607,227, was assigned the largest quota. Others included: New York, $2,547,964; Ohio, $1,266,580, and New Jersey, $1,144,876.

A banquet attended by more than a thousand delegates and guests was held tonight.

Sessions will close tomorrow, when a "findings" committee appointed today is to present resolutions, among which is expected to be one affirming the belief of the Church in the "fundamental truths" of the Bible rather than the interpretations of "liberals."

PERCY GRAINGER WELCOMED

Percy Grainger, who early won a place unique among pianists and composers by his settings of old English songs and dances for orchestra, chamber music or solo performance, was greeted by a crowded house last evening in Carnegie Hall, on his return after a year's absence. From retirement abroad he brought to his "only recital" in New York fresh novelties. One was his friend Delius's "On Hearing the First Cuckoo in Spring," and another his own arrangement for piano of a hornpipe by Handel. This was one of twenty-five tunes, known as the "Water Music," with which a pursuing boatload of players on the Thames had won a pension and pardon from George I. for the composer's truancy in preceding his King from Hanover to London.

Mr. Grainger's admirers found more serious mood in Chopin's sonata op. 58, Schumann's "Symphonic Studies" and Balakirev's "Islamey." It was the little, lively pieces, with others of Bach and Scarlatti, that charmed and held them until lights were turned out in the hall. Before the crowd would go, the pianist had to give four more compositions of his own, including "Spoon River," "Sailor's Sea Chant," "Kerry Dancing" and "Mowy on the Shore."

"Oh, Lady, Lady" at Sing Sing.

Members of the Mutual Welfare League will give their "fifth annual show" at Sing Sing four nights of next week, beginning Tuesday. They will present "Oh, Lady, Lady," one of the succession of Princess Theatre musical comedies. It will be produced, according to the announcement, "with added Sing Sing features."

The performances are designed for the public, and an admission of $1 will be charged.

Pirandello Coming for Premieres.

Luigi Pirandello, author of "Six Characters in Search of an Author," will sail from Italy this month to be present at the premieres of several more of his plays, which Brock Pemberton will soon produce here. In prospect are "Henry IV" "Right You Are," a revival of "Six Characters," and probably the first presentation on any stage of "Each in His Own Way." The productions are scheduled for January.

Werba Leases Shubert-Crescent.

The Shubert-Crescent Theatre in Brooklyn has been leased for an indefinite period by Louis F. Werba, who manages the Brooklyn Montauk Theatre. Mr. Werba will take control in May, at which time the name of the theatre will be changed. The theatre will probably be operated as a neighborhood house—that is, Broadway productions will be presented, with weekly changes of bill.

"The Blue Bird" to Be Revived.

A revival of Maeterlinck's "The Blue Bird" is announced by the Shuberts for Christmas Eve at Jolson's Theatre. The play was originally produced at the New Theatre in 1910, and subsequently played for several seasons. Rehearsals will begin today under the direction of Frederick Stanhope.

Princeton's Play Here Dec. 25.

This year's production of the Princeton Triangle Club, "Drake's Drum," will be seen at the Metropolitan Opera House for two performances—the night of Dec. 25 and the afternoon of the 26th. "Wally" Smith, President of the club and star of last year's production, will again have the leading role.

To Design Theatre Guild Playhouse.

C. Howard Crane, who built the Music Box, will be the designer of the playhouse that the Theatre Guild will build in the near future. Norman Bel-Geddes will be associated with Mr. Crane as co-designer. It was said yesterday that the choice of location had narrowed down to three sites, and that an early announcement of the exact site would be made.

MUSIC

American Music Guild.

By H. C. COLLES.

The first concert of the season given by the American Music Guild at the Town Hall last night offered a program made up of works which a responsible committee of musicians had recommended for performance at the last Salzburg Festival of "contemporary" music. Nothing was said as to their acceptance or the reverse, and it seemed right that nothing should be said. It was sufficient that these works had been recommended; the actual choice for the festival of the Program Committee depended on many considerations besides merit, and those considerations often bring about the performance of the smaller work excluding the greater.

This program began with Loeffler's "Music for Four-stringed Instruments" played by the Lenox quartet, which has been heard before and which was no doubt accorded the place of honor here because Loeffler is a leader whose work commands respect wherever it is heard. The remainder of the program was devoted to work by younger men including some whose names are scarcely familiar. Most important of these was a trio for piano and strings by Harold Morris which was played by the composer at the piano, Albert Stoessel, violin, and Felix Salmond, violincello.

It is a single movement work "in the form of a rhapsody" in which a number of vigorous and strongly contrasted ideas are woven together. The composer is not afraid of simplicity; he can start with a broad and diatonic tune and use the same to sum up his work in the final climax. But between these points, the outset and the goal, a great deal has happened. It is genuinely rhapsodic in the fact that imagination is allowed to run free and the ideas strike across one another often without any attempt to show their relevance.

The difficulty of rhapsody, literally the sewing together of songs, is that the stitches are apt to show, and there are certain waiting points in the music where nothing of much consequence happens and which have the effect of breaking the work into detached episodes. These are the stitches which a more experienced technique would hide. The actual writing for the instruments, too, is not always happy. The chord passages of the piano are apt to be clumpy and the two strings have enough of playing in octaves to make the texture at times sound thin. But this is presumably an early work, and in these days, when so many young composers show complete command of all the latest tricks and do nothing with them that has not been done better a thousand times already, it is hopeful to find one who does not know all the tricks, or who if he does is not over-anxious to use them, and who undeniably has something which he wishes to say. One felt that it will be worth while to look again for the name of Harold Morris on concert programs.

Three piano pieces by Louis Fruenberg played by Charles Haubiel are certainly facile in expression but without much distinction. Three fragments from Emerson Whitborne's "New York Days and Nights," played by Harrison Potter, made a stronger impression, even though New York does not seem altogether an appropriate subject for the minaturist. These, if we remember rightly, found a place at Salsburg.

Between the two sets of piano works came a group of songs, "Five Poems of Ancient China and Japan," by the late Charles T. Griffes, which, sung by Miss Helena Marsh, certainly gave strong evidence that by the early death of the composer this country lost an artist with a genuine lyric gift. Each song presents a distinct mood and presents it with the smallest expenditure of effort, through a voice part simple and flexible in outline and a pianistic commentary which shows a subtle feeling both for design and color.

American National Orchestra.

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

Howard Barlow, a young American musician, now of New York, has formed an orchestra of American-born players and is undertaking with it "to give the American-born musician of ability an opportunity to realize and gratify his artistic aspirations." It is a courageous undertaking, whatever may be thought of the direct and immediate need of a new orchestra in New York and whether or not the American-born musician is bereft of opportunities to realize and gratify his artistic ambitions. And the concert given by this orchestra last evening in Aeolian Hall under Mr. Barlow's direction was a very good one, highly creditable to those who took part.

The orchestra is made up for the most part evidently, of players of experience, and by no means of novices. It is not meant for novices. One concert was given by the organization at the end of last season. Its playing last evening indicated praiseworthy endeavor and not a little skill on the part of the players, and not a little talent on the part of Mr. Barlow. He knows what he is about; knows music and orchestral technique, and has authority over his players.

It need not be maintained the last evening's performance was a finished one. It takes a good while and a great deal of skill and determination to make a new orchestra. And Mr. Barlow did not dodge difficulties nor seek refuge in problems easily mastered. His program composed César Franck's symphony, Lewis M. Isaac's symphonic piece, "Beyond the Mountain Line"; James P. Dunn's "Overture on Negro Themes," and MacDowell's first piano concerto in A minor, played by Lyell Barber.

The symphony and the concerto at least offer an abundance of difficulties. Mr. Barlow's reading of the symphony was intelligent and musical and showed a thorough knowledge of it and of the orchestral effects that are heeded in it. His head was not in the score. The effects were not all presented as some of the great orchestras would present them, needless to say, but there was something there of interest and promise.

The concerto is the one less often heard—not that either of MacDowell's two has been made a household word by pianists, either for musical or patriotic reasons—but it gave a sufficient it might be sub stituted for some of the intolerable repetitions of more familiar works of its kind, to the advantage of both players and listeners.

Mr. Dunn's negro overture was played in one of the Stadium concerts last year. Mr. Isaacs, author of "Beyond the Mountain Line," is a pupil of MacDowell, but a musician only by avocation.

Elly Ney Gives Recital of Brahms.

Elly Ney, who had in former programs established herself as a worthy exponent of the music of Brahms, yesterday at her second piano recital of the season at Aeolian Hall confined herself entirely to the works of that composer. Included in the list was the sonata in F minor which she gave with much authority, choosing carefully the passages to be emphasized and playing with vigorousness which never threatened to offend the ear. At other times there was light, rippling fleetess of finger and delicate and artistic phrasing. Also there were four ballads, walzes and other pieces. Most of the large audience crowded toward the stage at the close of the afternoon and for ten minutes stood applauding the pianist.

"Die Meistersinger" Sung Again.

Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" was repeated at the Metropolitan last night before an audience of 4,000 that filled every chair and much standing room. With Florence Easton as Eva for the first time this season, the cast again comprised Miss Howard, Messrs. Whitehill and Meader, four American artists. Mr. Laubenthal completed the quintet and Mr. Bodanzky conducted.

EDWARD GALLAGHER WEDS.

Shean Best Man at Partner's Marriage to Ann Luther.

Edward S. Gallagher of Gallagher and Shean married Miss Ann Luther, recently playing with the Fox Films, yesterday afternoon at the Pickwick Arms, Greenwich, Conn. Justice of the Peace Albert S. Mead performed the ceremony.

Mr. Gallagher's partner was best man and signed the register with Mrs. Shean. The wedding party, numbering twelve, motored out from New York yesterday morning. Before the ceremony Mr. Gallagher was the guest of the Greenwich Rotary Club, who did not let him escape until he and Mr. Shean had sung many times their well known song.

The first Mrs. Gallagher divorced her husband in the Brooklyn Supreme Court last August. She testified then that Gallagher and Shean were earning $100,000 a year.

After a wedding breakfast at the Pickwick Arms Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher motored to his country home at Beechwood, L. I., where they will spend a fortnight's honeymoon.

Miss Luther and Mr. Gallagher first met while working in the films in the same studio. Mr. Gallagher was taken ill and Miss Luther became a volunteer nurse.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Tilla Durieux, well known on the German stage, will give a single performance of "The Shadow" on Friday afternoon of next week at the Bilmore. The performance will be in German, and will be followed later by other productions.

Adrienne Morrison has been added to the company that will be seen with Lee Ditrichstein in "The Business Widow" at the Ritz next Monday.

The mid-week matinees at the Times Square Theatre will be given on Thursdays during the engagement of Jane Cowl in "Pelleas and Melisande."

The cast of "The Naked Man," now in rehearsal, will include Wallace Eddinger, Percy Ames, Miriam Doyle, Grant Mills, Diantha Pattison, Miriam Battista and Edwin Maxwell.

"Around in Par," a comedy by W. Lee Dickson and Leslie Hickson, has been acquired by Lester Bryant, who controls the Playhouse in Chicago, and will be produced in Chicago or here.

Mme. Olga Knipper-Chekhova of the Moscow Art Theatre will speak at the Neighborhood Playhouse on Wednesday night of next week. She will give recollections of Anton Chekhov.

Lotus Robb will be in the cast of "Gypsy Jim," in which Lee Carrillo will be starred.

During Christmas and New Year's weeks the Theatre Guild will give nine matinees of plays acted by children—"Aucassin and Nicolette" and "Nala and Damayanti." They will be given under the direction of Edith King and Dorothy Coit.

A revival of the Nativity and Adoration Cycle of Chester mystery plays will be given three performances at the Greenwich Village Theatre at midnight on Christmas Eve, Christmas night and the night following. The plays were acted at this theatre in 1917.

Theatre parties of 300 were entertained by the Ball Electrical Company yesterday at both the matinee and evening performances of "Poppy."

DEFENDS LEASE MADE TO SINCLAIR

Mines Bureau Director Says Other Companies Were Invited to Bid.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Several prominent oil companies were requested to bid on a lease on the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve at the same time that a proposal was sought from the Sinclair interests, Dr. H. Foster Bain, director of the Bureau of Mines, testified today before the Senate Public Lands Committee. He declined, however, to give the names of the companies which were invited to bid.

"I understand that Secretary Fall declined to give this information when he was on the stand," he said. "And I would prefer not to answer, since the information I have is his."

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, insisted on knowing whether the Gulf, Union and Texas oil companies were in the list, and Dr. Bain replied that he personally had asked the Union Oil Company.

Purchase by the Sinclair Company of several claims in the reserve, held by private individuals against the Government for $1,000,000, was taken up by Senator Walsh.

"Don't you think that price excessive?"

"I have never fixed any estimate of their value," said Dr. Bain, "but the Sinclair company was forced to consider their nuisance value as well as their equity. This is shown by the suit the lessor now is defending against the Mutual Oil Company."

Dr. Bain testified the Government received about $1,400,000 more for its royalty oil under the lease than would have come from prevailing prices in the field. Senator Walsh brought out that bonuses paid for separate leases of government lands in the Salt Creek field had amounted to $1,300,000 and the royalty averaged 28.76 per cent. as compared with 16⅔ per cent. from the Sinclair lease.

Dr. Bain declared the Sinclair lease was "far more advantageous to the Government than any other proposal received, and immeasurably superior to any we could now get."

"Why better than you could now get?" asked Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin.

The Ideal Radio Receiver
FADA "ONE SIXTY"
with the NEUTRODYNE Circuit

Coast to coast reception

IT IS no unusual feat for owners of FADA "ONE SIXTY" Neutrodyne Radio Receivers to tune in Pacific Coast stations. Owners in Oregon and California write us that their FADA "ONE SIXTYS" pick up eastern stations with loud speaker intensity. Such coast to coast reception is due to the famous Neutrodyne Circuit and to the wonderful precision and meticulous care that characterize FADA workmanship.

During the trans-Atlantic test last week the FADA "ONE SIXTY" came through with flying colors. We have received numerous telegrams stating that programs from the different British broadcast stations were heard clearly and that reception was most satisfactory.

Buy a FADA "ONE SIXTY" and enjoy perfect radio reception. So easy to tune that "Mother" can operate it. Brings in distant stations on the loud speaker with a clarity and purity of tone that is most satisfying.

Ask your dealer to demonstrate the FADA "ONE SIXTY." He'll do it gladly. Price $120.00.

Four things for Edna's Christmas

THERE ARE many things you might say about Edna. Rather choosy in the colors she wears. Certainly properly particular in the distinction of her costume. Clever enough to cultivate the unhackneyed. Good. There are sweaters at Peck & Peck's which are no place but here. Sport hose that we alone have in town. Scarves patterned after our own ideas and orders. Many are the gifts for Edna. But, don't forget that plain silk stockings are a good gift, and no girl, not even Edna, ever had too many of them.

North Wind—A new slipon sweater which comes in a variety of colors and costs $16

Record—1,505 miles and 1 lap, made by Goullet and Grenda in 1914.

The six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden last night furnished the most exciting riding since it was started when in a succession of frenzied jams extending over a period of twenty-five minutes, four teams lost ground. The period of speeding started at 10:45 P. M. It ended at 11:10 with the Belgian team of Maurice De Wolfe and Harry Stockelynch losing one lap, and the teams of Francesco Verri and Giuseppe Azzini, Fritz Bauers and Henry Tietz, and Ali Nefatti and Jean Chardon, each losing two laps. The crowd of 12,000 was on its feet during the speeding.

Nefatti and Chardon regained one of their lost laps at 11:42 after a two-minute period of terrific riding on the part of the trailing pair. Nefatti suddenly broke from the pack at 11:40 and amid the cheers of the crowd, pedaled about the track as if his life depended on his efforts. The rest of the field paid little attention to the Senegalese or his partner, and in two minutes Nefatti rode up on the field after gaining a lap.

Following the announcement of the ground lost by the four teams affected in the jam, the German team of Bauers and Tietz was declared out of the race by Referee Frank Kramer, thus reducing the number of surviving teams to thirteen. Referee Kramer ordered the German riders off the track because of "indifferent riding in the heat of the jam."

Garden in Uproar.

The Garden was a bedlam while the cyclists sped over the pine track at a fast pace in quest of a lap advantage. When quiet was restored and the announcement of the results made, the roar which swelled up in the arena pierced the historic Garden and disturbed the ordinarily peaceful and quiet district which surrounds Madison Square Park.

The loss of ground in this latest and most exciting riding spree of the race, left ten of the thirteen surviving teams deadlocked on mileage covered since the start of the grind. Stockelynch and De Wolfe experienced their first lap loss.

All Goullet started all the trouble, just after a sprint for a prime, at 10:45. The sterling little Newark cyclist went away in a terrific burst of speed and like a flash the Garden was in an uproar. Relieved by his partner, Pianl, every two or three laps, Goullet had an advance of one-third of a lap, and the team was pedalling like mad to widen the gap. The rest of the field rode like fury in an attempt to overhaul the flying leaders. Finally Maurice Brocco, his head bobbing from side to side as he put all his strength into the driving power of his legs on the pedals, pulled the field up even with Goullet and then continued at breakneck speed for another round of the saucer before subsiding.

Debaets Tears Loose

Hardly had this terrific jam ended, however, when Debaets suddenly broke from the field and was off on a wild tear about the track. Egg came to the relief of his partner and the maniacal speed was resumed. The track was crowded with riders and dangerous spills were narrowly averted on several occasions when the riders were making reliefs.

Beckman started a spurt when Debaets and Egg quieted down, and with his partner, Hanley, gradually worked up an advantage which at one time amounted to one-third of a lap. Brocco it was then pulled the field along, however, after a pulsating mile of riding. Then De Wolfe and Gastman started short jams and Landa and Gastman later tried to steal away.

The excitement abated somewhat, however, when Beckman blew a tire and crashed to the track while rounding the Madison Avenue turn into Twenty-seventh Street.

Crowd Cheers Nefatti.

At 11:40 the Garden was aroused again when Nefatti suddenly stole away from the field on a dash that was to end in his regaining a lap. The team now is three laps behind the main body of the field. For a while there was a pursuit after the cyclist from Senegal, but this gave way to indifference with the realization that it was a team which was four laps behind that was seeking a lap. A great cheer greeted Nefatti when he took to his bunk for a rest after gaining a lap.

Referee Frank Kramer penalized two of the cyclists last night for what he deemed foul riding. The first exercise of disciplinary powers affected Harry Horan in the fourth heat. Horan rode over the finish line first in this heat, after a particularly exciting brush with Orlando Pianl. After the sprint, however, it was announced that Horan was disqualified for rough riding. In a prime which followed the usual sprints, Anthony Beckman was disqualified after riding over the finish line, first. His offense was riding Stockelynch up on the saucer. The prize was awarded to Stockelynch after Beckman's disqualification.

First—Madden, Stokelynch, McNamara, Goullet.

Second—Horan, Pianl, Egg, Hill.

Third—McNamara, Goullet, Madden, Keckler.

Fifth—Landa, McNamara, Moskops, Madden.

Sixth—Van Kempen, Gastman, Azzini, Tietz.

Seventh—Madden, Stokelynch, Goullet, Nefatti.

Eighth—Keckler, Tietz, Kaiser, Horan.

Ninth—Goullet, Madden, McNamara, Nefatti.

Tenth—Pianl, Horan, Brocco, Hill.

	Points.	Total.
McNamara-Van Kempen	20	180
Madden-Horan	20	170
Beckman-Hanley	3	108

Perhaps the largest crowd that has ever attended a Wednesday six-day matinee turned out for yesterday afternoon's sprints. The rainy weather drove many pleasure seekers to the Garden.

McGraw Plans European Trip For Giants and Sox in 1924

Copyright, 1923, by Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—John J. McGraw has begun negotiations for bringing the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox to Europe on a tour next year, playing games at London, Paris, Brussels and Dublin, and possibly in Madrid and Rome.

Even if McGraw should complete arrangements for a joint invasion of Europe by the Giants and White Sox next year it would still be necessary to secure the consent of owners Stoneham and Comiskey of the New York and Chicago clubs, respectively, and of Baseball Commissioner Landis before the trip could actually take place. Secretary James J. Tierney said at the headquarters of the Giants yesterday afternoon that nothing was known there concerning McGraw's plans for the proposed expedition, and efforts to reach Mr. Stoneham last night were unsuccessful.

CRESCENT A. C. FIVE WINS.

Takes Early Lead and Beats University Club of Brooklyn, 26-25.

The Crescent A. C. basketball team defeated the University Club of Brooklyn on the Half Moon courts in Brooklyn last night by the narrow margin of one point. The final score was 26 to 25. At half time the Crescents were leading 17 to 8. Their opponents made a big rally in the second half and outscored them, Karnow, right guard, making two field goals and Knipe, right forward, tallying on a free throw in the final minute of play. The whistle blew just after Knipe caged the ball.

The line-up:

CRESCT A. C. (26).	UNIVERSITY C. (25).

NEW YORK AGGIES WIN.

Defeats Washington Square College Basketball Team, 41-27.

The New York Aggies defeated the Washington Square College five on the latter's court last night by the score of 41 to 27. At the end of the first half the winning team was leading, 20 to 10, outplaying its opponents by a comfortable margin. The Washington Square combination improved its team work in the second half and held the Aggies on fairly even terms.

Van Telt of the Aggies scored six times from the field and once from the foul line. Daniels caged four goals from the floor and one on a free throw, while Kolomayer was responsible for five field goals. Dentel was the high scorer on the losing combination, making five field goals and one from the foul line.

The line-up:

JOCKEY PARKE WINS 5 STRAIGHT RACES

IS BEATEN ON REELFOOT

Then He Rides to Victory Bessie Wright, Antonia, Super, Sewell Combs and Grass Tree.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5.—The riding of Apprentice Jockey Ivan Parke continued to be the feature of the racing at Jefferson Park this afternoon. The youngster, after being beaten by a length in the opening number, rode five straight winners, all of which were favorites at short prices and four of them at odds-on.

Parke came very near making it a clean sweep, for he lost the decision in the first by only a length. This was a dash at five and a half furlongs, in which he had the mount on Reelfoot. The gelding was away poorly in a bad start and Parke gave him an earnest ride from the beginning. He gained all through and was going strongly at the end, but could not quite catch Wireless, the 8-to-2 favorite.

Parke then settled down to the business of cleaning up the rest of the card. In the dash of five and a half furlongs for two-year-olds he won with the greatest ease on Bessie Wright. The filly was in well with 90 pounds and liked the going. Parke hustled her out in front with the rise of the barrier and held her there throughout, the filly holding out well in the stretch run to win by six lengths from Bernice Childs. Bessie Wright was the 9-to-10 favorite. There was crowding soon after the start. Sleiveblocm being caught in a jam in which Jockey Hunt was thrown off.

Antonia Wins Easily.

In the six-furlong sprint for three-year-olds, Parke won on Mose Goldblatt's chestnut filly Antonia, which was the overwhelming favorite at 2 to 5. The daughter of Tony Bonero ran as if much the best in the field of eight. She broke fast, was at home in the heavy going and won as her rider pleased, finishing four lengths in front of Piedmont.

The little apprentice did not have so easy a time with W. V. Casey's gelding Super in the fourth race over the course of a mile and a furlong. The son of Superman and Sister Jeanie was somewhat slow to break in the field of eight that went to the post, but he was well handled, and Parke had him up into the lead after going half a mile. In the stretch run Super held Royal Crown safely, winning handily by a good length. The winner carried 112 pounds and was held steadily all through the betting at 5 to 2.

Another easy victory followed in the fifth number, a dash of five and a half furlongs for three-year-olds and upward. Park was up on W. M. Cain's Sewell Combs and he held the old chestnut son of Jack Atkin in restraint until the last quarter. He was then rushed into the lead, but Parke had to ride in the stretch to outstay The Muleskinner, although he won easily enough at the end by a couple of lengths. The winner was the odds-on favorite at 7 to 10. George Starr, second choice at 7 to 2, took the short end, a length and a half behind The Muleskinner.

Grass Tree First by a Nose.

Parke made a brilliant finish in the closing event of the afternoon program. He was up on T. H. Bernhardt's four-year-old bedding Grass Tree, a son of Short Grass and Dancer, and he won with 110 pounds, bottom weight of 105 pounds. The distance was a mile and a furlong, and eight went to the post. Parke held his mount back of the pace until the stretch was reached, where Grass Tree moved up with determination. The gelding stood Parke's drive gamely, was up in the last few strides and just nosed Tan Son out of first money. Grass Tree was held steadily at 5 to 2 in the wagering, being a slight choice over Rep, which finished third, five lengths behind Tan Son.

Parke Has Won Eighteen Races In Six Days at New Orleans

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5.—Ivan Parke, the apprentice jockey under contract to Mose Goldblatt, has made a remarkable riding record since the opening of the meeting at Jefferson Park on Thanksgiving Day, having won just half of the total of thirty-six races run in the six days of racing. He started on the holiday with three winners and was unplaced three times. He wound up the week this afternoon by riding five straight winners, running second in the opening number. The youngster has had thirty-three mounts, winning with eighteen, being second with four, third with three and out of the money with only eight. The record follows:

TROTTING SENTENCE CHANGED TO A FINE

Chaney and His Horses Have Penalty of Expulsion Modified by National Body.

The National Trotting Association concluded its annual congress at the Murray Hill Hotel yesterday. Several reinstatements were announced by the Board of Review. H. G. Chaney of Sabina, Ohio, and his horses Steve and O'Boy had their sentences of expulsion modified to a fine of $250. The original penalty was inflicted for withdrawing a horse at a Cleveland race without the consent of the judges.

After having been under the ban for eleven years, Charles G. Annis of Nectaux, N. S., who had been penalised for withdrawing a horse without consent, was reinstated.

John F. Kingsley, well-known driver, was temporarily reinstated. He was placed under the ban for changing the name of the horse Jesse Arlington to San Franco. President Reese Blizzard of the National Association, who was authorized to reinstate Kingsley, was directed to collect from him the record-fee for the changing of the name. The Board of Review acted upon more than a hundred minor infractions of the rules of racing during the two days it was in session.

A. P. Sanches of Ottawa, Ohio, and H. B. Rea of Pittsburgh were appointed to constitute the Rules Committee of the association. This committee meets with the Rules Committee of the American Trotting Association and they jointly make the rules governing light harness racing.

EDWARDS CAPTURES CROSS-COUNTRY RUN

ERASMUS WINS TEAM PRIZE

Finishes With Low Total of 30 Points—Poly Prep Harriers Are Second.

Ogden E. Edwards Jr. of Poly Prep led home the field in the annual Brooklyn public and private schools cross-country championship run yesterday over a course of approximately 2¼ miles at Dyker Heights. His time was 11 minutes 27 seconds. Robert Boyle of Brooklyn Tech finished second five minutes later, and then came three Erasmus Hall runners in a row, to win the team honors for the Flatbush school. Erasmus's fourth man finished seventh and her fifth man came in eleventh, giving the team a low winning total of 30 points. Poly Prep was second with 34 points, her other four representatives finishing sixth, eighth, ninth and tenth. Brooklyn Tech was third with 67 points and Manual Training was fourth with 68.

Edwards, who is the city private school title holder, finished twenty yards ahead of Boyle, who was runner-up to Garland Brown of Newtown in the Greater New York P. S. A. L. title run. Erasmus's first man, G. Fortier, finished in 11:41 and O. Ott and C. Worden finished in a dead heat behind him in 11:54. W. Gosling, Poly Prep's second man to finish, came in in 12:02, seven seconds ahead of L. Perkins of Erasmus.

The course, a two-lap one, was heavy from the rain, which was falling hard during the run. At the end of the first lap, Albert Erda of Poly Prep showed the way, with several Erasmus runners close on his heels. Boyle was in fifth position and Edwards further behind. Boyle went to the front in the last half mile, but was caught in the last quarter by Edwards, who took the lead and beat him to the tape.

The order of finish follows:

AMERICAN LEAGUE TO MEET ON DEC. 11

President Johnson Advances Date to Avoid Conflict With Joint Session.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (Associated Press).—Baseball forces of the nation started mobilising here tonight to clear the decks for the important meeting starting next Monday and continuing through the week.

President Ban Johnson of the American League definitely disposed of the possibility of an argument between himself and Commissioner Landis when he announced that the American League would meet Dec. 11, one day in advance of the provision of the constitution.

Commissioner Landis has summoned the owners of the major league clubs to meet here on Dec. 12 in joint session. The American League constitution made it mandatory on President Johnson to call his own meeting on this day, but he moved it forward in order to avoid a clash in dates. However, the American League club owners will go into session on Dec. 12 in order to carry out the constitutional requirement.

The American League Directors will meet with President Johnson next Monday to formulate the League's policy for the joint session with the National League club owners the following Wednesday.

The schedule for the 1924 season will be among the questions to be considered by the American League club owners. President Johnson favors a schedule of 154 games, starting the season about the same date as last year.

Harry Williams of Los Angeles, one of the two Presidents of the Pacific Coast League, arrived today with several of the Coast League club owners. President Williams said his mission was to restore harmony in his organization, and he believed that if the legality of his election is questioned the National Board of Arbitration will uphold the decision of the five club owners who voted him into office.

William J. McCarthy, the deposed President, claims the League rules provide that a candidate must receive five votes to be elected, and unless a man is so elected the holdover officer continues to serve. McCarthy's contention is that the Seattle club, which voted for Williams, thereby breaking the tie, was not entitled to vote.

Writers' Meeting Announced.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—The Baseball Writers' Association of America will hold a meeting at the Congress Hotel, Chicago, on Dec. 12 at the time of the joint conference of the National and American Leagues, Secretary Joseph M. McCready announced today.

HUGGINS MAY SHIFT WARD TO SHORTSTOP

Hints That Scott Will Be Benched if Good Second Baseman Is Secured.

COLLINS MAY PLAY HERE

Harris of Washington Also Mentioned Among Players Who May Be Sought by Yankees.

If Miller Huggins can get an experienced and capable second baseman, he will switch Aaron Ward to shortstop and bench or trade Everett Scott. This surprising change in the makeup of the world's champions was hinted at by the Yankee manager yesterday, and now it is more than a possibility that, besides seeking that left-handed pitcher and right-handed pinch hitter he has been talking so much about, Huggins will go to the baseball meetings next week in earnest quest of a second baseman, putting an entirely new angle on the trading plans of the Ruppert-Barrow-Huggins ensemble.

One result of the Huggins discussion was that the Eddie Collins rumor came out of miss-covered retirement and began blossoming again. If you believe the dopesters who sit around the hot stove of the Hot Stove League and spin yarns of trades and shakeups, Huggins will go to Chicago determined to swing a deal for Columbia Eddie. Another story had it that Stanley Harris of the Senators might be the man who would come to New York in a three-cornered trade involving the Yankees and White Sox. Both these second sackers have been mentioned in trade reports this Winter, and Collins especially would like to come to the Yanks. It is no secret that Eddie was the least bit put out to learn that Frank Chance had been named White Sox manager.

Sentiment No Consideration.

The whole affair, however, is still in a nebulous state. Huggins gave no indications that he has tried or will try to make such a deal, but he did state definitely and precisely that he thinks Ward would be a fine shortstop, that he would not hesitate on account of sentiment to shelve Deacon Scott if he could get a stronger man at second base and that he already has talked over the interesting point with Colonel Jacob

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 5.—The third day of play in the 18.1 National Amateur Tourney at the Newark A. C. here today, was featured by two sensational upsets. In the opening afternoon match, Jacob Klinger furnished a surprise when he defeated Edgar T. Appleby, international 18.2 titleholder, 250 to 202 in 42 innings, and in the evening match amateur billiard followers were startled by the victory of Edward W. Gardner, veteran Montclair A. C. star, over Francis S. Appleby, Eastern 18.2 champion, by a score of 250 to 245 in 45 innings.

Gardner's victory over Francis Appleby was featured by the veteran's uphill fight against apparently insurmountable odds. Appleby led Gardner at one time, 115 to 38. Gardner's beautiful cluster of 48, however, put him again in the running. Appleby fell off in his playing in the closing innings while Gardner steadily improved.

The victory of John A. Clinton Jr. of the Pittsburgh A. C., over Dr. Richard M. Roscow, 250 to 196, in the second afternoon match, sent him into first place in the league standing and he has still to meet defeat.

Gardner Trails at Start.

During the first five innings of the evening match Francis S. Appleby made two double figure clusters, one of 10 and the other of 15, and led the Montclair A. C. veteran, 16 to 15, at the close of the fifth. Appleby's position play was of high calibre and the score at the end of the tenth inning was, Appleby 95, Gardner 35.

Appleby continued his masterful game, and at the close of the fifteenth had increased his lead to 130 to 83. At the close of the twentieth inning Appleby led Gardner, 170 to 77, but in the following inning Gardner got control of the balls and ran 48, equaling Klinger's high run of the tournament. The veteran, on his forty-ninth stroke, missed a cushion shot off the left rail.

In the next inning Gardner added a run of 19 to his total, which put him again in the running. Appleby, however, turned his second 100 points in the twenty-sixth inning, and at the end of the thirtieth the score was, Appleby 204, Gardner 168.

Gardner ran 36 in the thirty-fourth, making several difficult three-cushion shots. He continued to wear down his opponent's lead and at the end of the thirty-eighth was but two points behind. The veteran was leaving Appleby poorly and the Eastern champion could not collect the balls for a run. Both men reported to safety play at this point, but Gardner won in the forty-fifth inning on an unfinished run of ten.

The score by innings:

Francis S. Appleby—2 0 10 5 19 5 24 10 10 1 2 0 15 10 5 1 37 0 1 0 1 2 6 12 4 0 0 0 0 11 0 1 3 0 0 0 4 3 4—245 points. High runs—37, 24 and 19. Average—5 25-44.

Referee—Louis Crane.

F. Appleby Gets Early Lead.

In the first afternoon game between Edgar Appleby and Jacob Klinger, both were off form at first, but in the sixth inning the international 18.2 titleholder got a run of 12 and followed this up in the ninth with a cluster of 31, getting the balls together and using the end of the table to good advantage. After ten innings of play Appleby led, 64 to 25.

In the twelfth inning, a run of 40 made by Klinger put him in the lead. It was his second best run to date and incidentally, the second highest of the tournament up to that point. It was made by careful position play at both ends of the table, combined with delicate nursing of the ivories in the unrestricted area. Appleby regained the lead and turned his first hundred in the sixteenth on a run of 30, finally missing on a short massé.

The play tightened at this point, Klinger making one run of 19 and two others of 17 each, and at the close of the twenty-fifth inning Appleby was leading by only two points, 140 to 138. Klinger ran 16 in the twenty-ninth, but Appleby came back with a cluster of 21 in the next session, and he still led, 174 to 162.

Klinger, however, continued to show great improvement over his play of the preceding two days and in the thirty-fourth inning turned his second hundred to lead the international champion, 209 to 197.

Klinger showed a good choice of shots, ranging from difficult massés and three-cushion shots to simple draw and follow strokes, and he drew a round of applause from the spectators when he took the match in the forty-second inning with an unfinished run of 8.

The score by innings:

Of yesterday's news with a bearing on the markets, the important developments were the breaking of the House deadlock at Washington, and the sudden outburst of friendliness to France in the campaign speeches of the British Premier and one of his important Ministers. The compromise with the House insurgents, followed by Gillett's election as Speaker, presumably had a hand in yesterday's moderate recovery of stocks. Baldwin's assertion at Liverpool of his "anxiety and determination to preserve the friendship which unites the country to France," and Lord Derby's intimation that the Reparation Commission would "soon have important material with which to work toward a final settlement," may have been the governing influence in yesterday's rise of European exchange rates.

The day's advance in stocks was mostly fractional. There was less of manipulation in the industrial list than the day before and better support in the railway shares, several of which rose 1 to 2 points. Taken as a whole, however, the day's change in prices was not important. The President's message to Congress was naturally awaited with interest. If it takes the ground on urgent public issues that is generally expected, financial markets will watch with particular keenness for the popular reception of it.

Both sterling and French exchange rose to the highest rates since Monday of last week. In sterling, yesterday's 3⅝ per cent. advance marked a total recovery of 6% from the low price of Friday's reaction, and brought back the rate nearly to the best figure reached in the violent November recovery. It was reported on the exchange market that "British Government support" was in the market, and that is not impossible. But the fact that the franc also advanced 1 1-3 per cent. for the day, to a rate 6% per cent. above the recent low figure, strongly suggested that there were larger influences at work. The strength of sterling attracted attention especially because of its occurrence on the very eve of the uncertain general election in Great Britain; a time when speculative markets would usually halt.

If last month's returning cheerfulness in trade circles and the recent heavy buying of iron had led any one to infer that production was increasing, yesterday's statement of the November iron output would have brought disappointment. The month's daily average output decreased 5 per cent. from October. It was smaller by 22¾ per cent. than in May, when the high-record daily production of the present year was reached, and it fell considerably below the November average of 1922 or of the four war years from 1915 to 1918 inclusive. In short, this familiar index to the general activity of industry bears precisely the same testimony of a relaxing movement for November as for the five preceding months. But the business community is gradually learning to measure and interpret such industrial weather signs, not by comparison with the wholly abnormal speeding-up of trade last Spring but with something nearer the normal rate of output.

Our iron production in both April and May ran far beyond all precedent; largely exceeding even the figures of the Autumn of 1916; in May we turned out 14½ per cent. more iron than in the most active month of 1920. But even the iron and steel trade did not expect last Spring, the indefinite continuance of such activity. Like the high production in half a dozen other industries, the iron output was a measure of accumulated requirements, postponed in the period of depression after 1920 (when daily production fell below 28,000 tons) and converging all at once on the early market of 1923.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 5, 1923.

Stock Exchange call money was maintained at 4½ per cent. throughout session, unchanged from Tuesday's low and final. There was a goodly supply of funds available, enough in fact for "Street" loans to be arranged at a fraction under the board rate. A small amount of new money was loaned at 5 per cent. in fixed period market, but bulk of accommodation was held at 5½ per cent. Prime name commercial paper moved more freely at 5 per cent., with now and then a name, less well known, at 5¼.

London Market.

Money in London ¾ lower, at 1¾ per cent.; short bills, ⅛ @ ¼ lower, at 3⅛ @ 3¼ per cent.; three months' bills, unchanged, at 3¼ per cent.

Gold bullion 5d lower, at 94s 5d per fine ounce. Taking the British Mint standard price of 85s per fine ounce as par, the market quotation of gold would represent a price of 111⅞ at London. On the same basis the highest London price for gold for the year to date was 114 on Nov. 19. The highest prices since open trading in gold was resumed at London in September, 1919, was 149⅝, on Feb. 6, 1920; the lowest 102¾, on Feb. 21, 1922. Highest price last year, 136, on Jan. 3.

NEW STEEL ORDERS PLACED

Several Inquiries for Structural Work Reported in Market.

Increasing activity in the steel market was evidenced yesterday by new buying. Among the orders was one for 15,000 tons of rails by the South Manchurian Railway, which was placed with the United States Steel Products Company. The Consolidated Gas Company placed an order for 10,000 tons of pipe with the National Tube Company.

Estimates of steel for structural work that has been contracted for in the last ten days are 40,000, and it is reported that several large inquiries are still in the market. Among the new equipment orders which have been placed are those of the Baltimore & Ohio for 1,000 gondola cars with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Southern Railway for 2,000 additional cars with the American Car and Foundry Company.

It is expected that the Bethlehem Steel Corporation will increase its pig iron production this week as the result of the blowing in of two additional blast furnaces at Bethlehem and at Cambria.

Kinney Company Sales Increase.

The G. R. Kinney Company reports gross sales of $1,336,734 for November against $1,173,318 in the same month last year. For the eleven months ended November gross sales totaled $12,202,474 against $10,585,400 last year.

LOUIS HILL SCORES TAXES.

Americans Getting Round Shouldered Under the Burden, He Says.

Louis W. Hill, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Great Northern Railway Company, said in a statement made public here yesterday:

"Americans are getting round-shouldered from bearing the high burden of taxes which actually have become oppressive because of the excessive cost of government.

"The unnecessary cost of government is an unnecessary burden on production and consumption. It is to your interest to do everything in your power to encourage honesty, economy and efficiency in all forms of your Government—Federal, State and local—so as to reduce the taxes your railroads pay, for they become part of the cost of your transportation and of your cost of living. Even though the tax is collected from the railroad, it necessarily is added to the railroad's expenses and the public must pay rates high enough to defray those expenses, including the taxes paid."

Bankers to Meet in Chicago.

The 1924 convention of the American Bankers' Association, it was announced yesterday by F. N. Shepherd, Executive Manager, will be held Sept. 29 to Oct. 2, inclusive, in Chicago. Headquarters will be at the Congress Hotel and the general sessions will be held in the Auditorium Theatre.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Low-Priced Railways Lead the Market.

Following an irregular movement of prices on the Stock Exchange on both Monday and Tuesday, the stock market yesterday resumed its upward course and at the close some substantial gains were reported throughout the list. Among the leaders, such as Steel common, American Can and Studebaker, only fractional gains were reported for the day, while Baldwin registered a small decline; but the low-priced railroad shares and specialties of the type of Schulte Stores, Mack Trucks, Tobacco Products, Famous Players and stocks of like character were substantially higher. The Erie issues attracted most attention in the railway group; about 10 per cent. of the total trading for the day was centred about the three Erie issues, all of which established new high records for the year. The bonds of this road also were strong. In the closing hour Southern Railway was unusually active, advancing about 2 points to a new high record for 1923. Taking the market as a whole, the tone was firm from the very start, the better feeling being ascribed to the victory of the regular Republicans in the contest for Speakership in the House. But other developments, accepted as favorable influences, were the news of President Coolidge's victory over Johnson in the South Dakota primaries and the swift recovery in sterling.

Erie Rumors.

The movement of the Erie stock to new high records for the year was accompanied by an output of rumor that equaled the best performance of any previous time this year. Despite the denial from Cleveland by Van Sweringen that the Nickel Plate had obtained control, the rumor persisted that the Cleveland interests were after the property. One version of this rumor was so far afield as to suggest that Ford money might be back of the Van Sweringen purchases. Another rumor, which attracted some attention, was that the purchases were being made by representatives of the New York Central who hoped to dominate the railroad situation through the Erie in case the Interstate Commerce Commission failed to give them the Central of New Jersey. Besides these, most of the old "Erie rumors" that have appeared from time to time were revived. The general impression was that the movement had been caused by the pool which has been at work in the Erie stock for some time.

The Three-Day Break in Cotton.

The sweeping decline in the price of cotton yesterday, making the third successive day of rapid downward readjustment, was discussed with as much interest in Wall Street as the movement of stocks. It was a matter of general comment that this three-day decline, which has brought down the price 5 1-3 per cent. and has canceled all the advance scored between Nov. 22 and Dec. 1, occurred without any fresh news regarding the cotton crop or the cotton trade, and without the publication of any new Government statement regarding cotton production, ginnings or consumption. The cause generally assigned on the Cotton Exchange has been the publication of private estimates much higher than private estimates put out last week. Wall Street, however, recognized the fact yesterday that the fall in price had been rendered inevitable through the accumulation of a greatly over-extended speculative interest in last week's excited advance. Attention was also called yesterday to the fact that daily sales on the principal Southern spot markets this week had declined heavily as compared with last week. The estimate of cotton ginnings up to Dec. 1, to be published on Saturday, will be the first official statement to throw new light on the situation.

Holding Close to the Million Mark.

From estimates that have been made to date it is predicted that the car-loading figures for the week ended Nov. 24 will remain very close to the million mark, indicating that the volume of business is maintaining a steady trend. "When I say that I believe it will be near the million mark," one executive remarked, "I mean that it will probably be within 10,000. My estimate is that it will reach about 990,000 cars, which would be a decrease of but approximately 3,000 cars from the previous week." The figures will be given out today.

Concerning a Loan to Germany.

While still skeptical regarding the likelihood of a substantial loan to Germany, several bankers yesterday evinced interest in Washington dispatches which suggested "on high authority" that the Government would consider a loan to Germany having the United States Government's moral backing. Various suggestions as to the possible form of such a loan were heard. For one, it was suggested that the War Finance Corporation might take a hand in the rumored negotiations—a form of "moral support" which, if done, would be tantamount to Government backing of such a loan. It was also suggested that the country might ship wheat on a long-term credit basis, thus disposing of this country's surplus stocks. Nobody, however, had the least definite information in the matter.

Scope of "Foreign Buying."

There is no way in which an estimate of dependability can be made of foreign buying of American securities, but men in the financial district who are conversant with buying of certain foreign interests made estimates yesterday of the amount of such buying in the last six months which ranged from $50,000,000 to a much higher figure. Most of this buying, it was believed, had come through Holland—a manifestation that in turn suggested at least a large degree of German buying. A curious division in the type of purchases was evidenced, according to one house, which reported that German buying was chiefly of the highest grade railroad bonds, among them the 4 per cent. issues of the Union Pacific, Atchison, Central Pacific, Southern Pacific and Norfolk & Western railroad companies, while the scattered British buying that filtered in during the same period was in large proportion centred in issues possessing some speculative possibilities.

Trade News Continues Favorable.

The financial district yesterday was full of news of orders for large tonnages of steel. The individual orders were not large in size compared with some placed recently, but the number of such orders, coming from all sections of the country and from various classes of industry, was taken to indicate that business was developing favorably. Also the day's reports from the copper trade were cheerful. Figures were published yesterday which showed that sales of the metal for November were well above the 280,000,000 pound mark, and with expectations that the current month will continue to see a good demand for delivery over the first quarter of the new year, producers expressed the belief that the last quarter of 1923 may be equally as active as was the first quarter of the year. Preliminary estimates of the petroleum production of the country for the past week, which will be made public today, call for a further large reduction in output.

Why You Should—

Invest in Public Utility Bonds

There is a constant and increasing demand for public utility services.

There is exceptional freedom from labor troubles.

There is an increasing investment interest and a widening market for public utility securities.

We believe firmly in the future of the public utilities of the United States. We believe utility bonds present some of the most attractive investment opportunities today.

Definite suggestions will be sent upon request.

FOREIGN INVESTORS HEAVY BUYERS HERE

Purchases of American Securities in Last Eight Months May Total Quarter of a Billion.

HELPS TO STEADY PRICES

The purchase of American securities by foreign investors has been extensive for eight months, according to bankers yesterday, who said that the amount might total a quarter of a billion dollars. The greater part of this buying has come from Holland, with buying through Switzerland ranking probably second. This was accepted as indicating that most of the buying was for the account of German interests, which, it was stated a month ago, were shifting a portion of their credit balances from Holland and England to the United States.

One important foreign banking concern alone has placed since March of last year, roundly $50,000,000 in orders for American securities. This firm was probably the largest individual buyer or agent for foreign buyers and in banking circles these orders were described as "for the German account."

In this connection, the point was made that Germany before the war had been an important holder of American securities; since the war there has been a gradual return to the American investment field, a movement that was accelerated when the mark began its final toboggan. In addition, there has been buying by investors of other European countries, notably the neutrals, including Holland, Scandinavia and Spain. British buying has been relatively slight, the recent decline in sterling having, in fact, brought out a certain amount of selling for the British account—this account, it was explained, being entirely independent of the British Government operations which have been extensive in United States Liberty bonds.

Selection of Securities.

An interesting fact in the so-called German buying has been the selection of American securities. Only the highest grade railroad bonds, a smaller proportion of high-grade public utility bonds and a smattering of Government and industrial bonds have been taken up. The railroad bonds, it was said, included some of the low interest-bearing securities of the Union Pacific, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Southern Pacific and the Norfolk & Western. For these bonds there is a ready market, making their liquidation easy. These roads are known to foreign investors from the pre-war days, another factor that has contributed to their selection.

The German and Dutch buying has also included, among other issues, the Department of Seine (France) bonds, United Kingdom of Great Britain and Belgian Government bonds—all bonds that have been listed on the New York Stock Exchange and which are known as dollar bonds, interest being payable in dollars.

Buying from other countries, notably Britain, has been of a somewhat wider variety, it is stated. The British investors have included in their buying lists a number of semi-speculative issues. This, it was explained, was in keeping with the character of British investment in the pre-war period when, fifty years ago, British money contributed freely to the then speculative ventures in railroading which later developed into systems like the Union Pacific, Atchison and Pennsylvania.

Bankers emphasized, however, that British buying has been in small proportions except for Government operations. One reason, it was suggested, lay in a home Government tax. In Great Britain every share or bond purchased is subject to tax, the Government requiring a Government stamp on such securities before they can be taken up by the purchaser. This tax ranges as high as 2 per cent., or equivalent to $20 on a bond of $1,000.

Steadier Prices Here.

One result of foreign buying, which last month appeared to have reached the highest point for the year, with but little more than a nominal slackening since, has been to steady security prices here. Bond houses and stock houses reported yesterday a noticeable firmness for all high-grade securities once they reached "bargain levels." When these securities have at times advanced in prices, the strength of this buying has waned and sometimes disappeared almost entirely until again the price was "right."

"The conclusion reached by most dealers has been simply this: Europe is ready to buy, but at bargain prices," one authority stated.

Another important result of strong foreign buying has been to strengthen the market for new American securities. In recent months there have been brought out several large foreign Government issues paying interest in terms of dollars. Many of these issues have proved popular with foreign investors. As examples, it was suggested that a large percentage of Dutch East Indies, Swiss, Norwegian and other bonds of that character found their way back to Europe. There has also been good foreign demand for Austrian Government bonds, particularly with recent reports in circulation as to Austria's economic recovery.

The reason for this buying, bankers said, was obvious; foreign investors want securities paying interest in a stable currency. As a consequence, dollar interest payments to persons living in countries whose money standards are crashing possess double value and the interest yield is only a secondary consideration. Even at low yields on American bonds, dollar payments in Germany, for example, would represent tremendous gain in terms of paper marks. A $1,000 bond paying $40 a year, one banker said by way of illustration, could have been purchased a short time ago at 100,000 marks for the dollar, or 1,000,000,000 marks; and today the quarterly interest payment of $10 would be equivalent to roughly 40,000,000,000,000 marks.

"Of course the purchasing power of the mark has collapsed rapidly since then, but the more it collapses the larger looms the value of forty American dollars," one banker said.

In connection with the present increase in gold shipments, it was suggested that this movement was primarily for British Government operations, laying the foundation for 1924 requirements and not for the $92,000,000 payment on its war debt due on Dec. 15. It was also indicated that the settlement of private American accounts likewise played an important part, and that the continued shifting of gold reserves was only a minor movement in the influx of foreign investment buying of American securities.

REA HEADS THE L. I. R. R.

President of Pennsylvania System Chosen—No Changes Here.

Samuel Rea, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was elected President of the Long Island Railroad Company yesterday to succeed Ralph Peters, deceased. The election was in accordance with the policy of the railroad that the President of the Pennsylvania shall act as President of the principal companies of the system.

Mr. Rea will make no changes in the operating conditions of the Long Island Railroad in New York. It was stated. George LeBoutillier will continue as Vice President, resident in New York, in charge of operations and all questions relating to improvements and service.

LAST MONTH'S OUTPUT OF IRON DECREASED

Output of pig iron in the United States during November, as reported yesterday, showed decrease of 254,863 tons from October; the decrease in average daily output being 5,110 tons, or slightly more than 5 per cent. The daily output in November averaged the smallest of any month since November, 1922. There has been a continuous decrease in each month since the high record of the year was reached, last May. As compared with the May output, production in November showed decrease of 22⅝ per cent.

On Dec. 1 the capacity of the 231 furnaces in blast was 94,345 tons, as compared with 246 furnaces with a capacity of 99,020 in blast on Nov. 1.

	1923	1922	1921
	1922	1921	1920

	1923	1922	1921	1920
July	118,656	77,592	27,889	98,931
April	118,324	69,070	50,768	91,327
Feb.	106,935	58,214	69,187	102,720
Jan.	104,181	53,063	77,945	97,284

The May production was the largest on record. As against that month's daily average of 124,764 tons, the highest in wartime was 113,942, in September, 1918; the highest since the war until last March, 108,900, in March, 1920. The smallest since the war was 27,889, in July, 1921, which was also the smallest of any month since the 27,312 of December, 1903.

CUBAN PORT CHARGE BILL.

Sugar Men Do Not Believe Proposed Rise Affects Them.

The report published yesterday that the Cuban Senate had passed a bill authorizing President Zayas to increase the port charges by 50 per cent. was interpreted in sugar trade circles as having no application to exports of sugar from the island.

In the absence of detailed information, officials of two of the large American sugar companies having plantations in Cuba expressed the belief that the proposed increase in port charges would affect only imports of certain commodities and merchandise into Cuba, such as coal and machinery.

Regarding the Tarafa railroad consolidation measure recently enacted, which the sugar companies asserted was confiscatory, it was learned yesterday that this law still awaits the formal interpretation of the Cuban President. According to assurances, said yesterday to have been given to the attorneys representing these companies, President Zayas will make such interpretation of the measure as will not work a hardship on the sugar industry. It was pointed out yesterday that there are still certain sections of the Tarafa bill which if regarded literally would serve as ground for a further protest by the sugar interests.

NEW BOND OFFERINGS.

Nashville (Tenn.) $2,750,000 4¾ Per Cent. Issue Selling at Par.

New bond issues on the market today include the offering at par of $2,750,000 Nashville, Tenn., 4¾ per cent. gold bonds due on Nov. 1, from 1926 to 1948, inclusive. The underwriting group consists of the First National Bank, Redmond & Co., Barr Brothers & Co., E. H. Rollins & Sons, Hornblower & Weeks, Graham, Parsons & Co., B. J. Van Ingen & Co. and Keane, Higbie & Co.

Offering is also made of $1,000,000 Missouri Joint Stock Land Bank 5 per cent. farm loan bonds, due on May 1, 1953. The group behind this offering includes A. M. Lamport & Co., Inc., Kelley, Drayton & Co. and William L. Ross & Co., Inc., of Chicago. These bonds are optional in 1931 and are priced at 100¼, to yield 4.96 to the redeemable date and 5 per cent. thereafter. The Missouri Joint Stock Land Bank, operating in Missouri and Oklahoma, is under the same management as the Kansas City Joint Stock Land Bank, which operates in Kansas and Missouri. This issue is the first public offering of bonds by the Missouri institution.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Foreign exchanges moved forward briskly yesterday, the action of sterling being the feature of the list. At $4.39½, the day's top, London checks were up 3½ cents from Tuesday's final, and 7 cents from the low on that day. Continentals were also strong. French bills improving 7 points to 5.46½ cents, Italian exchange was 8¼ points higher at 4.37 cents, Holland remittances at 38.15 cents showed an advance of 21 points, with Spanish, Belgian, the Scandinavians all reporting good size advances.

London was again the chief buyer here, and the interpretation which the Street put upon this indicated confidence abroad over the British elections today. There was also considerable fresh buying, aided by short covering, and with a noticeable drop in the offerings of export bills rates naturally reflected the change in sentiment. At times, dealers reported, the demand for cables outweighed the inquiry for checks, with the result that the spread between the two was widened 1/16 to 5/32 cent. in favor of telegraph transfers.

Far Easterns and South Americans worked higher, the Uruguayan peso being marked up ¼ cent, to 77.17 cents, on top of the advance of 2¼ cents on Tuesday. German marks were nominally quoted at 23 cents per trillion, or at the rate of 4,350 billion, compared with 6,666 billion a week ago, and 8,000 a year ago. The impression prevailed that the adjustment of the Berlin difficulties was the force behind the advance.

How are Investment Trust Bonds Secured?

Answer:—

BY pledge of bonds, stocks or cash owned by the issuing Trust. The funded security of an Investment Trust is, in effect, a "Collateral Trust" Bond. This difference exists, however: the securities safeguarding an Investment Trust Bond may, from time to time, be exchanged for other securities provided that the original market value equity is maintained and that such exchange is effected in strict keeping with the requirements of the Declaration of Trust.

The Secured Serial 6% Gold Bonds of International Securities Trust of America—the first to be formed in the United States,—are protected by deposit of securities having a market value of never less than 115% of the par value of the Bonds outstanding.

SIX CORPORATIONS ADD TO DIVIDENDS

BRITISH OIL'S INTERIM 5%

Utah Apex and Kerr Lake Mining Companies Pass Dividends Due at This Time.

Several extra dividends were announced by industrial corporations yesterday. The G. W. Helme Company declared an extra dividend of 7 per cent. on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent. The board also declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the preferred stock. All dividends are payable Jan. 20 to stockholders of record Dec. 17.

An extra dividend of 2 per cent. was declared on the common stock of the American Snuff Company in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 3 per cent. The regular dividend of 1¾ per cent. quarterly was also declared on the preferred stock. The dividends of this company are payable Jan. 20 to stockholders of record Dec. 14.

The Electric Storage Battery Company declared an extra dividend of $1 a share on both the common and preferred stocks in addition to the regular quarterly dividends of $1 a share on both issues. All four dividends are payable Jan. 2 to stockholders of record Dec. 15. This company has only a small amount of preferred stock outstanding, and inasmuch as it is convertible into common stock the directors usually declare an extra dividend on this issue along with the common stock.

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company declared an extra dividend of 5 per cent. on the capital stock in addition to three regular quarterly dividends of 2 per cent. each. The extra dividend is payable Feb. 15, 1924, to stockholders of record Jan. 31. The three quarterly dividends are payable Dec. 31, April 1 and July 1 to stockholders of record Dec. 15, March 7 and June 16, respectively.

An extra dividend of $1.50 a share in addition to the regular quarterly payments of $1 a share was declared yesterday on both the common and Class B stock of the Elliott-Fisher Company. The regular dividend of 1¾ per cent. was also declared on the preferred stock. All dividends are payable Jan. 2 to stockholders of record Dec. 15.

Directors of the Anglo-American Oil Company, the British distributing company for the Standard Oil organization, declared an interim dividend of 5 per cent. on the capital stock equal to 22 cents a share in this country, according to advices received from abroad. The dividend, which is payable Dec. 17, is free of the British income tax. Yesterday's dividend makes a total of 20 per cent. distributed thus far this year, an increase of 5 per cent. over last year.

On the other hand, the Utah Apex Mining Company and the Kerr Lake Mining Company passed the dividends due at this time. Utah Apex had been paying dividends at the rate of 25 cents a share quarterly and Kerr Lake had been paying 12½ cents a share quarterly.

$7,000,000 LOAN TO ROAD.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A $7,000,000 loan from the Treasury to the Boston & Maine Railroad was authorized today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Of the total to be lent $3,336,000 will be spent in repairing and rebuilding rolling stock, $1,106,000 for new equipment and $2,558,000 for betterments to roadways and structures. The railroad requires this expenditure, the commission decided, in order to conduct its business efficiently, and has no opportunity of borrowing the money elsewhere than from the Government.

The application originally made by the railroad was for about $13,000,000.

COTTON OFF A CENT AS MARKET BREAKS

After resisting effects of extensive profit-taking abroad on Tuesday, when the foreign selling movement continued unabated yesterday both American markets gave way under the strain. Prices declined a cent a pound under one of the largest day's business this year. The decline took place in an orderly manner, attended with frequent reactions during the session, but the recent advance had been so rapid and so many mills had been driven to cover that demand was not broad enough to absorb contracts for sale. Liquidation became more general than at any time during the entire advance of over 15 cents a pound since the rise started the early part of August. Final prices showed a loss of 92 to 105 points. Southern spot markets reduced quotations half a cent to a cent on sales of only 15,000 pounds.

Though Liverpool prices advanced sharply at one time during the day, action of that market showed that the general unloading of contracts in foreign circles was still in progress. Under the pressure of contracts thrown over by speculative holders, a wild market resulted and was attended by violent price changes. Some idea of the excitement abroad could be obtained from the fact that January contracts sold from 20.82d to 20.12d and ended the session 20 English points below Tuesday's closing. This net loss for the day was taken as an indication of the extensive liquidation and eventually exerted a direct influence on both American markets. Reports from English circles reflected unsettled conditions due to elections there which evidently led many holders to take profits on cotton bought during the sensational advance the past few months. As buying has been on a large scale recently, it was not unnatural that, once started, the move to secure profits could hardly run its course in one day.

At first neither New Orleans nor New York operators appeared to be impressed by what was going on in Liverpool. The local market opened about unchanged, within a range of a few points of Tuesday's closing level. Almost immediately after the call, a rush of buying swept over the ring, lifting May above 36 cents to 36.20 before the upward swing halted. Then with Liverpool steadily losing ground and growing uncertainty over census figures due Saturday, orders to sell cotton poured into the market from every direction. Under a steadily increasing quantity of contracts, prices broke 60 points before reaching a basis of 35.60 for May, where the tone steadied. From this point on fluctuations became feverish and erratic, with frequent sharp price changes and a large volume of business.

It was not until the last hour that the real effects of the enormous liquidation in Liverpool became evident in American markets. Then under a steadily increasing volume of trading prices began to give way definitely. So much cotton came out on every slight rally that room traders threw over contracts accumulated during the day, and quotations ran lower and lower. Shortly before the close both March and May broke through 35 cents, over a cent from early high figures. The whole list closed at the bottom, with the selling movement still in progress.

SEE IMPROVEMENT IN STEEL INDUSTRY

Indications Point to More Active Buying, Says Iron Trade Review Report.

PIG IRON OUTPUT FALLS

Indications point to more active buying in steel, according to the weekly report of the Iron Trade Review, which says: "With the year-end and inventory-taking period at hand, buyers are limiting orders rigidly, but sentiment continues to improve among both buyers and sellers, and confidence in the substantial condition of business, at least over the first quarter and first half, is growing.

"For the first time in a year, pig iron production in November fell below 100,000 tons daily, or 96,378 tons. From the high point in May, pig iron production is down 22.8 per cent. Gross production in November was 2,891,191 tons, against 3,142,642 tons in October. The year needs 1,906,800 tons in December to set a new annual production record for the country, and this assured."

The Iron Age summarizes the situation as follows:

"The main developments of the week are a decline in pig iron output, a further quieting down of pig iron buying, more indication that leading steel producers intend to continue present prices into the new year, and the appearance of the Carnegie Steel Company as a buyer of steel scrap.

"Since there had been no formal Carnegie buying of old material for many months, this week's purchases, while put at but 15,000 tons, have caused no little stir. The stopping of more blast furnaces in the face of the heavy buying of pig iron in the last half of November means that much of the bargain iron sold is already stocked in furnace yards."

Regarding new equipment buying by the railroads, the Iron Age says:

"While the new car and locomotive programs of the railroads hinge on steel prices as well as on what Congress does or refrains from doing, 1924 is already counted on as a great year for trackwork."

COMMODITY PRICES.

Cash Cotton Declines 100 Points —Mixed Changes Elsewhere.

Spot cotton reacted very sharply in yesterday's cash dealings, confusion over the Government crop estimate brought about a heavy market for the future months, which was communicated in turn to middling uplands which declined 100 points to 35.65 cents. Losses were also found in corn and lard, with a slight upturn in wheat and tin. Other provisions, dairy products and metals were steady. Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale district at the close of business Wednesday, a week before, and a year ago:

Buy Them on the Strength of Their Strength!

The chief reason for buying bonds is strength—the chief reason for buying 5½% PRUDENCE-BONDS is more strength—the income-earning properties behind them give them inherent strength—the conservative first mortgages on those properties give them added strength—the rapid terms of loan repayments gives them increasing strength—and finally, the Prudence Guarantee as to interest and principal, gives them that last multiple of strength which answers the great question of safety, for once and for all!

The Greatest Family in the World
are assembling in New York

THE BANK of the MANHATTAN COMPANY extends its greetings to the members of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents who are assembling in New York today and tomorrow for their Seventeenth Annual Convention.

As first thought, this convention suggests merely a formal gathering for the purpose of discussing technical subjects. On second thought, however, it will be realized that these men are public servants whose deliberations are of the highest social significance. The intimate relation of their subject to the welfare of all individuals, American industry and the Nation as a whole, is indicated in the following extract from the first little book in our popular economic series:

The genius of our Nation is the genius of the family. The good of one is the good of all. We rise or fall together. This is equally true of Life Insurance, which is to the very core an American institution. It is to its fast a great clinic in Americanism and this is why it stands as an instinctive against un-American ideals and un-American conceptions of government.

Our Life Insurance family numbers more than forty million members of all ages from a century down, representing every walk in life and every normal type of character and mind.

The family is founded upon permanent and changeless moral and mathematical laws and sound economics, which fact is a sure guarantee of complete security and protection to every member.

The spirit of this family is the fairest and finest in the world. It is a blend of faith, love, loyalty, integrity, intelligence and duty. The family exists for service to others. It is always building, never tearing down. It constructs and conserves, but never destroys. It makes death the servant of life. It is the enemy of disease and poverty and fear. It prolongs the protection of fatherhood and insured the safety of motherhood and childhood, it stabilizes business, strengthens good government, cultivates thrift, encourages enterprise, stimulates progress, insures prosperity. In a word, it stands for our definition of progress: the growing participation of more and more people in more and more of the good things of life.

This remarkable family has gathered together a vast common fund which is large enough to pay twice over the war debt that England owes to the United States. Everyone in the family has put something into this fund and everyone will get his full share out of it. Meanwhile the fund is constantly at work building homes and factories and schools and railroads and doing a thousand things that are of benefit to all the people.

These are verifiable facts. Is it too much to say, therefore, that the history of Life Insurance in the United States is itself a confirmation of the soundness of the American theory and philosophy of government and that the future of America will be determined by the adherence which all the people give to those American ideals which have been practiced so long and successfully by the millions of members of our great Life Insurance family?

LAUDS GROUP SALES BY COTTON GROWERS

THINKS IT WILL SPREAD

Believes Crop Financing Is Destined to Play Big Role in Nation's Economic Life.

Co-operative marketing, although still regarded as in the experimental stage, is destined under wise management to play an exceedingly important part in the nation's economic life, according to Chellis A. Austin, President of the Seaboard National Bank, which recently concluded a financing agreement with cotton growers on behalf of a syndicate. In an article in The Bulletin of the American Acceptance Council, Mr. Austin cites details of the so-called cotton financing agreement. The cotton financing plan is similar in essential respects to plans for co-operative marketing of the wheat crop.

"When the practical details of the agreement recently entered into between the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association and a group of New York and some out-of-town banks were being worked out, there was a mutual desire not only to establish a basis for the credit actually prepared and negotiated, but also, if possible, to lay the foundation for the proper handling of similar transactions in the future," Mr. Austin states. "It was realized that this crop financing, on a broad basis, by banks, trust companies and bankers marked an important step in the history of the co-operative movement."

The agreement entered into by the banks and the farm organization provides that "the syndicate will make revolving loans to the association in such sums as may be required during the marketing season, but not exceeding during the period ending Feb. 1, 1924, the maximum of $10,000,000. During the period ending May 1, 1924, the maximum of such loans shall not exceed $7,000,000, and during the period ending July 1, 1923, the maximum of such loans shall not exceed $3,000,000, all loans to be liquidated not later than July 1, 1924.

Credit in Form of Drafts.

"The credit is extended in the form of drafts at sixty or ninety days' sight, issued by the association and accepted by the members of the banking group; these drafts shall be negotiated in the open discount market.

"In this connection it should be recalled that, under the regulations of the Federal Reserve Board, based in part on the Agricultural Credits act of 1923, bankers' acceptances drawn by co-operative market associations for agricultural purposes and secured by warehouse, terminal or other similar receipts, covering or securing title to readily marketable staples, are eligible for discount and may be purchased by Federal Reserve Banks in the open market with maturities up to six months.

"The problem of providing proper security was solved," Mr. Austin says, by a provision that "security for the loan shall be cotton carefully graded and as carefully insured—such grading and insurance being expressly covered in the agreement—the cotton being stored under the trusteeship of warrants, such storage evidenced by satisfactory negotiable independent warehouse receipts. It is significant that only such grades are accepted as are deliverable against future contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange."

"With the value of the warehoused cotton 20 cents per pound or less (Houston spot market), drafts are issuable to an amount equal to 70 per cent. of the market value." Mr. Austin explains. "This establishes a 14 per cent. basis for drawing drafts with cotton at 20 cents per pound. Whenever the price of cotton shall be above 20 cents per pound, drafts shall be drawn on a gradually ascending basis up to 15 cents, the 15-cent basis being reached when the price of cotton is 25 cents a pound. In no case is the 15-cent basis exceeded. By this scale, a 14.2 cents basis would operate whenever the market value is 22 cents or more per pound, but less than 23 cents and so on up to 25 cents.

"It will be noted that, while 70 per cent. will be loaned on cotton valued at 20 cents a pound or less, the percentage amount loaned decreases steadily as cotton values increase from 20 to 25 cents. The 15-cent basis is given when the market value of cotton is 25 cents is 60 per cent. of that market value. The contract, therefore, provides that the maximum loan shall be 15 cents. In other words, cotton values above 25 cents a pound are not made the occasion for increasing the amount loaned per pound."

Bankers Protected Against Run.

Thus, he points out, bankers are protected against possibility of a sharp run up in cotton prices and a possible reaction later. Were the bankers to advance 70 per cent. on the value of cotton with prices at the peak, a subsequent drop might impair their margin of security to a dangerously low point. Under the present plan of limitation, however, this danger, it is believed, is entirely eliminated, so much so, in fact, that cotton drafts are accepted for discount under the Federal Reserve Board's policies. Another point brought out in Mr. Austin's analysis of the agreement deals with sales. Under the contract, growers are not permitted to hold all their cotton in reserve in the speculative hope of catching the market at the peak, a manoeuvre that frequently brings heavy losses to many farmers.

"Uncertainty about the interpretation of the words, 'orderly marketing,' has not infrequently been considered a weak feature in credits extended to co-operatives," he says. "Under the terms of the agreement between the banking group and the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association, distinct provision is made for progressive sales at reasonable periods, the arrangement being that by far the larger part of the season's cotton crop handled by the association shall have been marketed before the expiration of the first five or six months of 1924, if not earlier. Moreover, the association entered into a contract with the group managers providing for additional sales early in the season, if, in the judgment of the group managers, the market conditions at the time should make such sales advisable."

While Mr. Austin warns that "co-operative marketing never can be a cure-all for the ills of overproduction and inefficient management" and "never can permanently fix prices," he expresses a cheerful view as to its future, "to be successful, as it must be 'precisely and simply what its name implies' and 'not a political movement.'"

"The movement's success, according to Mr. Austin, "will depend upon the results of the widespread and insistent teaching of principles which reason and experience have shown to be sound, and the practice of such principles. And with adherence to the best principles, there must be joined sound business sense in proving to the country at large that the co-operative movement is one with which to reckon."

FINANCIAL NOTES.

S. M. Conger, for many years associated with Chandler & Co., has joined the sales organization of A. M. Lamport & Co.

Noble & Corwin have prepared a history and analysis of Singer Manufacturing Company.

The Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company has been appointed transfer agent of the capital stock of the General Reinsurance Corporation.

A. L. Fuller & Co. have issued a special letter on American Steel Foundries calling attention to its earnings and sound management and the prospects of continued earnings and profits.

An illustrated pamphlet giving facts regarding the City of Tulsa, its finances, &c., has been prepared by Batcheider, Wack & Co.

The Chatham and Phenix National Bank has been appointed trustee of an issue of $2,800,000 15-year 7% first mortgage sinking fund gold bonds of the Cumberland Coal and Iron Company.

REACTION IN WHEAT CUTS RECENT GAINS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—A reaction of ½@⅝ cent in wheat was not surprising in view of the four-day upturn in that grain. Eastern buying was less aggressive, but support was given the market on the dips and, while many of the "Pit" traders looked for a good break and sold rather freely, they met with little success, even though the close was about the bottom.

As a result of the advance in Minneapolis the last few days, over 250,000 bushels of Canadian wheat have been bought to come in, duty paid. Part of it was sourced on the basis of 5 cents over Minneapolis December, f.o.b. Duluth.

Reports on the flour are usually unsatisfactory except from soft Winter wheat mills, which seem to be doing a good business. Winnipeg market acted heavy and closed ¾@⅞ cent lower, with a slow export business.

Recent advances in futures and in Manitoba premiums served to prevent export business, and sales in all positions were estimated at only 250,000 bushels.

Scattered commission house selling was on in the December corn from the start and it closed ½ cent lower, going to 1⅞ cents under May at the last. The deferred delivery finished unchanged. Some new buying has developed recently and houses with southwestern and Omaha connections took the May during the day, while scattered country longs sold, as has been their policy on all minor bulges, while the grain has been taken back on the breaks.

Primary receipts of wheat for the day were 840,000 bushels; week ago, 884,000; last year, 1,494,000. Shipments were 903,000 bushels; week ago, 1,203,000; last year, 1,769,000.

Corn receipts were 1,050,000 bushels; week ago, 1,534,000; last year, 1,327,000 and shipments, 714,000 bushels; week ago, 664,000; last year, 531,000.

Childs Stockholders Approve Change

Stockholders of Childs Co., at a special meeting yesterday approved the proposal of the Board of Directors to change the capital structure of the company. The common stock will be changed from certificates of $100 par value to certificates carrying no par value. A total of 750,000 shares of the latter was authorized. For each share of stock of $100 par value, stockholders will receive five shares of new stock. The stockholders approved the sale of 30,000 shares of new stock which was recently underwritten by a local syndicate.

BRADSTREET INDEX NUMBER.

Computes 2¼% Rise in November, Against Dun's Decrease.

Bradstreet's index number of commodity prices on Dec. 1, which was published yesterday, made a different showing for the month of November than the Dun index number, published the day before. According to Bradstreet, the average of prices advanced 2¼ per cent. during the month and reached on Dec. 1 the highest point reported at the beginning of any month since May 1. This showing is also opposed to Professor Irving Fisher's index number, which on a basis of 100 for the 1913 average reckoned a decline in this year's average from 168 in the first week of April to 151 at the end of November. The different computations use different systems, however, Bradstreet's not being like others, a "weighted average," but purely an average of actual prices at the end of each month.

Bradstreet's average prices in thirteen separate groups of commodities shows that during November declines occurred in seven, including breadstuffs, live stock and hides and leather, while advances occurred in six, including textiles, metals and oils.

July, 1923	13.0893	Dec., 1917	17.8068

EXPECT SHOE SALES TO SHOW LARGE GAIN

Output for Nine Months Put at 270,703,642 Pairs, an Increase of 15 Per Cent.

SMALL MANUFACTURER HIT

Expansion in Business Confined to Big Companies—Note Rapid Changes in Styles.

The shoe industry is expected to show a substantially higher volume of sales this year than in 1922, due largely to the swiftness of changing styles. During the first nine months of 1923 production of boots and shoes in the United States totaled 270,703,642 pairs, an increase of 15 per cent. over the total for the corresponding period of 1922.

The increased output, however, has not been productive of generally higher profits, the expansion in sales being chiefly distributed among a relatively few of the larger companies, according to a survey of conditions by the Standard Daily Trade Service, which states that the smaller manufacturers, broadly speaking, are probably in no better position than in recent loan years.

Although shoe exports form a comparatively insignificant proportion of total manufactures, this branch of the industry showed a large gain during the year. For the ten months ended Oct. 31 exports aggregated 6,182,302 pairs of leather boots and shoes, a jump of nearly 42 per cent. over the figures for a year ago.

Labor Troubles Are Few.

A feature of this year's operations has been the absence of labor troubles among the larger shoe manufacturers, as a consequence of which they have enjoyed a proportionately large share of the increased business. But for the companies whose plants are located in Lynn, Brockton, Haverhill and other highly unionized centres, the year, it is said, will be discouraging from the profit standpoint. In the face of poor sales volume, these manufacturers have had to contend with unauthorized strikes, with demands for higher wages and with general dislocation of production over considerable periods.

The large companies, such as the Brown Shoe Company, Endicott-Johnson Corporation, and the International Shoe Company, have the advantage of lower production costs and therefore of lower selling prices.

Two of the three largest manufacturers produce in their own plants a major portion of the leather required, effecting in this manner a substantial saving on raw material costs. Their plants, moreover, are situated mainly in New York, Illinois and Missouri, where labor conditions are exceptionally favorable compared with the older shoe manufacturing districts of Massachusetts. An added saving comes through lower freight rates to their principal markets.

Available data for each of these companies indicate improvement in sales, compared with 1922. The Brown Shoe Company, for the year ended Oct. 31, 1923, reported sales of $20,679,235, compared with $27,191,698 in the previous year. Endicott-Johnson reported sales in the first six months of 1923 totaling $33,478,179, an increase of 22 per cent. over the figures for the same period of 1922. The International Shoe Company, the largest single manufacturer, which reported sales in the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1922, of $97,366,404, had exceeded that figure for the current year by Oct. 25.

Shifting Styles Form Problem.

The Standard Daily Trade Service finds the two major problems of the shoe industry at this time to be, first, the disproportionately heavy labor costs in the highly unionized districts where the industry has heretofore centred, and, second, shifting styles in women's shoes. What is believed to be the most serious problem for the industry is that of rapidly changing styles. Within recent years women have evinced tendencies to wear low-cut, lightly built shoes. Consequently, the average life of a pair of shoes is much shorter than a few years ago and the volume of sales has increased greatly. But with the increase in sales has come a tendency toward rapid style changes.

Hundreds of styles of women's shoes are now manufactured, and there are sharp changes from season to season, and often from month to month, in the styles in vogue. Consequently, retailers do not buy save for current requirements, and the manufacturers hesitate to produce for the stock. Even with such precautions, manufacturers and retailers are said to lose heavily on out-of-date styles.

ACQUIRES WOLFF FIRM.

New York Interests to Operate Plumbing Supplies Factory.

Control of the Wolff Manufacturing Corporation, producers of plumbing supplies, has passed to local interests, according to advices from Chicago. J. T. Duryea, President of the Pierce, Butler & Pierce Manufacturing Company of this city, has been elected President of the company. Control is now held by the New York Trust Company and S. W. Straus & Co., and the plant will be operated as a unit of the Pierce concern.

The directors have called a special meeting of stockholders for Dec. 18 to authorize a new issue of $2,000,000 preferred stock and 150,000 additional shares of common stock. It is planned to sell $1,500,000 of preferred stock to an underwriting syndicate. This block will not be offered to current stockholders but the latter will be allowed to subscribe for 100,000 shares of the additional no par value common stock at the rate of $6 a share. Common stock not taken by stockholders will be underwritten by a local syndicate.

Record in Steel Production.

What the Weirton Steel Company says is a record for open hearth steel production was achieved at its West Virginia plant in November, when seven furnaces turned out 50,431 gross tons. In March, 1922, this plant made a record of 49,300 tons, and since that time, according to the company, there have been a number of months in which production exceeded 45,000 tons.

Paige-Detroit Dividend 50 Per Cent.

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—A 50 per cent. dividend on capital stock was declared today by the Board of Directors of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company. The dividend is payable to stockholders of record at the close of business Dec. 22, 1923. It is half of the amount declared on Dec. 31 last, when the directors announced a dividend of 100 per cent.

VANDERLIP AGAINST BONUS.

Business Is Going Along on a Steady, Sound Basis, He Says.

Production is going ahead on a steady basis, according to Frank A. Vanderlip, financier and at one time head of the National City Bank, in a statement given out yesterday.

"You need only scan the reports of car loadings to ascertain the trend of business," he said. "There is no overproduction, no overbuying, particularly among retailers, hence there is no overexpansion of credit. Business is moving along on a steady, constructive plane. There has been no buying ahead on the part of the retailers, because these merchants probably have been awaiting lower prices. Lower prices have not materialized, and therefore business goes along on a steady, sound basis.

Factors which might conceivably undermine prosperity, he said, were overhopefulness—a too-exaggerated ideas of the future—and fear of unsound legislation. "If any unsound legislation is enacted," he said, "we are big enough to meet it." He declared he was opposed to the soldiers' bonus because it would mean inflation.

Offers Roosevelt Hotel Bonds.

An issue of $3,500,000 first mortgage leasehold 7 per cent. gold bonds on the Roosevelt Hotel, in the Grand Central Terminal district, is being offered by a syndicate headed by Otis & Co. of Cleveland; Howe, Snow & Dertles, Inc., of Grand Rapids, and Kelley, Drayton & Co. of New York City. The bonds are due Dec. 1, 1943, and are being offered to the public at prices to yield 7 per cent.

Commerce Chamber to Hear Dupuy.

Spirited Bidding in London Wool.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—At the wool auction sales today 10,927 bales were offered. It was a moderate selection, but there was a spirited demand, all sections operating. Secured merinos and Queenslands realized 55½ pence. The best new Zealand greasy crossbreds sold at 28 pence. The auction was adjourned until next Monday.

PLANS A STOCK INCREASE.

Vivaudou, Inc., Proposes Issue of $1,000,000 in Preferred Shares

The directors of Vivaudou, Inc., have decided to authorize, subject to the approval of stockholders, an issue of $1,000,000 of 7 per cent. cumulative convertible preferred stock, which the board expects to use for the payment of dividends on the common stock during the coming year "if in their discretion such action shall be advisable." A meeting of stockholders is expected to be called soon to ratify the action of the directors.

"From a surplus deficit of $322,774.90 on Dec. 31, 1921, due to inventory write-offs the company has built up a surplus of $430,000, after cash dividend disbursements of $450,000 during this year.

Using White Kid for Millinery.

Among the newer factors in the making of reasonable millinery is white kid. In very fine qualities it is being used to a considerable extent with navy blue and black fallie, either making the body of the hat or the trimming. Buyers think well of it either way, from all accounts. One novel use of it seen here is a model showing a six-sectioned peak crown set on a small, front-roll brim, with a short back, made entirely of kid. In a hat showing a similar style of crown all six sections are made of white kid. In still other models the kid is brought out very effectively by the use of all-over trimming motifs worked out in black soutache.

Gray goods trading in this market yesterday was contributed to by second hands. The further break in cotton brought them out with low offerings, and this time buyers took advantage of them. Sales of spot 38½-inch 64-60 print-cloths by second hands were reported at 11 cents, with large trading in 38½-inch 60-48s, for similar delivery, at 9½ cents. Spot 39-inch 68-72s they asked 12⅝ to 12¾ cents, with the amount of business done more or less questionable. Sales of spot 39-inch 80 squares were made at 16⅛ cents. In the sheetings sales were included 36-inch 4.70s at 11¼ cents for spots with 9 cents paid for similar lots of 32-inch 40-square, 6.25-yard goods. First hand asking prices were all above the figures quoted here.

Lower Burlap Prices Expected.

In expectation of lower prices in the near future, buyers of burlaps in this market are doing practically nothing at present. Sellers outnumbered buyers yesterday by a large majority, and the only thing that kept prices from dropping was the rise in sterling exchange. These were the prices quoted here on standard 40-inch goods:

	8-Oz.	10½-Oz.
Spot	5.85c.	7.75c.
December arrival	5.85c	7.60c
January arrival	5.60c	7.40c
December shipment	5.60c	7.30c
January-March shipment	5.50c	7c

Prices at Calcutta have been easing off steadily in the last two or three days, and the general feeling in the local market is that cheaper burlaps are inevitable.

Matter of Retail Price Fixing.

Efforts to urge upon Congress the passing of specific legislation to permit retail price fixing are being watched with considerable interest by retailers and their trade organizations. The arguments that are being put forth in favor of price fixing are being gone over carefully in their relation to actual retail merchandising experience. It cannot be said that retailers en masse are against the proposition, as some store executives have declared to be the case, but most cases, however, the feeling of the retailer apparently is that price fixing imposes an unwarranted restriction upon him in the conduct of his business. It would not be surprising if the largest single association representing retailers were to fight at Washington the price-fixing campaign that has been promised.

Little Doing in Men's Wear.

Strength is given to the growing belief that when the men's wear heavyweight lines are opened the buying will be light by the prospering dullness which has settled on practically all parts of the goods market. Excepting in a few instances, this dullness has been felt by all houses since the showing of the Spring lines. At present it is more sharply defined because of the desire on the part of buyers to do nothing to increase stocks prior to taking inventory. The Spring buying and the retail liquidation of Fall stocks have been severe disappointments to both the clothing manufacturers and the mills. The prediction has been made that "the largest sales of overcoats ever held" are to be staged by retailers, either shortly before or after the holidays. Some returns of overcoats to manufacturers are reported.

They Are Still Undecided.

Petticoat manufacturers, according to a bulletin sent out by the United Petticoat League of America, are undecided whether to give the bulk of their attention to these garments or to those known as Princess slips. The latter, it is pointed out, is essential to the coat dress, which is one of the most convenient garments now in fashion. On the other hand, the suit which, in combination with the lingerie waist, is staging a comeback, demands a petticoat. So does the dress with the lingerie vest. For the Christmas trade there has been a demand for slips for evening wear, especially in the delicate shades of satin and changeable taffeta. In the petticoats one of the newest fancies is the use of some silk material appliqued with embroidery in a pattern suggesting a border of leaves in contrasting colors.

Fancy Cut Diamonds Scarce Here.

Buyers of diamonds for manufacturing purposes report a scarcity in this market of fancy cut diamonds running from two to five carats in weight. This is especially true of the so-called marquis stones, which are being used to a considerable extent in solitaire rings. Good stones cut in this style were said yesterday to range in value from $600 to $1,000 a carat wholesale, with some of the finer ones bringing as much as $1,500 a carat. Emerald cut stones in the two to five carat range are also scarce here, and command prices similar to those asked for marquis diamonds. Pear-shaped gems are difficult to get, too, in the larger sizes, although the demand for them is not so great as that of the other varieties mentioned because they are not suitable for use in solitaire rings. They are used mostly in "drops," necklace clasps, &c.

In the Spring lines of knitted outerwear, which will be opened to the trade on Jan. 2, the jaquette type of garment will predominate. This decision was announced yesterday by the Style Committee of the Knitted Outerwear Distributers' Association, following a recent meeting. The jaquette will be featured in box coats with side tie effects, small collar, button at the neck and also three buttons at the bottom of the garment. The mandarin coat will also be included, this having one or two buttons at the collar, button down front, bell sleeves, tie and button side effects or buckles. The gulmpe dress, as well as one-piece tuxedo effects, will be shown. In knitted suits, the tendency is toward skirts having fancy colored borders. The coats are the box type, in which the side tie or buckle effect will likewise be featured.

Suit Prospects for Spring.

Judging from the enthusiasm voiced regarding women's suits for Spring, there is more than a chance of these garments coming back into favor. It has been a long time since suits have had any marked degree of popularity, although at the beginning of every season, just as is the case now, the adherents of the suit vogue see its gaining headway. It seems, however, that more manufacturers will make suits for the coming Spring, this alone indicating more confidence than has been the case. Then there is the larger variety of models to which the increased number of manufacturers contribute. This should make for a larger degree of consumer interest and make the buyers' choice easier. Tailored versions are spoken of very favorably in the market. Sport suits are expected to have their share of attention in a sports season.

Sees No Gain in Holding Off.

Manufacturers of Summer dresses and frocks are doing very little buying of the cottons and linens which they will need in making up their new lines. So strongly is the policy of holding off being maintained, according to a prominent importer and converter, that it may act as a boomerang. "These manufacturers can gain nothing by their policy of not buying now," asserted this executive yesterday. "We are selling our goods on the basis of 27 cent cotton, rather than the present market, and it may be said generally that the goods market is not on the basis of raw cotton costs. Yet the cutters are not placing any business. I called on eight of the leading local makers of Summer dresses and could not sell them a nickel's worth of goods. Ordinarily they would be well covered by this time. What will the result be? As I see it, there will be a concerted rush to buy later, at today's goods prices or maybe higher, and there will not be enough of the desirable goods to go around."

VETERANS' BUREAU TO BE REORGANIZED

PREPARING PROSECUTIONS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Complete reorganization of the Central Board of Appeals of the Veterans' Bureau in order to expedite the hearing and adjudication of claims was announced today by Director Hines as one of the first steps in a general readjustment of bureau activities.

Another change announced in the organization was the creation of a finance service, with separate divisions of disbursing and accounting, headed by Harold W. Breining, an assistant director of the bureau.

The primary purpose of the general plan of reorganization, Director Hines explained, is to relieve him of much detail and permit him to give greater attention to the planning and controling of the bureau's operations.

The personnel of the Central Board of Appeals is to be increased from seven to seventeen members, divided into four sections, with one Chairman over all. While one section is hearing cases of claimants the other three, it was said, will carry forward without the interruption necessary under the present system, the consideration and disposition of cases already heard.

Director Hines said the new arrangement would be put into effect within ten days, and that he thought it would be possible thereby to review probably 50,000 cases in the first year.

The new plan, he said, contemplates giving every claimant a full hearing, with counsel to be provided in all cases where this is asked. Five drafing sections to prepare briefs from the records of claimants appealing their cases is another feature of the plan.

Another reorganization step to be taken in the near future, the director said, will be the consolidation of the insurance and claims divisions under a single head.

In view of Attorney General Daugherty's announcement that the Department of Justice will investigate all charges of irregularities in the administration of the Veterans' Bureau, the Senate Veterans' Committee will withhold from publication the testimony of Mrs. Katherine Mortimer of Philadelphia, and other evidence adduced privately which may be useful in any criminal prosecutions that may be undertaken.

Also the committee has decided against granting a public hearing to Mrs. Mortimer, who is the wife of Elias H. Mortimer, chief witness before the committee against Charles R. Forbes, former director of the bureau. Mrs. Mortimer requested such a hearing near the close of the public hearings last month, some two weeks after she had given her statement to the committee in private at her own request.

After a recess of more than a week, the Senate committee was called today for a public session for the admission to the public record of certain documentary evidence. It plans to hold frequent business sessions to consider additional reforms in administrative methods in the bureau and to formulate its formal report to the Senate. The present outlook is that the report will not be ready for several weeks.

Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan and Davis G. Arnold of New York, counsel for the committee, have under advisement the invitation of Attorney General Daugherty to accept appointments as special assistants to the Attorney General to aid Assistant Attorney General John W. H. Crim in the Veterans' Bureau investigation.

NEW 5TH AVENUE PROJECT.

Plans are being prepared for the erection of a modern apartment house on the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Fourteenth Street, according to an announcement yesterday by David H. Knott, former Deputy Sheriff, who is President of the Central Mercantile Bank, which occupies the ground floor of the corner building now on the property.

The plan is to raze the building on the corner, which has a frontage of 132 feet on Fifth Avenue, and also the one directly to the rear fronting on Fourteenth Street, making the Fourteenth Street frontage 92 feet.

The bank will continue to occupy the corner of the building.

EAST SIDE HOUSES SOLD.

Studio Buildings Near Madison Avenue Were Held at $275,000.

Bernard A. Ottenberg and Roy Foster have added to their extensive holdings on Madison Avenue and vicinity by purchasing from Samuel J. Flash the property at 47, 49 and 51 East Fifty-ninth Street, between Madison and Park Avenues. The structures are five stories and occupy a plot 50 by 100 feet.

The first two floors of these buildings are now used for stores, while the remaining portion consists of twenty-four studio apartments. The property rents for $36,000 annually and was held at $275,000.

A resale of the premises is pending, according to the Herbert Hecht Company, brokers, who negotiated the transaction.

BIG WEST SIDE PROJECT.

Plot Assembled for Sixteen-Story Mercantile Building.

Dr. Frederick Whiting sold to the Karolyna Company, Ltd., the property at 19 West Forty-seventh Street, consisting of a four-story and basement dwelling on a plot 25 by 98.9 feet. The property was held at $125,000. This purchase completes a building plot of 100 by 98.9 feet, the Karolyna Company having bought within the past six months of the same firm of brokers the houses at 13, 15 and 17 West Forty-seventh Street. On this plot will be erected a sixteen-story mercantile building in the near future. Frederick Fox & Co. were the brokers.

$210,000 Loan Placed.

Childs & Humphries negotiated a first mortgage of $210,000 at 5½ per cent. for a term of years on the nine-story apartment house at 139 East Sixty-sixth Street for Brixton Holding Company. The property has a frontage of 60 feet and a depth of 100 feet and is located between Lexington and Third Avenues.

Crest Court in Resale.

David B. Bartelstone has resold Crest Court at 656 West 162d Street, a six-story modern elevator apartment house, on a plot 125 by 100, which he recently purchased. The buyer is the Empire City Realtors Corporation, with Joseph L. Lefcowitz, Harry G. Guttman and Abraham Wertheim as directors. They property rents for $45,600 and was held at $290,000.

Lease West Side Garage.

The J & E Realty Corporation leased for the Wacht Construction Company the garage they built at 545 West Fifty-seventh Street, size 75 by 100, for a term of twenty-one years.

Kept Babes While Mothers Voted.

MERIDEN, Conn., Dec. 5.—Mothers who desired to vote in the municipal election yesterday but hesitated because they thought they could not leave their children, were assisted by the League of Republican Women Voters, which had rooms where babies could be "parked." A nurse was at each room and children of all ages were entertained while mothers went to the booths and voted.

PRIVATE HOUSE BUYERS.

Trading Indicates Demand for Small Dwellings.

M. & L. Hess, Inc., sold for William J. Toumey the three-story private dwelling, 19 by 95, at 419 Lexington Avenue, to E. Harmon. The property was held at $150,000.

The Houghton Company sold for Lucretia C. and Stella N. Stone the three-story brownstone front dwelling, 41 West Ninety-sixth Street, on a lot 21 by 101.10, to an investing client.

To Alter Cross Residence.

Sidney L. Warsawer sold for Mrs. C. Vanderbilt Cross her five-story residence at 24 West Fifty-sixth Street, on a plot 22 by 100, to John Lucas, who will house his millinery establishment there after extensive alterations.

This dwelling has been the home of Mrs. Cross for a great many years, the development of the street for high-class business purposes forcing her to give it up. The property was held at $110,000.

Loton Slawson Sells Residence.

Loton H. Slawson sold through Chauncey B. Griffen his residence in Lyon Place, White Plains, N. Y., to William B. Tucker, a New York lawyer. The house was known as the old Waller property and had been occupied by Mr. Slawson until his purchase of an apartment in the co-operative building at 108 East Eighty-sixth Street, which is under his management.

$279,000 Mortgage Loan.

William A. White & Sons have negotiated a mortgage of $279,000 at 5 per cent. for five years on the property at 185 and 187 Broadway. This is a six-story store and office building owned by Herbert W. Hanan with the ground floor occupied by one of the Hanan & Sons stores.

Estate Sells on Sixth Avenue.

The estate of Aaron I. Jacobs sold 403 Sixth Avenue, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Streets, a business and store building, to Jacob H. Matsus. Negotiations are pending for a resale to a buyer who will operate a lunch room. Samuel Hoffman negotiated the deal.

Another Fieldston Plot Sold.

Operators Purchase Grand Concourse House, Held at $275,000

Isidore Zimmermann, Samuel Rennick and Frank Locker purchased the five-and-one-half-story apartment house at 1,362 Grand Concourse, south of 170th Street, from the Ruthie Realty Company, J. Solomon, President. The building is on a plot 100 by 100 feet, rents for $45,000 annually and has been held at $275,000. I. Bleier was the broker.

The Johnson-Deichsel Building Company, Inc., purchased the plot of lots at the corner of Mosholu Parkway North and Kossuth Avenue, being 75 feet on the Parkway, 200 feet on Kossuth Avenue and 75 feet on 208th Street, upon which there will be erected two five-story apartment houses of 75 by 100. Plans are now being prepared by Charles Kreymborg and the houses will be ready for occupancy this coming Fall.

The H. & E. Realty Company, Inc., purchased from the Calnes-Roberts Company the northeasterly corner of Seneca Avenue and Irvine Street, being a plot of 100 feet on Irvine Street and 65 feet on Seneca Avenue. With this purchase the purchaser now controls almost the entire block on Hunts Point Avenue, consisting of 212 feet, which is occupied as a taxpayer, accommodating seventeen stores, and has 114 feet on Seneca Avenue and 100 feet on Irvine Street. The purchaser is preparing plans for the erection of a garage which will accommodate over 300 cars. Wacht & Cohen represented the purchaser.

Schwab & Co. sold the vacant plot on the southwest corner of Webster Avenue and 182d Street, 120 by 95, for Washington L. Folin to a builder who will improve with a two-story public garage.

E. Osborne Smith, Inc., sold for Camilla Nielson the northeast corner of Grand Avenue and 174th Street, 50 by 100, to a client for immediate improvement with a five-story apartment.

The same broker sold for John Kadel the southeast corner of Clay Avenue and 169th Street, 84 by 100.

Walter E. Brown and Sonneborn Company sold for Elizabeth N. Childs et al. the northeast corner of Washington Avenue and East 164th Street, known as 986, 988 and 990 Washington Avenues and 489 East 164th Street, consisting of three one-family frame houses and one three-story frame store and dwelling, on a plot 50 by 83, to a client for investment. This is the first sale of this property in over thirty years and it was held at $30,000.

Max Epstein sold for Adolf Hofsas to an investor 2,253 Ryer Avenue, near 182d Street, a five-story walk-up, 50 by 85, having a rental of about $11,000 and which was held at $75,000.

West Side Sale Reported.

According to a report in circulation, the twelve-story building at 218 to 232 West Fortieth Street, recently completed by Frank & Frank and valued at about $1,600,000, has passed to new owners. The building is on a plot 125.9 by 98.9 feet, between Seventh and Eighth Avenues, and will return an annual rental of about $200,000. Frank & Frank, the builders, would neither admit nor deny yesterday that the property had been sold.

Witmark Building in Long Lease.

The Morwit Realty Corporation leased to Benno Gutmann 144 and 146 West Thirty-seventh Street for a period of twenty-one years. The property was built and occupied by M. Witmark & Sons, music publishers, and was recently sold to the present owners. Extensive alterations will be made by the lessee. The ground floor will be used by the tenant for restaurant purposes. Rosenberg-Colt were the brokers in the transaction. Nathan H. Stone represented the lessor.

$9,305,330 IN LOANS.

Metropolitan Life Finances 447 Dwellings to Accommodate 521 Families.

Loans on bond and mortage amounting to $9,305,330 were authorized by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company yesterday. Of this amount $7,718,280 were city loans and $1,587,050 were farm loans.

The city loans were for 447 dwellings to accommodate 521 families and 48 apartments to accommodate 661 families, the total housing loans thus to accommodate 1,182 families, the amounts of the housing loans being $8,993,280. There were eight loans for business buildings, amounting to $3,725,000.

The housing loans were scattered in twenty States, the principal amounts being: In Kentucky, $140,000; Washington, D. C., $241,000; Toledo, Ohio, $124,900; South Bend, Ind., $101,100; Detroit and suburbs, $352,000; Chicago and suburbs, $244,400; Kansas City and suburbs, $147,850; Los Angeles and suburbs, $447,100; New York and Brooklyn and near-by suburbs, $1,200,000.

The farm loans were also in twenty States, principally in the South and Middle West.

THE BROOKLYN MARKET.

Four Four-Family Houses Sold by Builders.

Clients of Gustave Poaner have purchased from the builders four four-family houses in course of construction, each of which is on plot 30 by 100 feet and is built 22 by 80 feet, leaving a driveway of sixteen feet wide, on the south side of Seventy-sixth Street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth Avenues, and are near the new public school recently completed.

The houses will be ready for occupancy on Feb. 1, 1924, and were held by the builders at $90,000. The brokers in the transaction were Jolles & Polacoff.

The premises 71 Lynch Street, a three-story brick two-family house, was sold for Manahan & Burkehardt to Sarah Berkowitz, who will alter and occupy. The broker was George F. Ganzle.

Bulkley & Horton Company sold the vacant lot, 25 by 100, at 225 Vanderbilt Avenue, between Willoughby and De Kalb Avenues, for F. W. Linn to a client for improvement.

Realty Notes.

James Boyd has secured a first mortgage of $87,000 at 5½ per cent. for three years for the Minaret Building Company on the five-story buildings, at 39 to 43 West Sixtieth Street.

Pease & Illman sold for a syndicate headed by J. E. R. Carpenter, the architect, an apartment in the house under construction at 1,060 Park Avenue, the northwest corner of Eighty-seventh Street, to John D. Beals Jr.

Culver & Co. sold an apartment in the new 100 per cent. joint ownership apartment building which the Joint-Ownership Construction Company, Inc., is going to erect at 416 East Fifty-seventh Street, to Miss Alice M. Simpson.

Mandel-Ehrich Corp. Sells.

The Mandel-Ehrich Corporation sold 27 East Fifty-seventh Street to an investor. This is the fourth property in this street disposed of by this corporation, which still has No. 40.

Last of Tabb Tract Sold.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 5.—The storm that was central over Kentucky Tuesday night has increased in intensity and moved slowly northeastward, its centre being over West Virginia Wednesday night. This storm has been attended by general rain east of the Mississippi River, excepting Wisconsin and Northern Michigan, and by strong southeast winds along the Atlantic coast north of Cape Hatteras. Atlantic City, N. J., reporting a maximum velocity of sixty miles an hour. Another storm of considerable intensity is approaching the North Pacific coast and rain has already set in over the North Pacific States. The temperature was somewhat higher Wednesday in the Middle Atlantic States and Southern New England and it was lower in the East Gulf and South Atlantic States and the Far Northwest.

The storm centred over West Virginia will move northeastward and be attended by rain Thursday in the upper Ohio Valley and the lower lake region and the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States. Following the passage of this storm generally fair weather will prevail Thursday and Friday in the lower Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the East Gulf and South Atlantic States and in the upper Ohio Valley, the lower lake region and the Middle Atlantic States Friday. Rain or snow is probable Friday in portions of Northern New England and Northern New York.

The weather will become colder in the lower lake region, the upper Ohio Valley and in the Atlantic States south of New England Thursday and in New England Thursday night or Friday. Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic Coast from Cape Hatteras to Eastport, Me.

STORM WARNING.

Advisory 8 P. M. warnings now displayed Cape Hatteras to Eastport, Me.

Storm of marked intensity central over West Virginia moving northeastward will be attended by southeast shifting to south and southwest winds and probably gales.

CROOKS DEFRAUD SERBS OF NEARLY $1,000,000

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—Three international crooks have been arrested in Paris on charges of defrauding the Serbian Government of 3975,000. They are Garoin, Colin and Moulis.

The men advertised covertly that they were in possession of half a million German Mauser rifles, which, despite the vigilance of the Armament Control Commission, they smuggled out of Germany to neutral countries.

Last year the Serbian Government, wishing to complete its armament, commissioned the Slav Bank of Belgrade to buy for it half a million rifles. The bank, through it's president, negotiated with Garoin and his partners, and ended by buying the alleged stock of arms. Checks to cover the negotiation were drawn on the bank of Belgrade, and Garoin put up 500,000 francs as a guarantee of delivery on time. The amount was then paid.

Then the Serbian negotiator discovered that the papers were false and placed a complaint against the three men.

In view of the fact that the Serbian Government is a member of the little Entente it is said here that the crooks displayed little discretion in attempting to defraud it.

Wheelwright Rallies From Wound.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5.—Clarence Watson Wheelwright, who was taken to a hospital yesterday with a pistol wound in the body, was said today to be greatly improved. Mrs. Wheelwright and friends of the family say they are convinced that the shooting was an accident. Police also hold the accident theory.

Has Given 70 Pints of Blood.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 5.—George Yusko of this city has given seventy pints of his blood in transfusion operations at the New Haven Hospital, it was stated there today. It is believed that this is a record without equal in this country.

White Collars and Overalls

To rightly gauge the buying power of today and divert it to your profit, require fresh vision in advertising appeal and in marketing methods.

Federal will be glad to consult with advertisers who are not quite sure that their messages are being directed to the proper audiences. And for those who are sure, we mark the invitation "Urgent!"

The single further step used in mellowing Phenix Club Cheese gives to loaf cheese a tantalizing difference that makes your guests ask: "Is this a new kind of cheese?"

Serve it whenever you wish to honor a guest

When the presence of a particular guest requires a special distinction, a choiceness in everything you serve. Then—choose for your cheese course the cheese that is served in places famous for their excellent cuisine.

A few years ago, Phenix, expert cheesemakers with forty years of experience in making cheese of rare full flavor, perfected a new way of mellowing cheese. A single further step undreamt of by earlier cheesemakers which gave to American, Swiss, Pimiento and Brick a rich smoothness and creaminess, a particular deliciousness never before obtained in these familiar varieties.

The special cheese that resulted from this new method, they have put up in the popular new loaf form and called Phenix Club Cheese. It is richer, smoother, and creamier than similar cheeses you have tried.

Now this new cheese delicacy is being served wherever people wish to honor their guests. And people everywhere are saying that Phenix Club Cheese is a revelation of how good American, Pimiento, Swiss and Brick Cheese can be.

This new loaf cheese can be had at your regular grocery, delicatessen or dairy. Try it yourself for suppers, for luncheons or teas. Or put it in the children's sandwiches. You will find you will never wish to be without it. Phenix Cheese Company, 345 Greenwich Street, New York City, N. Y.

Only the best cheese is selected for this new way of mellowing that makes Phenix Club Cheese the richer, creamier loaf cheese.
